A Calves' Paradise
Manna for Bankers
This Is Not Quite Russia

—By Arthur Brisbane—

HEARST RANCH, San Simeon, Cal., April 14—The flowers here are extraordinary, roses, white, yellow, deep red, as big as one of Governor Smith's brown derbies.

But farmers would be more interested in the hay than in the flowers. This ranch, of more than 200,000 acres, includes thousands of acres of such pasture as the average farmer has never seen or imagined. The rich grass is now higher than the horses' knees, and the wild oats higher than the grass.

The 2500 white-faced Hereford calves, soon to be branded, live in an earthly paradise, as perfect for them as the Garden of Eden for Adam and Eve.

In a few days, the oats, that seed themselves every year, will be almost ripe, and the rainy season ended. The oats are mowed, before the grain is ripe enough to fall, and piled in windrows, to wait, with no grain falling, to supply cows, calves and steers with abundant rich food through the summer, after the grass dries.

Farmers, like the writer, that must plough and replant hay every two or three years in New Jersey, or irrigate desert alfalfa with one million pounds of water for every ton harvested, can appreciate such a ranch as this.

The yearling steers weigh nearly a thousand pounds on the average, and supply the demand for baby beef, and, more fortunate than ourselves, they die without pain, or worry as to where they go, next.

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve says the bank will fight "deflation," which means falling prices, by heavy buying of government securities.

Already the Federal Reserve has bought two hundred and fifty millions of the nation's securities, and the buying may continue until it reaches a billion.

This will give member banks a chance to change government securities for cash. If they put it in circulation, that will help. If they sit on it, to increase their "liquidity," that will be not so very good.

What is the difference between a government bond and money printed by the Federal Reserve? No difference, since each gets all its value from the government's promise to pay. The people pay interest on the bonds, money that need not be thus wasted, if the government would print what money it needs, discreetly and without the dreaded "inflation."

Human beings are much alike, on the Potomac or the rivers of Russia. Russia in trouble decided to take everything for the government, and run all the nation's business.

Our thoughtful radicals feel that a better plan is to let the few big men get it first, and then take it away from them, thus avoiding the Russian method, but not by more than half an inch.

A Mexican orator, in a speech furiously applauded, told his enthusiastic hearers, "I may not be able to make you rich, but I promise to make the rich as poor as you are." Loud applause, but the plan has not helped Mexico's finances.

The present American plan, appropriately, is that of the American Eagle himself. That noble bird likes fish and all meat, but according to ornithologists, does little hunting on his own account.

He sits, watchful, until some other bird comes along, a fish hawk with a big fish, or some other bird with a rabbit or field mouse, then the American eagle swoops down and takes away the loot. The big industrialist or manufacturer is to play the part of fish hawk to Uncle Sam's eagle.

Tickets for the Olympic games in Los Angeles are now on sale. Fred S. McCarger of the Salinas Chamber of Commerce invites you to come to the games through Northern California, stopping on the way going or coming to see the Salinas rodeo, July 23 to 24.

Those that visit California for the first time, they will number tens of thousands, should not fail to see San Francisco, the Golden Gate, Monterey Peninsula, the big trees and all this coast as far north as Seattle. Good roads and good trains make it easy.

William Jeffery, president of the Northern California Hotel Association, and his associates urge you to come into California through the Nevada and Oregon gateways, thus seeing the national parks, the San Francisco and Oakland bay area and all the other wonders. Come as you please, but do not fail to come if you can, and forget your troubles for a while.

How shall we mourn? Our race has done it, in curious ways.

Honolulu, April 14 (INS)—Clarence Darrow, one of the greatest lawyers of modern times, today moved to the center of the arena to fight for the acquittal of Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, American society woman, and the three naval men accused of the "honor slaying" of a native.

Darrow has tenaciously refused to give an inkling of what course he will pursue. It was learned that he may even waive the right to make an opening statement to the polyglot jury.

That he will make no routine effort to disprove the almost airtight circumstantial case that Prosecutor John C. Kelley has built seemed obvious from the casual interest of the defense in the cross-examination of the government's swift parade of witnesses.

Kelley announced that his case would be completed after Mrs. Esther Anita, mother of Joseph Kahahawai, takes the stand along with Joseph Kahahawai, Sr., the father, and two minor witnesses. The Kahahawais have been separated for years.

$4000 Cornhill Theft Puzzles Police, as 7 Clerks Were Nearby at the Time

Theft of a tray of 77 diamond rings valued at more than $4000, during an auction at the Collateral Loan Co., 75 Cornhill, at a time when seven employes and about 40 other persons were in the place, was reported to police headquarters today.

Police were mystified because the rings were under the watch of trusted clerks and were at within reach of any outsiders.

The rings were with other trays of gems behind a counter in the auction room on the second floor of the establishment.

Police Inspectors Timothy F. Donovan and J. D. Hawes were assigned.

The rings were missed at closing time last night, but officials of the company at first felt they had been mislaid or transferred to other trays.

When it was definitely ascertained they had been stolen a report was made to the police.

Conducting his own defense from the prisoner's cage, without aid of a lawyer, William E. "Bad Willie" Gray, alleged gunman and robber, today turned his trial in Suffolk Superior Court into a fantastic spectigle.

Repeatedly he was on his feet, shouting objections to Judge Sisk about remarks by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, who, in his opening remarks to the jury, related the story of Gray's escape from Charles Street Jail.

After his alleged confession to robbery and a gun duel in Allston with Philip Sweeney, railroad policeman, was identified and read, Gray took Police Stenographer Augustus Gill in hand and fired rapid questions at him, in cross-examination.

It was the first time since the trial of James E. ("Lone Wolf") Walters that Boston courtroom spectators had been treated to frequent outbursts from a prisoner.

Guarding Gray from a seat just outside the cage was "Honeyboy" Finnegan, former boxer, who was on his feet each time Gray rose. Six court officers stood at other vantage points.

On trial with Gray was John J. Foley, who sat beside him in the prisoners' cage, with another court officer sitting near him.

Gray is charged with robbing Thomas Artesani of $50 in a Cambridge st., Allston, store, assault with a dangerous weapon on Artesani and assault with intent to kill Officer Sweeney.

BIG MYSTERY SHIP CIRCLES OVER AUTO ON BEACH

Belief That It May Contain Lindbergh Spreads Like Wildfire All Over Cape

Latest Developments

1—In bad flying weather, a commercial seaplane coursed the air on a mysterious mission over Cape Cod, Cuttyhunk, Marthas Vineyard and their waters today. It made a contact with an automobile on the Falmouth shore, was sighted over Hyannis, Woods Hole, Buzzards Bay, and Gay Head. A flurry of excitement swept the Cape area. The Associated Press from Vineyard Haven said residents of the island believed the plane carried Col. Lindbergh.

2—There had been previous indications the path was being cleared for the kidnapers in the region where the baby would have been returned on April 3 after payment of the $50,000 ransom. Federal agents suddenly suspended their operations. The patrol of small coast guard craft was withdrawn inside Cuttyhunk Island.

3—Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the infamous $50,000 double-cross, continued to be secretly active and showed signs of strain. He comes and goes mysteriously at his New York home. Col. Lindbergh apparently still has faith in his efforts.

4—John H. Curtis and Admiral Burrage, of the Norfolk trio of negotiators, are still "missing," and the third member, Dean Dobson-Peacock, says: "If I told all I knew you would have optimistic news, indeed." But there is no hint that Col. Lindbergh places any more faith in the Norfolk angle than he ever did.

BULLETIN

The mystery plane flying over Cape Cod today was identified by the Boston Evening American as the amphibian 2X-3, from the naval station in Newport, R. I., flying under secret orders from the War College. It made one landing in Wauquoit Bay, where a week ago a yacht was seen to land a man and a woman at dusk.

MYSTERY MOVES KEEP LINDY BABY HUNT ALIVE

RANSOM BILL IS FOUND IN N.Y.; NO TRAIL

"Jafsie" Says Kidnapers Are Shrewdest Band Ever Organized in This Country

Trenton, N. J., April 14—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today apparently continued to place his principal reliance for the recovery of his kidnaped infant son in his own intermediaries who are seeking to establish contact with the abductors.

Harry Fleischer, member of Detroit's Purple gang, again was projected into the center of the investigation today with advices that he was positively identified as having been in St. John, N. B.

LINDBERGH AT HOME.

Before that, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, who has sought Fleischer for questioning since the baby was stolen March 1, announced he had asked the Northwest mounted police of Canada to aid in the search for the gangster.

Dr. J. F. Condon, 72-year-old educator who paid a $50,000 ransom to supposed kidnapers of the baby, told reporters today that in his opinion the kidnaping comprises the shrewdest band ever organized in this country.

About noon he walked from his Bronx home to a nearby drugstore and bought 100 stamps he said were for replies to letters he received about the kidnaping. Reporters besieged him with questions, one being whether he thought the kidnapers were local men because they seemed so familiar with the Bronx.

"I can't answer that 'yes' or 'no,'" he replied, "but I want to tell you we are fighting against the shrewdest band ever organized in the United States."

QUOTES BLUEBIRD TALE

He refused to answer many questions at all and replied to others only with bits of poetry mostly seemed to have no bearing on the case.

Asked about the possible value of leads from abroad he told the reporters the story of the bluebird of happiness, which was sought far and wide by two children, who at length returned discouraged to their home, only to find the bluebird awaiting them on their own doorstep.

Lindbergh was at his home at on Sourland Mountain, near Hopewell, N. J., today, from where Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was stolen from his nursery.

He was reported absent for almost the whole day yesterday, but he was not seen to leave or return.

CURTIS MEETS LINDBERGH

Schwarzkopf officially reported that John H. Curtis, one of the three Norfolk negotiators, conferred with Lindbergh.

Curtis, who with Rear-Admiral Guy H. Burrage and the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock have been, like Dr. Condon, attempting to make contact with the kidnapers, left Norfolk on a mysterious trip several days ago.

When he failed to visit Lindbergh within a day afterward, his associates reported he had evidently was engaged in establishing communication with the kidnapers or their agents before going to Hopewell.

Persons who executed a $50,000 hoax on Col. Lindbergh falsely promising to return his stolen baby already have begun to spend the money, that much is definite—but tracing the cash to the criminals is proving most difficult.

A $20 bill turned over to a mysterious individual in a Bronx cemetery by "Jafsie" came to light yesterday in the possession of David Isaacs, retired clothing merchant of New York. He obtained it from a branch of the East River Savings Bank of New York, where it was paid either April 4 or 5, two or three days after the ransom transaction.

On April 4 and 5 many hundreds of deposits were made at the bank branch—so the discovery of the bill helped little.

Conflicting reports that Fleischer had fled to Halifax to whip to England and that he had been killed in upstate New York gave police plenty an check. Fleischer is wanted for questions about his movements at the time of the abduction.

WAY MADE CLEAR IN NEW CONTACT FOR BABY

Nantucket sounds and the islands of Cuttyhunk and Marthas Vineyard a mysterious seaplane flew today on a mission believed connected with the Lindbergh case.

It was bad flying weather and the appearances and disappearances of the ship caused a flurry of excitement in the region where, on April 3, Col. Lindbergh flew in a similar plane hoping to recover his kidnaped baby from persons to whom he had paid $50,000.

The Associated Press from Vineyard Haven said residents of Martha's Vineyard "were prone to believe the plane carried Col. Lindbergh." There was no corroboration of this from Hopewell, N. J.

Once the plane circled an automobile parked near the water in Falmouth, apparently exchanging a signal. The car, of the description of that in which two women waited on Marthas Vineyard on April 3 to take the baby from a boat from Rum Row off No Man's Land, immediately afterward headed down the Cape, as did the plane.

WOMAN IN CAR

Police sought the car, said to have contained at least two persons, one a woman. The plane later was sighted over Hyannis, still later back at Falmouth and Woods Hole, flying low over the Wild Harbor estate owned by a New York rum syndicate.

Its appearance followed two phone calls from New York, one last night and one early this morning, received at the Woods Hole Coast Guard station from an unidentified person asking the condition of the sea and weather in the area.

It also followed certain indications that the path for surrender of the baby was being cleared of conditions that might result in another failure of the kidnapers to keep a rendezvous.

Federal agents suddenly suspended their activities at midnight and the belief prevailed that another crisis in the negotiations was at hand and the kidnapers had again agreed to attempt surrender of the child.

WATCHED BY POLICE

Department of Justice and treasury agents and police along the Cape watched the activities of the mystery plane today.

Police Chief Mercer in Falmouth had five men stationed on promontories with binoculars following its movements.

The plane was first reported about 9:15 flying over Buzzards Bay from the direction of Long Island Sound. Although it flew at extremely low altitude, it passed through heavy banks of fog at intervals but its license number was not discernible from the ground.

It descended to about 500 feet over Falmouth after passing in shore close to the north side of Cuttyhunk Island where Lindbergh landed 11 days ago.

A woman resident of Surf drive reported to Chief Mercer that the plane dipped still lower and circled a tan car parked at Surf drive and Shore st. Both plane and car then speeded away.

Ida Small at the fire tower in West Falmouth reported to Sergt. Roy Conant that the flying ship moved slowly over Wild Harbor.

DANGEROUS CONDITIONS

Flying conditions were dangerous and ordinarily in such conditions there would be no activity in the air off the Vineyard. There was a spotty haze, heavy in most sections and the sea was very rough although the wind had moderated.

The coast guard station at Gay Head first sighted the plane coming from the westward (direction of Long Island Sound) when it was about over Vineyard lightship, apparently taking a bearing.

It swung south of Cuttyhunk at low altitude, its numbers obscured in the haze, and passed over Gay Head and Chilmark at 1000 feet. It appeared to be red or orange and coast guardsmen at Gay Head said it was a commercial plane.

It turned due west over the sea on the south side of the island and headed toward Muskeget Island and Nantucket, being quickly lost to view in the haze.

A few minutes before it had been sighted over the lightship, a coast guard destroyer was seen speeding in from sea, north of No Man's Land Island.

It turned sharply in its course and steamed up the south shore of the Vineyard following the general direction of the plane. A man who watched it with binoculars from Cuttyhunk said it was traveling at full speed.

MYSTERIOUS HALT

Before the appearance of the plane and the destroyer there had been a mysterious halt in federal activities giving rise to the belief that new contacts reported from New York had caused a clearing of the path for the kidnapers for another attempt to recover the baby.

Federal investigators working on the kidnaping had been directing their attention principally — until the sudden halt early today — toward the two mysterious women seen on the dock at Edgartown, as re ealed exclusively in the Boston Evening American.

The women are believed to have been waiting Sunday for the baby to be brought in on a boat from Rum Row, after which they were to drive the child, in a tan sedan, 22 miles across the island to Gay Head, and there board a small boat which would take them out to Lindbergh's amphibian plane.

Coast Guard concentration in those waters, as the result of regular patrol work and an SOS sent out by the collier William C. Atwater late on Saturday, April 2—together with the wild sea that was running—are believed to have blocked the baby's return.

The Cuttyhunk station also reported that not a single craft, large or small, passed through Vineyard Sound during the night, but was beaten by conditions and turned back again.

Likewise, Ralph Wood, caretaker at No Man's Land, and his son, were disappointed in their hope that they might get back to the island from New Bedford, where they have been held four days, with their boat, the Fill, as the result of rough weather. His boat has been searched twice by customs officials since he has been in New Bedford.

It was Wood who gave information to federal investigators about the flounder dragger Alva, aboard which a Lindbergh ransom note was declared to have made a mysterious trip a week ago Sunday. Search of the ship for such emissary aboard his craft, however, has been denied by Capt. Joseph Rocha.

Search was being made today for five men, who said they were the crew of the schooner Sam and Priscilla and who rowed ashore at Cuttyhunk last Saturday morning with a report that their schooner had hit an obstacle off Sow and Pigs Reef and had foundered in 32 feet of water.

When coast guards approached to offer the men aid, the five hastily smashed several bottles of liquor that were in their dory. They asked for Tom Conell, a nephew of John Eals, a sought-for accountance of Col. John F. "Jafsie" Condon of New York.

Cornell was offered their salvaged dory by the five who said he would take them to the mainland. He landed them at Fairhaven, where they disappeared.

AIRPLANES CHECKED

Believing that the men might have been Eals, Cornell later reported the affair to customs officials at New Bedford and Agent William M. Fitzgerald, after checking on the sunken schooner, said today he believed it to be the schooner Overland, a 54 ft. boat which has been engaged in rum-running occasionally.

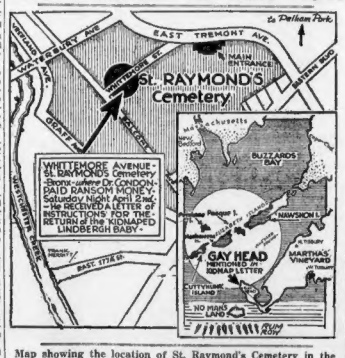
It was John Eals for whom Dr. Condon, "go-between" for Col. Lindbergh in the $50,000 ransom payments to the kidnapers, inquired at Cuttyhunk a week ago Sunday when Lindbergh and his party flew to Cuttyhunk expecting to get the baby back.

Eals, who formerly was an attendant at Penikese Island leper colony lost his job when the colony was given up, but is said to be going to be working at various places along the Atlantic coast as a seaman.

At one time Eals lived at City Island, N. Y., near the home of Dr. Condon, who brought some property from Eals' mother.

A check being made also today on reports by fishermen that airplanes have been set on land at No Man's Land after March 1. There is a landing field on this island, but no telephone.

NOTE LEADS TO RUM ROW



Map showing the location of St. Raymond's Cemetery in the Bronx, N. Y., where Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh negotiations, paid the $50,000 ransom and received a note giving directions to the rum row off the Massachusetts coast, saying the baby would be found there.

DEPOSITORS TO BE CHECKED IN BILL HUNT

3000 Who Put Cash in Bank on Day Note Was Received Are to Be Interviewed

New York, April 14 (AP)—New York police will check up on all of the 3000 depositors who on April 4 and 5, visited the branch savings bank where a depositor handed in a $20 bill, subsequently identified as part of the $50,000 ransom paid by Col. Lindbergh to the kidnapers of his son.

The suggestion was made to Police Commissioner Mulrooney today by Col. Henry Breckenridge, special adviser to Col. Lindbergh, during a conference in police headquarters.

Commissioner Mulrooney said the discussion of the case was general, but there was particular reference to the possibilities of tracing the $20 bill. He said detectives would be assigned to visit the homes or places of business of all the depositors and asking them whether they could place the bill.

The $20 bill turned up yesterday and was found to have been paid out by the bank to a customer.

Commissioner Mulrooney also disclosed today that Inspector Henry Bruckman, in charge of Bronx detectives, was questioning Robert Reo, who had come forward with the information that he had long heard one of the conversations between a representative of the kidnapers and Dr. John F. Condon, retired Bronx school teacher, who turned over the $50,000 ransom.

The commissioner said he had not seen the original ransom note left in the Lindbergh nursery the night of the kidnaping, but added that experts engaged by Col. Lindbergh had compared the handwriting and other features of the original note with those of other notes sent to Dr. Condon and were convinced they were the work of the same person.

2-For-1 For Lindbergh Bills

Watch your $5, $10 and $20 bills! The government is looking for $50,000 in paper money paid out by Col. Lindbergh for the ransom of his stolen baby.

The banks have a list of all the bills. The numbers of the $5 bills and some of the $10 and $20 bills were printed in Monday's Evening American.

The bills are all of the series of 1928.

To assist the government in its search for these bills, the Boston Evening American will pay 2 for 1 for the first 10 of the bills found and turned over to the Managing Editor, Liberty 4000, or 5 Winthrop sq. All communications will be kept confidential, and the recovered bills will be turned over to the authorities.

Watch your bills! You can help solve the Lindbergh mystery and at the same time get 2 for 1.

MORROW HELP ARE QUIZZED

Trenton, N. J., April 14 (INS)—The official "news bulletin" issued today by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State police, dealing with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping investigation, contained nothing to indicate that any definite headway is being made toward a solution of the crime. The statement follows:

"In continuing the investigation, the verbal statements taken before from the Morrow household in Englewood are being followed up with written statements being taken at this time. This is a routine part of the investigation and will include all persons in the household.

"No reports have been received from any of the authorities asked for co-operation in connection with the apprehension of Harry Fleischer and Abe Wagner. This investigation is being continued.

"The authorities at this point have not had reported any conferences or communications from Dr. Condon.

"The usual large mail was received this morning including some information which is being investigated and a large number of suggestions. Invariably these suggestions do not have any value of an informative nature included in them, but merely offer methods, personal services, use of hypnosis, mystics and so forth, and offers to act as intermediaries. Many dreams are daily reported by telephone, telegraph and letter and frequent implications are offered.

A reply from St. Thomas, Ont., on the holding of a man at that point, indicates that this man was merely referred to Ontario on a course of procedure to follow and nothing of importance in connection with the case developed."

Four Cars of B. & A. Freight Are Derailed

Greenfield, April 14—In a derailment of a Boston & Maine railroad freight train 500 feet inside the East portal of the Hoosac tunnel, early today, at least four cars left the rails.

LINK EUROPEAN CRIMINAL IN KIDNAPING

Maj. Schoeffel's Visit to Vienna Indicates He Is on Trail of International Crook

By ALFRED TYRNAUER

Copyright, 1932, International News Service

Vienna, April 14 (INS)—Definite indications that a European criminal, or one schooled in the underworld of the European continent, is suspected of complicity in the Lindbergh kidnaping were uncovered by International News Service here today.

Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel of the New Jersey state police, whose mysterious movements throughout Europe have aroused speculation on both sides of the Atlantic, came to Vienna after visiting various other cities of the Old World.

He spent hours in the central library of the Vienna police, inspecting the Austrian rogues' gallery, conceded to be one of the most comprehensive in Europe, and gave careful and minute study to fingerprints, photographs and symbols used by denizens of the Viennese underworld in secret communications.

Maj. Schoeffel maintained the same attitude of utmost secrecy concerning his visit that he displayed in Berlin, Paris and London. He was seen by International News Service this afternoon while preparing to depart for Budapest or some city in Italy, depending upon last minute instructions from the United States.

"I have examined thousands of fingerprints, symbols and specimens of handwriting," Schoeffel said.

"I am convinced as a result of investigation that the baby is not hidden in Vienna. More than that I cannot say."

The extent of Maj. Schoeffel's investigation in Vienna was confirmed by Alexander Wahl, chief detective councillor, who acted as host to the New Jersey sleuth during his stay here.

"Major Schoeffel told me he was following up a most important clue," Wahl said. "Neither money nor effort will be spared to effect return of the baby, because the American police regard solution of the crime as a matter of honor.

REPORT BILL IN VIENNA

"He requested us to maintain utmost secrecy regarding his investigations, and we are complying with his wishes."

One Viennese detective, apparently unaware of the revelations of Schoeffel himself and of Councillor Wahl, said the New Jersey investigator had come to Vienna because one of the ransom bank notes had found its way into a Vienna bank.

A report from Paris said Schoeffel was planning to visit Sweden today to trace more of the ransom notes.

While in Paris, the report stated, Schoeffel visited the American Express Company to check up on bills presented by American tourists.

to stop it without violence or new laws.

He ruled that each young widow should spend the evening, before her burning, with the handsomest young man in the village. At the "burning ghat," she did not appear, and the old husband went on his journey alone.

Savage chiefs, and some not so savage, had slaves killed and thrown into the grave with them, to wait upon them after death.

Primitive women, mourning, usually have expressed grief with lamentations and howling, sometimes lacerating their faces and breasts. In the East mourners are hired to express grief, as we hire hearses with black plumes.

Florence Rogge, who teaches dancing, says we should dance at our funerals, instead of weeping, not jazz dancing, but decorous, stately ballet movements. The old, of course, would not be expected to stand on their toe tips.

No public mourning or show of grief is displayed by the really civilized, but they are not

While we discuss our comparatively small troubles, our neighbors in South America have their worries, with earthquakes in the Andes suddenly pouring out fire and smoke, with lava rushing toward the mountain cities.

Science seeks to discover the cause of these eruptions, and planes of the Pan-American Company sail back and forth over the smoking mountain tops to report conditions. Earthquakes that arouse superstitious terrors add to the demoralization.

You will be glad to hear that Kansas City's "one-pound baby" is alive, thriving and eating 12 meals a day. He has gained weight in his first eight days. Each of the 12 meals consists of one tablespoonful of milk. He has red hair and is named Charles B. St. John. Little at a time and often is a wise arrangement of meals for the very young and very old, and milk is good for everybody.

SHIP SEARCH FOR FLEISCHER FAILS

Halifax, N. S., April 14 (INS)—Widespread search for Harry Fleischer, czar of Detroit's "Purple gang," who is wanted for questioning in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, went forward feverishly in Nova Scotia today.

A man answering Fleischer's description was reported to have stowed away aboard the steamer Fernfield here.

When the ship reached Clark's harbor on the western coast today, the local inspectors for Boston, Royal Canadian mounted police met and thoroughly combed the ship, but no trace of the elusive gangster was found.

Several harbor front habitues, however, claimed to have seen a man resembling Fleischer making inquiries for ships bound for Boston and sailing for Belgium.

This man, they said, had a heavy beard and appeared to be a tramp. At the same time, they declared, his clothes were of good quality and his hands gave no evidence of hard work.

EVERY DRAMATIC MOVE THRILLS CROWD IN FATEFUL 'HONOR LYNCHING' TRIAL

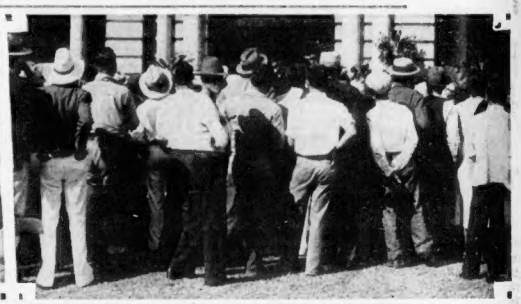
LIEUT. JOHNSON CLARENCE DARROW GEORGE S. LEISURE

FOUR FATES HANG UPON THE BATTLE THESE THREE MAKE

Counsel for the defense shown leaving Honolulu's historic temple of justice during a brief respite in the "honor slaying" trial of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Lieut. Thos. H. Massie, U. S. N., and two naval enlisted men for the death of Joe Kahahawai, assailant of Mrs. Massie. Clarence Darrow, veteran attorney in many battles, is shown between Lieut. Johnson, U. S. N., and Atty Leisure. The defense is ready to start.

WHAT WILL THE VERDICT BE?

Mrs. Fortescue, society matron, and Lieut. Massie, her son-in-law, are here shown amid the flowers in front of the courthouse in brilliant Honolulu, where their liberty is the stake for which the law battles. (International News photos.)



JUST ONE GLIMPSE OF THE AMERICANS ON TRIAL

This scene is depicted each day before the courthouse in Honolulu. The crowds stand for long periods to catch a glimpse of the stars in the remarkable drama being enacted in the little courtroom, to see Darrow, to note how the accused woman and three men and the wife who was so brutally beaten bear up—how they fare as they face the greatest ordeal of their lives. No outbursts have been reported from the Pacific island. The onlookers have been orderly. A heavy guard is at hand inside and surrounding the courthouse.

ONE KILLED, MANY HURT IN MINE STRIKE RIOT

Cadiz, Ohio., April 14 (INS)—Rifles and shotguns cracked in Ohio's mine strike today, killing one picket and injuring several others in a battle between pickets and Ohio National Guardsmen at the Bonero mine of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., near Adena.

Walter Kimball, 50, of Bradley, died in a physician's office after hundreds of alleged strikers marched on miners who were en route to work, and, according to authorities, stoned their automobiles.

Shooting broke out when guardsmen and deputies rushed to the aid of non-strikers. Both factions were armed. More than 25 automobiles were wrecked in the attack and at least 30 participants in the fight were seriously cut by glass.

TEAR GAS BOMBS USED

Tear gas bombs were hurled at the pickets to disperse them and they retaliated by flinging the bombs back at the officers and workers, deputies said.

One stone said to have been thrown by a picket crashed through a window of an automobile in which Sheriff Maurice Wooster was riding, and narrowly missed him.

After several minutes of fighting, the crowd was quieted and the pickets retreated to allow about 100 of the workers to enter the mine.

KILLED BY TROOPER

The shot that killed Kimball was fired by a militiaman, it was understood. None of the Ohio National Guard officers or deputies was injured.

Another picket was reported to have been shot in the leg and others were bruised when a shower of bricks and stones was started.

Sheriff Wooster and Deputy Arthur Estep were fired at point-blank during the battle, they said, following his flight.

Two Dillonvale, O., men were arrested as alleged rioters after the disturbance was quieted.

Board Members Pay $1 Each Time They Say 'Depression'

Ludington, Mich., April 14 (AP)—The word "depression" just isn't being used by the Mason County board of supervisors. It costs them $1 each time they utter it.

Frank A. Morse, Sheridan township supervisor, was the first victim of the rule. He used the banned word in a speech.

Supervisor Karl L. Ashbacker immediately was on his feet.

"Supervisor Morse used the word 'depression,'" said he, "and I demand he be fined $1."

Supervisor Ole Clines arose from his seat.

"And you repeated the word," said Clines, "so let's have a dollar from you, too."

Both men paid.

GIRL IS JAILED FOR ROBBING BENEFACTOR

Found guilty of robbing a family who had befriended her and adopted her as a child, Sarah Towne, 20, of 49 Webster st., East Boston, was sentenced to Sherborn reformatory for women today.

The girl, in Quincy court, pleaded guilty to larceny from the home of Mrs. Katherine Franklin, of Newport ave., Wollaston, last Saturday night when gold watches, cash and opera glasses to the value of $123 were stolen.

ADOPTED AT 8

Mrs. Franklin had adopted the girl when she was 8 years old but when the girl was 13 she served a term at the Lancaster school for being a stubborn child.

Also held in the robbery is George L. Thompson, 23, of Forest st., Winthrop, who is being held at East Boston for other larcenies and who will be arraigned for the Wollaston break next week.

FORCED WINDOW

Police say that the girl went to the house on Saturday and not finding anyone home communicated with Thompson in the belief that several hundred dollars in cash could be obtained.

The girl said Thompson forced a rear window with a screwdriver and that she aided him in ransacking the house.

Most of the loot was recovered at a pawnshop in Winthrop.

GIRL TRAPS HER BOSS IN THEFT

Youngstown, O., April 14 (AP)—Miss Betty Robinson, who acted as Frank Max Shanklin's secretary in order to get evidence that he swindled her father of $14,000, was rewarded today for her efforts.

Shanklin was behind the bars, accused of fraud. He was arrested yesterday after Miss Robinson applied for a warrant charging him with converting her property to his own use. The alleged swindle was perpetrated in Mercer County, Pa., ten years ago.

He was convicted in 1924 of fraudulent conversion, was fined $500 and sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Many persons testified they had lost thousands through his oil and gas stock schemes.

HELD AS BRIDGE GAME SLAYER

New York, April 14 (AP)—Mrs. Sadie Oster, 38, was arraigned in Brooklyn today on a charge of manslaughter which had its roots in a bridge bid of no-trump without sufficient trick support.

It is charged she caused the death of her husband, Sam Oster, 48, by throwing a pair of scissors at him. Oster died April 4 of meningitis of the brain, due to infection. Mrs. Oster was released in $2000 and ordered to appear for examination April 29.

The game, which preceded a violent argument between Mr. and Mrs. Oster, was played on March 29. She bid no-trump on a hand and was set. Oster upbraided her because she did not hold the proper cards to warrant the bid.

The guests left. The argument continued and finally, police said, Oster began to beat his wife, whereupon she threw the scissors.

Film Bride Sues Her Rich Husband

San Francisco, April 14 (AP)—The marriage of Marguerite Thomas, motion picture actress, and Carry J. Nagle, Hollywood capitalist, appeared near an end today as a result of a divorce suit filed here by Mrs. Nagle.

Mrs. Nagle complained romance did not survive a 18-day honeymoon after their marriage in Las Vegas, Nevada, last September.

It was indicated by the prosecution in the "honor slaying" trial at Honolulu that Mrs. Thalia Massie, who was attacked by a gang of Hawaiians, was implicated in the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, her alleged attacker. (International News Photos.)

PASTOR PLEADS GUILTY IN FRAUD

Hartford, Ct., April 14 (INS)—Rev. Joseph A. Stokes, 58, of the Church of Triumphant Life, and his son, Cecil A. W. Stokes, 28, pleaded guilty here today to fraudulent practice in sale of stocks in a $2,500,000 "coal brick" corporation to members of the father's congregation.

The "sales tasks," according to investigators, consisted largely of spiritualistic manifestations in which deceased parishioners advised purchase of the stock.

They will be sentenced Thursday and face a maximum penalty of $100,000 fine or 10 years' imprisonment or both.

SHOTS END RIOT IN AUCKLAND

Wellington, N. Z., April 14 (INS)—A mob of unemployed who had terrorized the city of Auckland for hours, wrecking shops, hotels and theatres, was brought under control at midnight tonight when marines opened fire in their midst.

The crowd hastily dispersed when the shots rang out.

A checkup showed that seven police and a woman were seriously injured in the rioting, and scores suffered minor bruises. Looting continued spasmodically after the crowd was dispersed.

'CAL' LIGHTS UP OLD HOME

Plymouth, Vt., April 14 (AP)—The mellow glow of kerosene lamps, which illuminated the old Coolidge homestead nine years ago as Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office as President, will shortly be supplanted by the white incandescent of electric lights.

Workmen today began wiring the century-old farm house preparatory to installing a small electric power plant. The former President is continuing extensive repairs and improvements begun last year, indicating to residents that he and Mrs. Coolidge plan to extend their annual summer visits at the scene of his boyhood.

Police Scour Woods for 6 Girl Campers

Chicago, April 14 (INS)—Alarmed over the disappearance of six girl campers, all under 14, city police and county highway officers today scoured the wooded regions along the Des Plaines river.

Taking blankets and light camping supplies, the girls left home yesterday for an outing. They were to have returned last evening.

RUM 'FRAME-UP' WITNESS HELD IN PERJURY

Out of charges of "planting" liquor on a prisoner, Daniel J. Morrison, of Dana st., Malden, a police liquor spotter, was arrested in Middlesex Superior Court, today, on a charge of perjury.

An attempt by Atty. Richard S. McCabe, counsel for Morrison, to obtain a bench warrant on a similar charge against Sergt. Joseph B. Henry, of the Malden police liquor squad, failed.

Judge George James said he would take no action on that pending investigation of the activities of Sergt. Henry and the Malden liquor squad, promised by Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop.

CHANGES HIS STORY

The arrest of Morrison followed his admission to Judge James, during the trial of Harry Winer, a Malden restaurant owner, on liquor charges, that he had testified falsely in Malden District Court and that he wanted to change his testimony in Superior Court.

Morrison admitted that in Malden court he had said he had purchased a pint of liquor from Winer with a marked bill given him by Sergt. Henry.

Yesterday in superior court, Morrison caused a sensation when he said that he had been used by Sergt. Henry to frame the sale on Winer.

LIQUOR IN SLEEVE

He told the court that Sergt. Henry had placed a pint of liquor in his sleeve and that he got the marked bill into Winer's cash register by repaying an old 10-cent debt to the defendant.

This testimony caused Asst. Dist. Atty. William Andrews to ask Judge James for a directed verdict of not guilty in favor of Winer, and it was granted.

When Morrison arrived in court today he was accompanied by Atty. Richard S. McCabe, defense counsel for Winer in the liquor trial.

Five Killed in Quake

Moscow, April 14 (AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Izvestia from Baku today said five persons were killed and nearly a score injured in a volcanic eruption on the island of Svinoi.

Song 'Hit' Writer Dies as He Hears His Latest Tune

New York, April 14 (AP)—Robert A. King will never know whether his last song "One Day in May," is a hit or not. He died yesterday after listening to it over the radio.

It was not as though at 69 years Robert King had never written a hit. His "Beautiful Ohio" waltz has sold five million copies, which is a fortune. His "Moonlight on the Colorado" has been whistled in every state.

Victor Herbert, selecting "The world's most famous music," a collection, included King's "America's Fair Women."

King had high hopes for his newest number. He had gone to a hotel to hear it played by a dance band. Returning home, he tuned in the radio early yesterday to hear it broadcast. Shortly afterward he died.

ECONOMY FIGHT IS POSTPONED

Washington, April 14 (INS)—The expected showdown today between the rival economy plans of President Hoover and House Democrats has been delayed until next week.

Budget Director Roop notified Chairman McDuffie of the House economy committee today it would be two days more at the least before Mr. Hoover's omnibus economy bill could be ready for presentation. McDuffie called off the vote on whether to immediately cut Federal salaries, which had been threatened for today over the President's opposition.

Mr. Hoover wants economy effected in one move, through passage of an omnibus bill to include his own plan of effecting salary reductions. House Democrats want to reduce salaries first and then consider other economies.

498,859 Jobs Found in National Drive

New York, April 14 (AP)—The United action campaign to find a million jobs for the jobless is expected to pass the half-way mark today. Officials of the drive announced that reports from 23 states, received yesterday, brought the grand total to 498,859.

$70,000 LIQUOR LOAD AND 5 MEN SEIZED

Portland, Me., April 14—A new wrinkle in rum running—reversible truck signs—was uncovered here today, police said, with the arrest of five men and seizure of two trucks, a coupe and $70,000 worth of liquor.

The trucks were equipped with signs of a large chain grocery store that could be reversed to advertise a nationally-known tire concern, they said.

The object, according to police, was to throw pursuers off or trick watchers if suspicions were aroused.

The "convoy" was taken at Martin's Point bridge, in the outskirts, by a squad led by Federal Agent Henry P. Weaver.

Two empty trucks preceded the two that were filled, and the coupe followed. A 65-foot powerboat, to which, Weaver said, the cargo was to be transferred, fled seaward.

Joseph Gentella, 41, Joseph Marschell, 29, and Antonio Amato, 43, all of Charter st., Boston, were taken from the coupe.

The drivers of the two filled trucks gave their names as Herbert Rothe, 28, and Herbert Mason, 22, both of Portland.

In addition to the reversible signs, the seized trucks bore the inscription "P. F. Begley, Lawrence, Mass.," painted on the doors. Mr. Begley is a widely known truckman.

An unfinished house, near the scene of the seizure, was searched in the belief that it was used as a base for rum runners. Nothing was found there.

BRIDE BEATEN, HUSBAND HELD

Worcester, April 14—The marital troubles of Christ V. Simon, tea room proprietor, broadened today when his bride of three months haled him into court for assault and battery.

Simon, who left the then Phyllis Stratton "waiting at the church" last January, married her three days later, and is still under charges of a waitress that is the father of her unborn child, told the court:

"We had a quarrel Tuesday night and she wanted to go back to her mother; I didn't want her to go and I gave her a little disciplin."

The case was continued until May 5. The bride returned to her mother.

Man 4 Ft. 6 In., Wins Immigration Fight

Buenos Aires, April 14 (AP)—Antonio Bertone can live in Argentina even if he is only 4 feet 6 inches tall, the Supreme Court ruled today. The ruling reverses a decision by the immigration authorities that Bertone was too short to hold a regular job.

Immigration inspectors wouldn't admit Bertone when he came back recently from a visit to Italy.

British Royalty Observe Birthdays

London, April 14 (AP)—Two members of the British royal family celebrated birthdays today, but both were abroad.

Princess Beatrice, King George's aunt and mother of the former Queen of Spain, was 75. She is on the Italian Riviera; the Earl of Athlone, brother of Queen Mary, was 58. He is traveling abroad.

FLOOD ISOLATES HOMES IN HARTFORD

Heavy rains and melting snow have swollen the Connecticut river to flood proportions from points far north, near its source, down through western Massachusetts and the Nutmeg State to Hartford and beyond. Many families have been forced to evacuate homes isolated by flood waters, as shown in this picture. At Hartford the river is nearly five feet above flood level. (International News Photos.)

BOOTLEG BEER FLOOD SCORED AT HEARING

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Levi Cook of Washington, D. C., a representative of the "near beer" industry, told the Senate finance committee today the manufacture of "illicit beer," running into "millions of gallons" a year, threatens to force makers of legitimate cereal beverages out of business.

He urged a heavier tax on wort, which he said was a leading ingredient of bootleg beer.

That the Eighteenth Amendment has "financed crime" and "is poisoning our national life" was charged by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the women's organization for national prohibition reform at a hearing before a Senate judiciary sub-committee.

Senator Bingham (R., Ct.), another witness before the committee, advocated return of liquor control to the states.

Bingham said he believed it impossible to make descendants of generations of temperate drinkers believe there is anything morally wrong in drinking.

Bingham was followed by James W. Wadsworth, former Senator from New York, who represented the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He said that developments of the last few years led the organization to believe its goal of prohibition repeal "is in sight."

DICKINSON IS 'KEYNOTER'

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa has been agreed on by the Republican high command as temporary chairman and keynoter of the Republican national convention.

The arrangements committee, headed by Chairman Fess of the national committee, will meet in Chicago Saturday.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the House, is the general choice for permanent chairman. He has been named the past for weeks.

However, many have been discussed for the keynote assignment, and while no announcement has been made, the party chiefs were known today to have decided upon the Iowa Senator.

SIBLEY HEADS GMC SALES UNIT

The appointment of Fred C. Sibley as New England zone manager of the newly-formed Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Sales Co. was announced today to 800 distributors and dealers of the company at a luncheon in Hotel Statler.

R. K. White, assistant general sales manager of the company, called the meeting to familiarize dealers and distributors with the purposes of the new organization recently formed by General Motors to gain a greater degree of efficiency in handling the hundreds of retail outlets and to intensify selling effort on each of the three products.

White stated that the organization intends to establish a large parts warehouse in Boston within a short time.

Headquarters of the new Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Sales Co. are located at 93 Commonwealth ave. The office personnel is made up of a combination of the three units.

The Noyes-Buick Co., for many years Buick distributor in New England, will not be affected by the change and will continue to operate the same territory for Buick as in the past, White announced.

P. C. DeBarry will be assistant manager in this territory, under Mr. Sibley.

H. J. C. Miller of New York, regional manager for the Atlantic coast states, was a guest at the luncheon.

$10,000 to $50,000 for Bridge Tourney

Agua Caliente, Mexico, April 14 (AP)—Bridge players will have something besides an argument to look forward to under plans announced by the Agua Caliente Bridge Club, organized by owners of this resort.

A bridge sweepstakes, with prizes ranging between $10,000 and $50,-00, will be inaugurated next Fall.

DARROW IN 'COUP'

trial, was accused as the ringleader of five men who attacked Mrs. Massie.

As the prosecution's case swept to its close, and the defense prepared to fire its legal broadsides, all eyes turned toward Mrs. Fortescue.

The patrician society woman has given indications that her indomitable spirit is weakening. Yesterday, for the first time, she cried in court.

Her tears came during the testimony of a police matron who described how Mrs. Fortescue, when arrested, spoke tenderly of the bruises still carried by her daughter as ugly reminders of the brutal attack.

Like Mrs. Fortescue, Mrs. Anita also wept quietly in court. Her tears were occasioned by the sight of the rope with which the body of her son was bound.

IN HONOR FIGHT

Mrs. Thalia Massie and her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie.

NEW ANGLES HINTED

That Kelley is a match for Darrow in deft legal stagecraft was apparent from his scheduling of Mrs. Anita as one of his final witnesses. It is not considered likely that the native woman can add much to the mass of circumstantial evidence against the four Americans, but her psychological effect on the jury is unquestioned.

In view of this, Darrow may seek an adjournment as soon as the state rests in order to start his case with a fresh day.

That the government may develop new angles to its case as the trial wears on was indicated in a torial government if it is necessary to recruit allenists to aid the government's cause.

That Kelley, from a legal standpoint, has built a magnificent case against the four Americans was generally conceded. Even Darrow admitted his young opponent had used all his weapons to the best advantage.

Every known detail of the kidnaping of Kahahawai by means of a fake warrant from the steps of the "Hall of the Chiefs" has been laid bare together with interlocking accounts of the halting of Mrs. Fortescue's sedan and the finding of the native's body within.

"Silent witnesses"—Kahahawai's clothing, his bloody shroud, buttons torn from his suit, towels from the Fortescue home where the killing is alleged to have taken place, the rope used to bind the sheets that wrapped his body—have been introduced as evidence.

There were two missing links in the chain. No eyewitness to the shooting has been found, and the revolver with which the native was killed cannot be accounted for.

Two other weapons, one of .45 calibre and the other of .32 calibre, were exhibited as guns known to have been in the possession of the defendants.

The disarray in which the Fortescue home was found after the killing has been emphasized, together with what appeared to be hasty efforts to remove evidence.

Through it all Darrow has sat back, silent, uninterested, apparently brooding over his secret plans. Occasionally he has taken part in cross-examination, but only casually, and the questions he has asked have seemed almost pointless.

Today, however, he was expected to start the unraveling of the tangled skeins of emotion that the now famous assault case and "honor killing" have produced.

MRS. FORTESCUE

Mother of attack victim, on trial in Hawaii "honor slaying" case.

startling turn which was given to the testimony of John N. McIntosh, chief of the Honolulu detective force.

McIntosh, after testifying to his visits to the Massie house on the day of the kidnaping and shooting of Kahahawai, said that in the afternoon as Mrs. Massie prepared to depart for the Pearl Harbor naval base, she took with her a small handbag.

"Was this bag large enough to carry a .32 caliber revolver?" Kelley asked suddenly.

"Yes, there was plenty of room for that," came the reply.

DARROW SECRETIVE

Although the incident was not elaborated, those close to the prosecution believed that Kelley may later make an attempt to implicate Mrs. Massie herself in the plot against Kahahawai's life.

Whatever the defense plans may be, Darrow remained as secretive as he was confident.

The state believes he will place Lieut. Massie on the stand and have the young naval lieutenant shoulder the full blame for the shooting of the native.

Lieut. Massie would then be followed by two distinguished mainland psychiatrists, Drs. Edward Huntington Williams and Thomas J. Orbison, who would seek to establish that the shooting was in no line of justifiable homicide, he legal phrase that cloaks the "unwritten law."

Gov. Lawrence Judd and Kelley have conferred over this possibility and the prosecutor has been promised financial aid from the terri-

BOY KIDNAPED BY TRIO FREED

Philadelphia, April 14 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was kidnaped by three Negroes in West Philadelphia today and was recued by police from an old barn in which he had been locked.

His younger brother was also dragged toward the kidnapers' automobile, but escaped.

The boy, Edward Walsh, and his brother, Thomas 12, are sons of Frank A. Walsh, a painter.

They were on their way to St. Agatha's parochial school with Francis Clerkin, 12, when a small car approached.

"All of the men were young," Edward told police. "One jumped out and grabbed me before I knew what was happening.

"I fought and kicked and tried to get loose. But he hit me on the mouth and told me to keep quiet. The car finally stopped outside an old barn. The men took me to the second floor, where all the windows were boarded up. Then they went away.

"I started to yell and two motorcycle policemen passed. They heard me."

Derry (N. H.) Man Hurt

Philadelphia, April 14 (AP)—James Comeau, 54, of Derry, N. H., was injured today in an automobile crash here and taken to a hospital.

DEERFIELD CO. POWER SALE IS BARED

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Testimony regarding organization in 1911 of the Deerfield Co., and its acquisition of lands and power rights in Vermont and Massachusetts was given before the Federal Trade Commission today by Martin A. Brown of Wilmington, Vt.

Brown said he organized the Deerfield Co., in 1911, upon suggestion of Chace and Harriman of Boston, Mass.

Brown said he had started acquiring lands in the Deerfield valley in 1909 and these were taken over in 1911 by the Deerfield Co., from Chace and Harriman for whom they were purchased.

Chace and Harriman then bought the stock of the Deerfield Company for $14,700 on condition that the Deerfield Co. would be entitled, from any power developed, to 12,-000,000 kilowatt hours annually for 999 years at a stated price, Brown said.

Previous testimony before the commission on the New England Power Co. showed that in 1926 it had paid Chace and Harriman $1,-500,000 for its Deerfield holdings. Today's testimony was introduced to bring out the value of the 999-year power right placed in 1911 on the acquisition of the Deerfield Co. by Chace and Harriman.

BOXER GUARDS 'BAD WILLIE'

Charles st. jail last month—" said Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle.

Gray leaped to his feet, crying: "Your honor—please—I object. This has nothing to do with the case."

"This man broke away from the jail and was captured in the South End," persisted Doyle.

Gray continued shouting his objections, saying: "I don't see how he can bring that in. It has nothing to do with this case."

Judge William E. Kane, counsel for Foley, leaned over and said something. Gray threw up his hands, shrugged his shoulders and sat down.

"That escape shows consciousness of guilt," went on the prosecutor.

Gray was up again.

Judge Sisk then said:

"All references to your escape from Charles st. jail have no direct bearing on this case, and I will ask the jury to disregard it."

Doyle objected:

"But, your honor," he said, "this shows consciousness of guilt. This man felt he was guilty; he was awaiting trial on charges, and that's why he escaped from the jail."

"I object, your honor," said Gray. "It is no crime to escape from jail. There are several reasons why people escape from jail besides consciousness of guilt."

The calling of Stenographer Gill the first witness, ended the torrid exchange. Gill identified his transcription of questions put to Gray by Inspector Dorzey at City Hospital, and answers made by Gray.

Doyle read the whole alleged confession.

"He (Sweeney) and I fought it out face to face," said Gray at one point, acording to Doyle's reading.

Doyle read that Gray said he shot four times, one of the shots being a warning. He described his gun as an old Civil War style weapon.

"Somebody tipped me off it was a hot spot for nigger pools and lotteries, so I went there," said Gray, according to the alleged confession. "I realized later I was wrong."

Reference was made to Ruth Ryan, who was with Gray when he was arrested in New Hampshire, and Gray in the police statement defended the girl.

'BAD BILL' SET FOR SHOT

"Well, shout if you must; I'm ready!" exclaimed "Bad Willie" Gray, notorious gunman and jail-breaker, when a Boston Evening American photographer got him posed in court today. He had assumed a typical "Scarface Al" Capone pose—and the scars of battle that creased his countenance gave him a sort of Al Capone aspect, too, as you make note. Anyway, the photographer shot him. 'Mackerel Dog' Gets His Eats Even if His Owner Pays a Fine

When a dog is a dog, it's O. K. in municipal court.

But when a dog is one of those mackerel dogs, it takes a judge to decide the case.

Joseph Rizzi of Hanover st. was fined $20 for larceny of electricity today in municipal court and wondered where he could raise the twenty.

"I have a mackerel dog outside," said Mr. Mizzi. "He is hungry, and I must take him home for breakfast."

Judge Michael J. Murray accompanied Mr. Rizzi outside the courtroom, looked at the dog, the owner of which he had just fined, and said:

"You meant a mongrel dog, didn't you?"

And Mr. Rizzi replied:

"Yes, sure, certainly. Nothing but a mackerel dog, and he needs a whole lot of food right now."

The fine was paid, and at last reports the animal got his lunch, dinner or breakfast, whichever it might have been.

GIRL MOTHER IS SET FREE

Evelyn Johnson, 24, of Leyland st., Roxbury, unwed mother of Hazen Johnson, eight, found in a Milton roadway two weeks ago, today was found not guilty in Roxbury court of neglect of the girl.

Judge Palmer dismissed the complaint "for lack of sufficient evidence" after Special Officer Joseph Curran told of his investigation.

The little girl, who was labelled "The Girl Nobody Wanted," because of a false identification given police by Robert Johnson, her grandfather, was before Judge Miles on charges of "being neglected." Her case was continued until April 28.

The child and her mother met in the corridor of the court in an affectionate greeting before the child was returned to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The society seeks the care of her.

POLICE CALLED AT HEARING ON BONUS

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Bluecoats were called today to preserve order in the bonus hearing before the ways and means committee after a delegation had demanded that it be heard out of regular order.

Stepping forward in the midst of the hearing, a man who identified himself as Samuel J. Stenber, representative of the Workers' Ex-Service Men's League, asked when his delegation would be heard.

Acting Chairman Crisp rapped for order and said they would not be heard at all unless they observed the rules.

Representative Patman (D.), Texas, has charge of witnesses in behalf of the legislation calling for payment of the two billion dollars outstanding on the bonus certificates and the order in which they are presented is decided by him.

Despite Crisp's warning Stenber persisted.

"We have been waiting here several days and want to know when we'll be heard?" he said.

Crisp pounded for order and after again warning Stenber his group would receive no hearing unless he obeyed the rules, he instructed the committee clerk to call a police guard.

Flood in Panama Takes Heavy Toll

Colon, Panama, April 14 (INS)—Inhabitants of the Chepo section of Panama fled for their lives today as flood from the Mamoni river inundated plantations, taking a heavy toll of livestock.

The Chagres river rose 14 feet in 30 minutes, causing fear to be felt for the Madden dam, now under construction.

FRENCH HOLDUP ON DEBT TO U. S. HIT BY COLBY

New York, April 14 (US)—That France can pay her obligations to this country and that Germany has no intention of ever paying reparations were the conclusions drawn by Bainbridge Colby yesterday in a discussion of war debts before the Academy of Political Science.

Colby emphasized that other nations can repudiate their debts or pay them in part and default on the balance but the obligations can be cancelled only by the creditor nation, the United States.

MUST NOT CANCEL

And it was the firm belief of Colby, who was Secretary of State in President Wilson's Cabinet, that the United States must not and will not cancel the debts.

Such reparations as Germany did pay, he declared, came from American loans. When the American investor ceased buying German bonds in 1929, Germany stopped payment of reparations. Colby added:

"The truth of the matter is that Germany has never had any intention of paying reparations. Her persistent policy since the Versailles treaty has been one of indiscriminate sabotage with reference to it."

HUGE FRENCH LOANS.

The French government, he said, has lent more than 14,000,000,000 francs to other nations since the war ended.

"Can the plea of France, that she is unable to repay the money borrowed from us since the close of the war, be expected to move us profoundly, in the light of these facts?" he asked.

"If the good faith of governments is to be swallowed up in the bad faith of peoples, then the world is due for a sad disillusionment. If the pledges of nations have no value, if the confidence shown by the United States in her European allies has no foundation, then what becomes of the hope of trustful co-operation between nations?"

CAROLINA G. O. P. CHEER HOOVER

Charlotte, N. C., April 14 (AP)—Delegates to the state Republican convention stood and cheered for several minutes today when George M. Pritchard of Asheville, the keynote speaker, referred to the "matchless leadership of President Hoover."

Praising the President, Pritchard, a former congressman, said there never had been a "more magned statesman" than Mr. Hoover. He described him as the "good Samaritan of the American people."

The speaker drew another round of applause with a dfeense of prohibition. He predicted Governor Roosevelt of New York would be the Democratic presidential nominess and described him as a "wringing wal."

IRISH ELECTIONS OFF FOR YEAR

Dublin, April 14 (INS)—A decree postponing for on eyear all local urban and county elections throughout the Irish Free State was issued today by Sean T. O'Kelly, minister of local government.

The decree was interpreted as meaning the Free State government realizes extremists are gaining rapidly in influence, and, since the local elections were planned to coincide with the Eucharistic Congress this summer, the risk of disturbances would be too great if the elections were held.

The annual quarterly meetings of local Eucharistic bodies also were postponed until the last week in August.

Suit Filed to Halt Railroad Merger

Washington April 14 (AP)—The Missouri Pacific and the Texas & Pacific railroads have filed suit at Frankfort, Ky., in an effort to prevent taking over of the Cotton Belt railroad by the Southern Pacific.

Notice of the suit was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Brazilian Troops Crush Bandit Gang

Asuncion, Paraguay, April 14 (AP)—Five members of a gang of bandits including the leader, Sinfulio Garcia, were killed and several wounded by Brazilian troops near the northern Paraguayan border.

Water Is Like Ice, but It's Trout Time

Springfield, April 14 (AP)—With every stream bank full or overflowing, the water swift and icy, conditions for the opening of the trout season tomorrow were characterized today as the worst in years. Temperatures early today were close to freezing and small snow flurries occurred.

THOUGHTS AT RANDOM . . .! THE BRIDE-OF-THE-MONTH will be Justine Prince and just as they entertained for weeks before a nuptial event in the olden times, so they are celebrating this marriage by a round of parties, each out-doing the other in the manner of festivities . . . cocktail parties . . . dinners . . . theaters . . .

JUSTINE PRINCE

* * *

From St. Louis, Mr. Elliott's aunt, Mrs. John T. Davis, has arrived in town and she will give a large dinner-dance at the Longwood Cricket Club on Friday evening . . . the bridal party and family will attend the dinner . . . later a large group of young people will come in for dancing . . .

* * *

Out in Concord, the very beautiful Mrs. Elliott Wulsin, sister of Mr. Elliott, will give a luncheon on Friday before the rehearsal at the church . . . Mrs. Wulsin's small daughter will act as flower girl at the wedding . . .

* * *

Mrs. Otis Russell Hostess at Luncheon

ON SATURDAY, MRS. OTIS RUSSELL OF CAMBRIDGE is giving a luncheon for the bridal party at her home on Park st. . . . which means that everyone including the bride will have to dash from the luncheon to dress and get down to Emmanuel Church by 4 o'clock . . . what a hectic day that is going to be . . . but awfully nice and exciting . . . as wedding days should be.

* * *

We hear that Justine's trousseau is simply too lovely . . . we will tell you all about it on Saturday as we are going to be there to see her become one of the prettiest brides of the spring . . .

PROBONATA CLUB IS HONORED

Mrs. Stackpole Chairman of Committee

Mrs. J. Lewis Stackpole of 292 Beacon st., a member of the board of managers of the House of the Good Samaritan, is chairman of the committee in charge of the tea being given this afternoon to the Probonata Club at the Jackson Research Building of the hospital at 25 Binney st., where children suffering from rheumatic heart disease are given prolonged care.

Other members of the board of managers and Miss Louise Coleman, superintendent of the hospital, are the hostesses during the afternoon while Mrs. Richard S. Humphrey of Jamaica Plain and Mrs. William B. Rogers, Jr., of Sherborn, are presiding at the tea table.

The Probonata Club, of which Mrs. J. Gardner Dunham is president, works actively throughout the year for the House of the Good Samaritan. The members are keenly interested in the work being carried on at the hospital in the care of little children who are victims of childhood's most crippling disease, and in the research being conducted there in an attempt to find a preventive and cure for rheumatic heart disease which is today an unconquered malady.

They hold rummage sales, candy sales, a series of bridge parties and a dance in order to raise money for this worthy cause. At the close of the club year each spring, the members turn over the proceeds from these activities to the hospital. The tea this afternoon is given to the Probonata Club in acknowledgment of this service to the House of the Good Samaritan.

Garibaldi Stamps Sent to the Vatican

Vatican City, April 14 (AP)—The image of Garibaldi, who made war against the Pope, was carried into the Vatican today on a series of stamps commemorating the 50th anniversary of his death.

The Italian minister of communications sent the stamps to the governor of Vatican City according to custom in exchanging new commemorative series.

Books—And a Number of Things

By CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

Once in a Glasgow museum I saw a letter written by Robert Burns, asking a friend for the loan of one pound. This letter, long years afterward, had been bought by a collector for five hundred pounds. Such are the sad stories of genius. A handful of imperishable live songs had caused any words written by the poet to take on a value which intrinsically they never possessed. And during most of his life his income seldom exceeded the tragic sum of 90 pounds per year.

In his "Life of Robert Burns" Franklyn Bliss Snyder seeks to contradict, as biographers of Edgar Allan Poe have sought to do, the rumors that the Scottish poet was a drunkard. He says:

"Burns's first influential biographer, Dr. Currie, a physician who decried the use of alcohol in any form or degree as a beverage, represented him as far more than an 'occasional hard drinker,' and stated categorically that he was 'perpetually stimulated by alcohol.' Later biographers followed Currie's lead, till the tradition of alcoholism was firmly established.

"Actual evidence, however, contradicts that impression. When one has discarded unsubstantial gossip set on foot 20 years after Burns' death, one will discover that the person who knew him and during what have been called his 'evil days' were unanimous in testifying to his habitual sobriety.

"And, indeed, one hardly requires the words of these friends of the poet to controvert the old misconception. One should remember the amount of literary work Burns accomplished at Ellisland, the excellent record he made at the Excise, and the success with which he cared for his family. It is impossible to reconcile the alcoholic debauchee theory with these admitted facts."

That he did indulge in drink at times is true; but stories of his occasional falls from grace were embroidered, until they became common legends. Currie was immediate and unreliable; he was not above juggling facts to fit the case he was trying to make. Even as a boy Burns had suffered from a weakness of the heart, and it was probably this which brought about his early death, at the age of 37, and not a constant habit of drinking.

Sensitive, as all great artists are, Burns suffered from melancholia at times, and in his pride he resented the fact that life was made bitter for him because he had insufficient money to do the work he most longed to do. He carried a chip on his shoulder. His moods were as changeable as the skies of his native Ayrshire, but even in the hours of blackest depression his ability to laugh at what Fate might offer him saved him from the misanthropy which could easily have been his lot.

The early years of the "heaven-taught plowman" are described; his first publication; his many love affairs; his struggles. Altogether, a fine biography, which is published by Macmillan.

Nothing could be more charming than the opening of Charles M. Finger's book, "Foot-loose in the West," just off the press of William Morrow & Co.

A comparative stranger came to his house one day and, referring to the work of Mr. Finger's previous volumes, told him that he had missed reading an interesting tale which lay in a hollow that had been scooped out by a glacier. After the guest's departure, Mr. Finger settled down to a game of chess with his son; but before 15 minutes had passed his "king found himself in difficulties, "as is the way of kings," and his daughter appeared, dressed in riding clothes. Immediately after lunch the trio started forth, carefree. "And it is good to break loose thus," says Mr. Finger, "lest one stagnates like a pool and so become self-centered. For there is a world to be seen, and, for the seeing, our days are not too many, nor too long."

* * *

It is good, in our rushing times, to find a man who is not in a hurry; better still, to find one who can report so delightfully all that befell him on a lazy journey. It meant to be absent a week; he was gone two months. And the little party covered most of Colorado, a good bit of Arizona and Utah, much of California, part of Oregon and Washington, and to speak of Vancouver, part of Canada, Montana and Wyoming. They had no set plan, and one envies them their sense of large leisure, the gipsy trail they followed, the cuddles abandon with which they fared along. The daughter, Helen, made sketches en route, and these have all the informality of the casual text.

In Bret Harte's country Mr. Finger had an experience of which he tells with gusto; and here he heard of a certain man of his younger days, one Billy Reagan, who had worked as a conductor on a railroad of which Finger had been general manager, in Ohio, "in days when passengers worried about catching trains, and not as now, when trains and trainmen worry about catching passengers." The book is full of just such lively adventures. For here is a traveler who is interested, all along the way, with things which would elude the average eye. Nothing is too small to catch his notice. His final paragraph is a gem, and it is quoted in the hope that it will force you to read the whole book:

"So here's a health to those who know how to enjoy that which leaves no bitter taste in the mouth! Here's to the vivid and the alert! Here's to those who know the breezy hilltop, and the pleasant wonders of the world, and the delight that is not won at the expense of others. Above all, here's to those who know the greatest thing in life—true companionship! For such are the salt of the earth, and they have touched hands with the gods."

WORLD ODDLY SHOCKED OVER TREACHERY OF BLACKGUARDS

By GILBERT SELDES

THE SECOND PHASE of the Lindbergh kidnaping is as unexpected and almost as shocking as the first. After the first few days of rumors, surmises, bickering and disappointment, weeks passed in which our feelings were blunted. About ten days ago I heard a newsboy crying to the midnight crowds on Broadway, "Lindy Baby Lives!" but his sales were no greater than those of another crier who chose a minor boxing match for his bait. According to the unkindest maxim ever written, we are all strong enough to bear the misfortunes of our friends. Naturally, in self-protection, we force ourselves to forget them.

GILBERT SELDES

Happy Ending?

The news that Col. Lindbergh paid $50,000—the exact sum mentioned in the first reports—and that the child was not returned, recalls on us because all this time we have cared about the outcome, even if we put aside unhappiness. We have been like little children, hoping that the next instalment of the serial would bring a happy ending, and we are disappointed because criminals have proved treacherous; as if the kidnaping were really a fairy tale full of dark men in cloaks who would, at the end, turn out to be the Prince's true and loyal bodyguard. The honest man kept his word. For four days after the ransom was paid the secret was kept; full time was given before the numbers of the notes were made public. That is, perhaps, the only helpful development—that the actual kidnapers now may know that when they get their money they can count on whatever terms are made. Everything else in the story can only make us wonder why we should have imagined that what began so foully must end well.

Kreuger a Symbol?

At the time Ivar Kreuger committed suicide the Russian newspapers used him as a symbol of capitalism. The man of infinite power and immeasurable riches was too weak to sustain public calamity, too bent on making money ever to straighten up and take pleasure in a world without money. It was a good symbol and I do not blame the Russians for making much of it.

The error which now transpires is that Kreuger was not the typecapitalist; he wasn't, it appears, a good financier; his technique of business was altogether faulty. He was a lone wolf; no one else knew his commitments, his ideas, his plans. The whole progress of capitalism toward integration had swept by him, leaving him the typical capitalist of the 1880's and 90's, the plunger without any sense of responsibility. The rumor that he was dishonest is almost superfluous. He crashed as a capitalist because he was a bad capitalist. And he can stand as a symbol still, for the capitalist system will crash as a system, not because its qualities are inadequate, but because it allows itself so much free play for its defects. It will crash, if it does crash, because it would rather be anarchistic than intelligent.

* * *

If you wish to follow the progress and change of the world, nothing provides you with so many signposts as the appeals for capital published in the papers, usually on Sundays. Three years ago every one with a small plot of ground or a few hundred dollars was advertising for a miniature golf connection. Now the ads are strictly business. Cosmetics, small objects (not chemical) for automobiles, any new invention, any commodity selling for not more than fifty cents, are offered or asked for by advertisers. Publishers of patterns and inventors of hair tonics are ready to receive your investment.

Lend Me Your Vote

In the prohibitionists' complaint against the reliability of The Literary Digest's poll (in which the dry vote steadily mounts and yet does not reach 30 per cent, and is in the majority in only two States)—in their protests one thing affects me more than any other: their insistence that the BALLOTS CAN BE BORROWED OR BOUGHT. That gay and mischievous wets have salvaged ballots cast away by drys, have gone to the basements of apartment houses and to city dumps to find the precious papers, I grant them. But breathes there a dry with soul so dead as to give up a ballot to a known wet? Doesn't the borrowed ballot merely indicate the wet vote of X, who borrows, instead of the equally wet vote of Y, who lends?

SMITH'S BLAST AT ROOSEVELT STARTLES DEMOCRATS

Washington, April 14 (INS)—Out of the Niagara of oratory that rolled through Washington during the Democratic Jeffersonian celebration there emerged today fairly clear-cut indications of Democratic conditions, policies and stratagems in the presidential campaign.

Among them are the following:

1—Al Smith is out to stop Roosevelt—if he can. The reputed coolness between "Frank and Al" is no myth. It is reality. What that portends for the Democratic national convention in Chicago remains to be seen.

2—It is now virtually certain the Democratic platform will contain a wet plank, the precise nature of which is yet to be determined. Even Harry F. Byrd, hitherto a Virginia favorite son dry, came out for a referendum on prohibition.

3—The Democrats are going to wage their campaign on the shortcomings of the Hoover administration, and pledges to rescue the country from the depression. Every one of the dozen-odd speeches by Democratic presidential possibilities emphasized the vulnerability of the Republican record.

4—Tariff and taxation are going to be two prime campaign issues, with the Democrats blaming the Smoot-Hawley tariff act as being responsible for many, if not most, of the economic ills the nation is now experiencing.

ROOSEVELT ABSENT.

These were the outstanding developments of the widely touted Democratic conclave on Jefferson's birthday—a celebration which attracted a thousand prominent Democrats from all parts of the country, including every presidential aspirant of prominence save Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, the man who now possesses more delegates, actual and potential, than any other candidate.

Gov. Roosevelt did not come to Washington for the celebration—a fact which aroused considerable invidious comment, in view of the fact that nearly every other presidential possibility was here on exhibition. But if he listened in on the radio last night his ears must have burned when "Al" took the platform, for without mentioning any names the 1928 candidate indirectly proceeded to flay the man who thrice placed his name in nomination at Democratic national conventions.

DISCUSSES "DEMAGOGERY."

By indirection Smith accused Roosevelt of "demagogery." "this was with reference to a nation-wide radio speech Roosevelt made a few days ago in which he spoke somewhat contemptuously of the public works program which Smith had been advocating as a measure of unemployment relief. Roosevelt described this as a "stop-gap" measure.

"Whoever said it was anything else?" thundered Al last night. "It is at least better than nothing, and infinitely better than a continuance of the disguised dole in states and municipalities."

In his recent radio speech, Roosevelt appealed for governmental relief for the "forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid"—a speech that has been criticized in some quarters as "demagogic."

With fire in his eye and voice, Smith declared:

"I have recently stated that while I would accept a nomination for the presidency if it were tendered me by the convention, that until the convention assembled I would not be for or against any candidate. I announce tonight an exception to that statement. I will take off my coat—and vest—and fight to the end against any candidate who persists in any demagogic appeal to the masses of the working people of this country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor."

FOR POSITIVE PLATFORM.

And a little further on in his speech, Smith made the significant assertion when he said:

"It would be better that the convention remain in session all summer and give to the people a vigorous, strong, clearly defined platform, and candidates capable of fighting for it, than to hurry away from Chicago with a half-baked proposal to offer to the people of the country."

A short convention is the particular objective of the Roosevelt forces, although many not definitely in his column join in wishing at all costs to prevent the type of long deadlock which occurred at the 1924 Madison Square Garden, New York City, convention. Several speakers last night mentioned long Democratic conventions as a Republican hope and proclaimed the opposition would not have its wish.

DEBT PLAN AMAZES.

Smith struck one brand new note in his speech, concerning the disposition that is to be made of the foreign debt program. He proposed that the United States tell Europe to "forget all about the debts for 20 years," and meanwhile to offer a program of progressive cancellation. This he would accomplish by crediting each debtor nation with 25 per cent of its annual purchases in the United States. For example, if France purchased $100,000,000 worth of American products, she would automatically receive a reduction of $25,000,000 in her debt to this country.

Democrats of the Senate and House in the audience, of whom there were a great number, listened to Smith's debt proposal in amazement, for party sentiment has been overwhelmingly against any cancellation or reduction.

Only a few hours earlier Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic leader of the Senate, had declared before the same audience that the Democratic platform this year should "announce the firm purpose not to cancel or readjust obligations due from foreign countries." Robinson said the country was being flooded with propaganda for debt cancellation, notwithstanding that some of the debtor countries "are more prosperous than the United States."

It was considered extremely unlikely today that Smith's proposal to discount 25 per cent of the debts as an inducement to Europe to buy American goods will appeal to the Democrats in Congress.

BYRD IS CONVERTED

Outside of the confirmation of the Smith-Roosevelt feud, and the Smith suggestion concerning the debts, the principal development of the Democrats' all day conclave was the "conversion" of ex-Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia to the wet side of the prohibition question. Byrd, an ostensible candidate for the presidential nomination, is highly regarded in some quarters as a vice-presidential possibility.

Both Smith and Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, somewhat ironically congratulated the Virginian upon his "conversion." Virginia, incidentally, was one of the four Southern states that bolted Smith in 1928 and cast its electoral vote for Hoover on the ostensible grounds that Smith was wet.

The Byrd amendment would permit Congress by two-thirds vote to propose a referendum on the question to the country, to be held in conjunction with no other election. But it provided, too, that each state's vote should be counted as a unit, and that three-fourths of the states would be required to change the existing amendment.

That wasn't very palatable to the wets, who imediately pointed out that it would take years to bring about any change, with the ultimate prospect that 13 Southern and Western states could block the whole business.

WETS ARE ELATED.

But the wets were elated over what they considered the "crackling" of the dry South on the prohibition question. Byrd at least favored a referendum, and from an avowed presidential candidate and a vice-presidential possibility, from a state that bolted Smith in 1928, this was regarded as highly significant of the trend of the times.

Generally speaking, the Democrats scattered to their homes today in high spirits. They heard encouraging reports on the party finances, with almost half the $1,500,000 "victory fund" raised, and from every one of the candidates they heard expressions of confidence in the November outcome.

British Hail "Al" Smith's 20-Year Moratorium Plan

London, April 14 (INS)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith's speech in Washington calling for a 20-year moratorium on foreign debts owed the United States aroused widespread interest here today.

The Evening Standard and the Evening News gave a summary of the address the same position on their first pages under the streamer line:

"Al Smith says forget war debts for 20 years."

Official circles, however, regarded Smith's appeal as a lone voice in the wilderness. In view of the recent action of the United States Congress few responsible persons believe there is any strong sentiment in the United States in favor of an extended moratorium or further reduction in the debts owed America.

Smith's Speech Fails to Interest Gov. Murray

Kansas City, April 14 (AP)—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma stalked impatiently about in Union Station here today, fuming about an unrevealed development that interrupted his speaking campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Al Smith's speech scoring Roosevelt's candidacy failed to interest him, he remarked.

He finally boarded a train for Oklahoma City.

GOV. ELY OPENS DRIVE FOR SMITH

Fortified by their leader's direct challenge to the presidential aims of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Smith supporters here today prepared to speed up their campaign.

Tonight Governor Ely, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and a number of other speakers will invade Brighton, Brookline and South Boston.

RALLY IN DORCHESTER

The governor, in his first appearance on the stump for Smith in Dorchester high school, contended if Massachusetts yields to the plea of the Roosevelt supporters that Smith is not a candidate, that the doctrine of political expediency will place the "great industrial state of the northeast in a hopeless position in their efforts to create a Democratic platform which the people of the United States have a right to expect and demand."

The governor characterized the mayor as his "frenzied political opponent." Although he, the governor, seemed for the time being to be the spokesman in the contest, he said, 11 other delegates-at-large, 12 alternates and a full complement of district men make up the Smith ticket.

LAUDS SMITH SLATE

The governor paid tribute to the character of public service given by such men on the Smith slate at Senators Walsh and Coolidge, the four Congressmen, Dist.-Atty. William J. Foley and former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

The only candidate upon whom the people can rely for strong and effective measures to relieve the prohibition question, he contended, is Alfred E. Smith.

"He is the only candidate to date who is not tied up in the struggle for convention delegates with that element of the Democratic Party which would pussyfoot this vital issue," he said.

Mrs. Gann Scores Democrats in Talk

Manchester, N. H., April 14—Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister of Vice-President Charles Curtis, told a conference of Republican women here that the "demonstrated incapacity of the Democratic party to rule the country would be, one of the Republican assets in the coming campaign."

SMITH 'THREAT' HITS FRIENDS, SAYS CURLEY

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Mayor Curley today characterized the threat of Alfred E. Smith to "take off his coat and fight" as a shattering blow to those who have had faith in Smith's leadership.

The mayor said the Smith statement at the Jefferson dinner in Washington "does not in any measure either alter the situation or affect the ultimate result," and that the friends of Roosevelt and of the Democracy will continue their fight against the Hoover administration and "such allies as may rally to its support."

He mayor, addressing a capacity audience at the Roosevelt Forum, 39 Court st., declared there was nothing in the conduct or utterances of the present governor of New York to justify the Smith contention that he has attempted to array class against class.

In a separate defense of his father, James Roosevelt, said:

"For four years the people of this country have been deluded with false hopes, with vain promises that all would be well in a short time.

SON DEFENDS ROOSEVELT.

"We have had platitudes but no constructive action. I believe it is high time for some national leader to unmask the hypocrisy of the Federal Government in Washington and those who seem to control it.

"If, in so doing that leader be classed as a friend of the poor and oppressed, all I can say is keep your courage, fight the good fight of the people of America and Massachusetts will back you to the end."

Tonight Mayor Curley will be the principal speaker at a Roosevelt rally in Worcester. A parade with music and red fire will precede the speaking.

Smoot Asks Owners to Hold on to Stocks

Washington, April 14 (AP)—An appeal for holders of stocks to keep them rather than liquidate at present prices was voiced in the Senate today by Chairman Smoot of the finance committee.

Smoot said he wanted the say to the American people that "if there is any way you can hold onto your stocks, hold them, because there is no immediate value back of all of them than they are shown on the market today."

'Alfalfa Bill' Meets Democratic Chief 'He Never Heard of'

Denver, April 14 (AP)—Two governors who are awaiting the call of Democrats for the opportunity to serve their country in Washington have become acquainted.

The Rocky Mountain News reports this is what Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma said to Gov. George H. Dern of Utah, when they met on a train en route to Denver:

"Never heard of you. Are you a Democrat?"

Gov. Dern replied in the affirmative.

Harlow Resigns

Chicago, April 14—Bob Harlow has quit his position as head of the pro golfers' tourney play, it was learned today.

MRS. DREAR AND MRS. CHEER

Mrs. Drear: For mercy's sake would you look at my Polly and your Molly? Playing in that mud puddle and I haven't a clean stitch for Polly to put on.

Mrs. Cheer: Well, they've both got rosy cheeks and that's something to be thankful for. As for the dirt, Oxydol will take that out quick as scat.

Have you tried this new washing soap?

● Made by the same folks who make Ivory Soap, Oxydol is a real blessing for women who dread the dishpan and the washtub. Easy on hands, dissolves instantly; gives half again as much suds. See for yourself, it gets rid of dirt and grease in a jiffy and takes the backache out of housework.

Gossip Pickups:

Only reason we won't be a mean snooper and tell what we know about Brookline's Esther Raphel is because we want the folks who meet her at the Brunswick tonight to pester her with questions . . . "Mack," so-high doorman at the Grove, spends any spare minutes he has these nights counting the Pretty Ones' diamond scratches on the revolving doors' glass . . . So John R. McVey and Moe Hammilburg are looking over Galvin blvd's Winter Garden for a summer garden dance-and-nibble-place for Mickie Alpert, eh? . . . And Ann Gershon wants all those dollars for piano pattering via vaudeville, eh? . . . At that, Ann's a neat pianoster, folks . . . And Frank Moriarty is sillier than we ever thought if he gives his swell "I Came Too Late For Love" ditty to anyone before they cross his palm . . . Martin Gorecki is a sixteen-year-old stunner, wearing a St. John's Military Academy uniform at Delafield, Wisconsin, who writes love letters to Gilda Gray every day . . . Gilda happening to be Martin's "heart" and mother at the same time! . . . In two years he'll be a-militarying in Switzerland and after that he wants to settle down with his talented mother in the 13th century cottage she owns in the midst of 200 acres in Normandy, France . . .

More Dirt!

Jacques Renard had so many shows to do last week that private hearings on the bill were arranged so that the huge maestro could thrash it over with George Alpert as to whether he'd get that dough from 'way back when he used to collect weekly from the attorney who used to have the last word at the old Coconanut Grove . . . Those who witnessed said hearing claim G. A. had the Big Fellow plenty perspiry and lispy and on edge . . . Alma Sheppard's maternal grandmother was a full-blooded Narragansett Indian squaw, who left a unique and valuable collection of Indian jewelry that Alma's mater won't turn over to her yet . . . Alma is studying Indian lore and tunes, so don't be surprised if she blossoms forth in a blanket and a feather some day and makes 'em gasp all over again over her clear, natural high notes! . . . If we could only let you murders in as to who the person is who goaded them on to Helen Morgan's appearing at the Mayfair, you'd smile and chuckle and shake your heads! . . . And the pearly-toothed smile of the Grand Fellow we mean is even broader (if it's possible) to have wispy tuned Helen in the neighborhood . . . Catch on?

Lots of It!

With Fabien Sevitzky making such a definite and appreciative speech to the ladies and gentlemen of the press at his tea-party yesterday, we're hunching that he's getting the trunks out of the warehouse for a trek somewhere . . . Say it isn't for long, Fabien . . . Swell to hear that Ranny Weeks is ever readying for a movie test . . . We recall his telling us months back that it was the next thing in line he'd like to do—go cinema starring . . . Here's luck . . . Reporter William E. Tisdell's side hobby is photography, having a number of his better photo studies in a Joy st. salon's exhibition last week . . .

Lookin' Thru the Mail:

To Laura Simmons: Your "Appassionata" with such long sentences and so many of them interesting, but will have to be "mulled down" . . . Try it!

To Quincy's Rose Goran: Rudy Vallee feels that subject a bit too sacred for press comment or discussion . . . Letter most encouraging . . . Thanks.

To Mickey Bineman: Would have cared more for your note if you'd sent along those gags . . . Germs thoroughly on the retreat, we hope!

To Caroline's "G. B. C.": Would appreciate more facts about your favorite girl trumpeter, Leon Smith . . . Nice that she's been soloing with Fred Waring's crew at Manhattan's Roxy Theater . . . Impressed us with her sincere ways when we met her at the "Met."

To "The Marsh Brothers": Your appreciative spirit is commendable—we often a quality lacking which holds back talented ones from soaring in the Big Time after they make it . . . If you feel that your success is "just around the corner," we hope the depression criers have wept off a good chunk of it!

To Brookline's "D. M.": We have long been an ardent admirer of Miss Louise Frey, Brookline's smartest coiffure suggester . . . We noticed the delightful Easter-line wigs you mentioned . . . Glad to receive items but please sign names or initials—otherwards, be a bit more specific!

To Mr. Perdicaris: You seem to have a great knack, sir, of your letter-writing—which is also interesting . . . The first name has been slightly "dipped over," so what? . . . There's our secret is proof!

To Joseph Don Gnesnoff: Terribly sorry, but you were received after press time! Y. M. H. A. invite for the 25th, we'd already other plans . . . Some other time.

Manager Is Showdom Veteran

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

None but the best shows for what he considers the best theater in these United States! That is the slogan of Conrad Holmes, new manager of that gorgeous palace of pictorial pleasure, RKO Keith's. This executive is a showman in a big way, but he came into town as quietly as had Charlie Murray to this same house a few days earlier. Without fanfare, or ballyhoo, Holmes walked in, figuratively doffed his coat, and settled down to the brass tacks of business.

* * *

Holmes, in our talk with him on policy, program, and his modest self, inclusive of show ramifications in general, disclosed a wealth of knowledge which he brings to bear on his new job. He is a most impressive chap, with facts galore at his fingertips. And why not? He may be said to have grown up in the industries, movie, "legit," and vaudeville. What stories he can tell of celebrities he knows! Too, that sense of humor is so keen we are reminded of the above-mentioned Charlie Murray. Holmes, likewise, can be droll.

Brunel Photo.
Conrad Holmes

"Charlie? Great scout, great comic," he begins. "As of a myriad others, I can say, I knew him when. When he was, many years ago, a member of the 'code team of Murray & Mack."

* * *

Holmes is a dynamic executive and he doesn't look his years of theater service. The veteran is still a fighter. He answers:

"Thirty-five years ago I began in show business, and the past 23 of those years has been in the Keith organization, now RKO."

We ask him about his liking for Boston as his home town.

"Grand place to live in," he replies. "Funny thing—I've been in every state of the Union before, but Massachusetts. Now I come here to live. I don't know how I missed it unless it was that my assignments kept me elsewhere. But I am glad to come here and Mrs. Holmes will be glad with me to establish our domicile in the good old Yankee town."

* * *

Enthusiastic he is about the future for Keith's and RKO. For one thing he has just previewed "Symphony of Six Million."

"A remarkable picture, worthy to be shown in this wonderful house," he declares. "I can heartily recommend it. I know pictures, and I know this will be what Cape Codders call a humdinger. It is now showing at 82 top in New York. It is scheduled to open at Keith's April 29.

"It's a great story of the human heart, given an epic sweep by directorial treatment. Simply a marvelous film."

"Scandal for Sale," opening tomorrow in his house, Holmes says has great punch and should prove popular with the fans. He named off many other pictures, all looking good—"Girl Crazy," "State's Attorney," "Bird of Paradise," "West ard Passage," "Free Lady," "Back Street"—all these and more, all coming to Keith's. It does look like bigger and better pictures coming.

* * *

Enthusiastic, too, for Radio Pictures and RKO vaudeville—he loves the screen, and he loves the stage. How did he get his start?

"At the bottom," he states. "As usher, then trap drummer in the orchestra, then advance man, then house manager, branching into the bigger field of national booking and distribution."

A record of activity for a showman. That's why he knows his business so perfectly.

New Program at Bowdoin

With the change of bill at the Bowdoin Square today, the management offers return acts of standard vaudeville coupled with talking pictures.

One of the film features is "The Impatient Maiden," picturized from the novel which deals with the career of a young doctor who became infatuated with a pretty patient.

The associate film is "Sunshine Susie," with Jack Hulbert and Renee Muller.

Star's Eye Injury Closes "Hay Fever"

Because of an injury to her eye, Constance Collier, star of "Hay Fever," has been ordered by her physician to discontinue acting. For this reason the run of the play has closed at the Plymouth, and Miss Collier has gone to New York city for treatment. The eye has bothered her ever since she opened the engagement in Boston.

HOLLYWOOD'S "SWEETHEART GIRL" FEATURE OF NEW BILL

Mary Brian and Ken Murray headline the vaudeville at the Boston Saturday.

Spencer Tracy and Doris Kenyon in a scene from "Young America," a Fox film classic that will have its Boston premiere at the Paramount and the Uptown tomorrow.

Big Attractions for Met Stage

Listed for early arrival on the Metropolitan stage and screen are some of the most famed personalities of the day in the amusement world. Tomorrow Leo Carrillo appears in person on the stage, the screen attraction being Barbara Stanwyck in "So Big."

April 22 the famous Mills Brothers come in person, while on the screen will be "Misleading Ladies."

Leo Carillo

April 29 brings Anna May Wong in person.

May 6 brings Bing Crosby, radio crooner, in person, with a Ruth Chatterton picture on the screen, Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians come in person the week of May 13.

Madge Evans is featured in "Are You Listening?" on the Orpheum screen tomorrow.

Exeter Theater

Dolores Del Rio in "Girl of the Rio" and Warren Oland in "Charlie Chan's Chance," are the attraction at the Exeter for the remainder of the week.

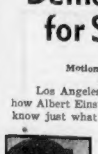
Scientists Are Invited to Demonstrate Theories for Series of Talkies

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service, Inc.
Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, April 14—You may yet be able to know just how Albert Einstein's theory of relativity works. You may also know just what Prof. R. L. Millikan means when he mentions the "Cosmic Ray." These eminent scientists have been approached to demonstrate in sound pictures their own particular fields.



Louella O. Parsons

Raymond L. Ditmars, head of the New York Zoological Gardens, James Truslow Adams are also among the scientists who will be asked to become stars in a series of pictures now under discussion.

Mrs. T. N. Faulconer, who conceived the idea, will conduct operations. George C. Pratt of Electrical Research Products, Inc., and J. Maurice Ridge, his associate, thought well enough of her plan to take it up with one of the major studios, where it is now being discussed.

• • •

Peak Moves to Fox

Wonder if you know that Lydell Peck, husband of Janet Gaynor, has now moved to the Fox studio and has his name on an office door. He used to be one of Paramount's scribblers. Henry King is reading "Salomy Jane" but that doesn't mean he will direct it. The chances are "Salomy Jane" will not be produced. Al Rockett is moving slowly and with care in selecting stories and Henry King has not yet delivered an opinion on the play. Richard Rowland's pleasant secretary, a girl that belongs below the Mason and Dixon line, was busy answering inquiries as to how Dick is feeling. He was eager to keep the news of his operation quiet until his wife could be told. Henry Stange, co-author with John Golden of "After Tomorrow," has parked his typewriter on the Paramount lot. He comes from a distinguished family. His father wrote the words for "The Chocolate Soldier."

Chatter in Hollywood

The Fairbanks will have house guests soon after they both reach home. Doug met Lady Yule and her daughter in Tahiti and extended an invitation to them to visit Pickfair. Lady Yule, who owns one of the biggest and fastest yachts in the world, was cruising in South Sea waters while the Fairbanks pictures were in the making. Mary Pickford gets here within 10 days to open the house and get everything in readiness for Doug's return. Gary Cooper is bringing back a baby chimpanzee with him from his South African travels.

"Bitter Sweet" for Grace

An underground whisper that came in a roundabout way is that Grace Moore has been approached to play the lead in "Bitter Sweet" by Fox. Of all the girls under consideration she would be the best, for her voice is the best woman's singing voice that has ever been on the screen and she never looked lovelier in her life than she did when she sang at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer dinner given to Vice-President Curtis. Another rumor that persists is that Marilyn Miller is still the hot favorite for "The Merry Widow." Marilyn is taking dancing lessons every day and keeping herself fit in case this motion picture plum does fall in her lap. I happen to know she has had two stage offers, but that she has not entirely gotten motion pictures out of her system.

New Films for Johnny

Johnny Mack Brown

Time was when the big companies turned disdainful backs on any of our independents, but the independents have been doing such good things they just cannot be ignored. Johnny Mack Brown, erstwhile football hero and leading man to Joan Crawford, Marion Davies and others of our screen headliners, will be the leading light in these thrillers. The first, called "S'wanee Goes West," will have Phil Rosen as director. I'd like to see Johnny put over these pictures with a bang. Another movie job given the former Alabama fullback is with Trem Carr. He will play the lead in "The Fatal Alarm" opposite Noel Francis, with Richard Tucker as the chief character actor.

Globe Trotter

The dead city of Chapei has been re-opened by the Japanese who destroyed it to enable the Chinese refugees to salvage the belongings that remain in the ruins. Pitiful pictures of the return of the homeless to the scenes of desolation are contained in the new issue of Hearst Metrotone News, with a graphic description by the Globe Trotter. Former householders in the shell and fire swept districts are seen digging in the debris, while walls of buildings crumble all about them. Many of the unfortunates again narrowly escape death from the collapsing walls. There are scenes of the League of Nations Inquiry Commission, headed by Lord Lytton, making its first visit of inspection to Chapei.

More than 150,000 persons gathered in the Lustgarten in the shadow of the Schloss in Berlin to greet Adolf Hitler, leader of the Socialists in the final rally before the voting in which President Hindenburg was re-elected by more than six million votes. Hitler is seen and heard as he outlines his platform. There are also street scenes in Berlin, with many thousands singing patriotic songs and cheering wildly for President Hindenburg, who is also seen and heard.

Clara Tree Major Cast Will Present "Heidi"

Clara Tree Major, director of the Children's Theater group, has dramatized Johanna Spyri's book "Heidi." On the stage at the Repertory, on Saturday April 30, at 10:15 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.

Rector Captivates Martha Lee School

Judge Gordon, A. & P.'s food news expert on the "OUR DAILY FOOD" program, gives "Spot News" of great interest to the housewife who budgets her income. (Strand Photo.)

Marvelous. Wonderful. Gorgeous. All the joy words in the language tumbled over one another as the Martha Lee Cooking School session came to an end yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of the talk and demonstration lecture by Mr. George Rector, who came to the school through the co-operation of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

That so suave, so gracious and yet so intimate manner which won every heart, was the warm personality that is remembered by the old timers who wined and dined at the famous Rector's in New York a generation or two ago. World traveller, bon vivianite of the Eastern and Western hemispheres, Mr. Recktor took his class on a trip to little known places where unfamiliar dishes delight the palate. He made his "Cook's" Tour of the United States live for his audience, and then delved into the mysteries of making everyday dishes appeal to the epicure.

SOUP PREPARED

Philadelphia pepper pot soup, which Mr. Rector was too wise to explain to a Philadelphia audience he explained in detail to his Boston friends, his chef meanwhile concocting the dish at the kitchen's big range. Later the ladies sampled the result and pronounced it perfect. Our New England "apple-pie-for-breakfast" habit came in for a touch of Mr. Rector's wit, and with it he dished a bit of praise, "and with such apple pie as New England makes, with New England apples—who wouldn't eat it for breakfast or for any other meal."

Tripe—humble, prosaic tripe—became a dish for a king as Mr. Rector told the many ways of preparing this dish, which Boston seems to consume in greater amounts than are consumed in any other city. Not suggesting the famous provincial French method of preparation which takes 24 hours, Mr. Rector nevertheless made many suggestions for service and preparation of tripe, both fresh and pickled.

Other dishes demonstrated included lobster thermidor, Hungarian goulash, French fried onions, French pancakes.

JUDGE GORDON SPEAKS

Mr. Rector's appearance at the Martha Lee School yesterday was his second in two days, and ends his schedule for our students for this year. His visit of another season is eagerly looked forward to by the members of the Martha Lee classes, and when Mr. Rector comes to us again, we are sure to need the "Standing Room Only" signs, or else we shall have to hire a big outside hall to accommodate his friends and ours.

With Mr. Rector making introductions, answering questions and doing the thousand and one things so necessary to keep things moving smoothly was A&P's famous Judge Gordon, radio market advisor on the popular "Our Daily Food" radio programs.

Particularly appealing to the audience was Judge Gordon's invitation to write letters to him on any question relative to foods or food sources, so that he may answer in detail the questions which even the friendliest store manager might not be able to answer. "Such fan mail," said Judge Gordon. "It is a delight to receive and a joy to answer."

Maybe I'm Wrong (About Hollywood)

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

Hollywood, April 14—They had just returned home from an automobile ride, and being married to her, he let her struggle out of the car by herself.

"Why didn't you help me out?" she asked. "You're not so gallant as you were when I was a gal."

"No," he replied, "and you're not so buoyant as you used to be when I was a boy."

The Crack of the Day

Jack Oakie and Eugene Pallette were discussing a husky movie actor at lunch the other day.

"He wears number 13 shoes," said Oakie.

"Yeh," said Pallette. "He has such big feet they'll have to push him over when he dies."

First Irish Talkie Ends Run Saturday

"Sweet Inniscarra," excellent picture of Irish drama and life and scenes, ends its run at Tremont Temple, Saturday night. This photoplay was made in Ireland, the first of its kind to be produced entirely on the Emerald Isle, with an All-Irish cast. Its theme is that of Chauncey Olcott's famous play of the same time; but Emmett Moore, film producer, has modernized it, so that it reflects many angles of Irish life of today.

Stars Shining

Overhead the film firmament shines brightly in the Boston sector. The stars come in galactic fashion. Tomorrow Leo Carrillo appears on the Met stage, and James Hall holds the boards at Loew's Orpheum. Saturday, Mary Brian and Ken Murray come before the footlights at the RKO Boston. Then, the "legit" on Monday brings another, Jacqueline Logan, who appears in a comedy at the Wilbur.

BIG EVENTS AT GARDEN

Manager Dick Dunn of the Boston Garden announced today that he had completed negotiations for the Ringling Bros. Barnum-Bailey Circus, the Boston Horse Show, and the World's Championship Rodeo, under the direction of Col. William T. Johnson, of Texas, all to be staged at the Garden within the next seven months.

The circus, world's greatest show ever held indoors, opens at the Garden May 2 and lasts until May , inclusive.

The Boston Horse Show, one of the greatest social and horse events in the United States, will be held in the Garden and Exposition Hall during the week of October 25.

This year's show will be the fourth in the Garden.

The World's Championship Rodeo stages the final contests of 1932 for the championships of United States and Canada, from November 4 to November 12, inclusive. The contest series holds its elimination contest in Chicago, finals in New York, and the bals here in the Boston Garden.

Rally in Newton

The Waltham Women's Republican Club will hold a rally this evening in the Banks school in the interests of the candidacy of Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton and delegates to the National Convention.

RODEO CHARMS SICK CHILDREN

Trick mules, clowns, real live Indians, cowgirls and trick ropers brightened the lives of more than 200 kiddies at Children's Hospital when the rodeo moved right to their bedsides.

Encores after encore was demanded—and given—as the little patients screamed their delight at the antics.

Tex Cooper, an old-time Indian fighter, and his 230-pound dog, Rover, particularly interested the kids.

Then there was Chief Whitecloud, a Sioux Indian, who told them thrilling tales about his race, and Swede Johnson and Jack Owens, clowns, sent them into gales of laughter.

Little Ralph and Loraine Graham, each less than 10 years, thrilled with difficult rope tricks. Cowboys Buddy Mafford and Billy Hammond and Cowgirl Thelma Warner, tallest cowgirl in the country, added their share.

It was a great day!

BUSINESS MEN OPPOSE MAIL RATE BOOST

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Vigorous opposition to increasing the first class postage rate from two to three cents was voiced before the Senate finances committee today by the National Council of Business Mail Users.

Through Richard H. Lee of New York, its general counsel, the organization attacked the increases contained in the revenue bill as passed by the House. He contended it would handicap business and asserted that "postal rates are not a proper source for raising revenue."

Senator King of Utah promptly took issue with him and asserted he favored making the Postoffice Department self-supporting.

A tax on copper imports was urged by Harry S. Joseph, Salt Lake City mining engineer. He charged that some Eastern copper fabricators are fighting a tax on imports of the metal while they themselves enjoy protection against copper goods fabricated abroad.

PLOT TO RESCUE FOUR CONVICTS

New Haven, Ct., April 14 (INS)—Police and deputy sheriffs believed today they had foiled a conspiracy by a score of armed New York thugs to snatch four convicted bandits from the law's hands.

The plot was mapped to materialize at the gates of New Haven jail as Fred Lucenta and Lawrence Santoro of New York city, John Del Vasto of New Haven and Carmine Consiglio of Newburgh, N. Y., were taken into automobiles headed for state prison to serve terms varying from one to 12 years after pleading guilty to a $2200 shirt company payroll holdup.

Tipped off, 19 policemen and deputy sheriffs did an "flying wedge" formation about the four prisoners, hustled them into cars and off to prison.

Two or three suspicious looking individuals were lurking about the jail entrance.

League Committee Called

Geneva, April 14 (AP)—The committee of 19 of the League of Nations assembly will meet here Saturday to consider the situation at Shanghai.

FLOOD MENACE IS FACING N. E.

New England today was facing the danger of serious floods at many points, approaching those of 1927, which caused great damage and loss of life.

The Merrimack river passed the flood stage at Manchester, N. H., this morning, and reports from places further up told of inundated lowlands, threatening farmhouses and necessitating the rescue of cattle.

The rising waters of the Merrimack at Lowell reached within four feet of the 1927 flood today, overflowed into the lowlands and backed up into tributaries with alarming rapidity.

The most serious threat of damage was at the boiler room of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway's power house on Marginal st., that city.

The Connecticut, Kennebec and other rivers were also overflowing. Bridges were blotted out on many small roads, while main highways in some places were flooded or blocked by landslides.

Eight Burned to Death in House

Altoona, Pa., April 14—Eight persons, five of them children, were burned to death in a fire at Hensheytown, near here, last night.

Four of the dead are children of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dillon, whose home burned. Mrs. Goldie Hollibaugh Krebmer and her month-old baby also perished.

BOY BRANDED BY STEPMOTHER WITH IRON

Worcester, April 14—A revolting tale of child torture was unfolded in court here today with the arraignment of a stepmother for searing a 7-year-old boy with a red hot poker.

The woman, Mrs. Anna M. St Lawrence of 12 Grace st., admitted her guilt.

She told the court the child "bothered" her.

Everett St. Lawrence, the victim, is one of five children of Octave St. Lawrence, second husband of Mrs. St. Lawrence. Two of her own children also live at the house.

A six-inch burn on the boy, ending in a deep hole caused by the end of the poker, was described by officials of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

They said the boy was held down by the stepmother Tuesday in the St. Lawrence home and was left nothing in pain after the "brand" was inflicted.

It was the second time the boy was burned by his stepmother, prosecution officers told the court.

At another time Mrs. St. Lawrence applied the red-hot poker to his wrist in retaliation for a prank, it is said.

The boy's father was in court but did not testify. He admitted that he filed complaint with the children's society that resulted in the boy's arrest. He agreed to leave the child in the custody of the society temporarily.

Because of the attitude of Mrs. St. Lawrence in court today and other circumstances, the court denied disposition of the case until tomorrow. A mental examination of the mother was ordered meanwhile.

SUMNER WILL AIDS CHARITY

Mrs. Frederica D. Sumner, wife of Maj.-Gen. Samuel S. Sumner, retired, veteran of the Civil, Indian and Spanish Wars and the Boxer Rebellion, made several charitable bequests in her will, filed today in Probate Court at Dedham. Her estate was in Brookline.

Oklahoma Democrat Retains House Seat

Washington, April 14 (AP)—A House elections committee today voted to disallow a recount asked by Charles O'Connor, Republican, and declared Wesley E. Disney, Dmocrat, elected to the House from the First Oklahoma Congressional district.

The committee vote was seven to one.

'Queen' Locked Up

Mae Jeryld Phipps, blonde "bootleg queen" of Brockton, who was held in $25,000 bail today on charges of complicity in the shooting of Arthur B. Perry of West Bridgewater. She was locked up pending bonds.

'RUM GIRL' HELD IN $25,000 AS CROWD STORMS

Brockton, April 14—Men and women spectators fought with court officers here today for a glimpse at Mae Jeryld Phipps, blonde "bootleg queen," charged with assault with intent to murder Arthur B. Perry of West Bridgewater in an alleged rum fracas.

Pale for lack of makeup after a night in custody of police, Miss Phipps pleaded not guilty and was held for the grand jury in $25,000. Pending bonds she was locked up.

Harry Crocker, 26, and Thomas E. Healey, 32, both of Brockton, were held on similar bail and charges yesterday in connection with the affair.

The Phipps girl, who battled police and a matron around the Taunton police station last summer, was arrested at the home of her mother yesterday.

Charges that the statuesque blonde took part in the shooting of Perry while she was attired in man's clothing were made today by police after a search of the farm revealed a leather jacket, a felt hat and other male apparel.

'NO CITY POWER TAX'-GARNER

Los Angeles, April 14—Speaker John N. Garner, in a letter received by John B. Elliott, manager of the Garner campaign in southern California, gave friends of the Los Angeles bureau of power and light assurances that there would be no federal tax on municipal light and power sales.

"This is particularly good news for citizens of Los Angeles," said Elliott, in announcing receipt of the letter. "Under such a tax provision, the Southern California Edison Company would have been permitted to pass it along to the city on the electrical energy it sells to the city. But it would have been bad policy, and practically impossible, for the city to pass it along to consumers. Hence, this municipal enterprise, owned by the people, would have had its revenues substantially decreased and its ability to meet service demands reduced.

"When that proposal was pending the Water and Power department sent a representative to Washington to protest. He found Speaker Garner thoroughly familiar with our municipal power enterprise through his interest in Boulder Dam, and in sympathy with it."

Advertising Men Invite Hoover

Washington, April 14 (AP)—President Hoover was invited today to the 28th annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America to be held June 19-23 in New York.

The invitation was delivered by Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the federation and member of the executive board of the New York Sun, and by Edgar Kobak, advertising director of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company.

Ex-Inspector Larkin, 70, Dies in Quincy

John T. Larkin, a retired lieutenant-inspector of Quincy police, died today at the age of 70 at the Quincy hospital after a long illness.

Inspector Larkin was nursed constantly by his daughter Constance, who is connected with the hospital, and she, together with other members of the family, were at the bedside when he died.

Thomas Larkin, a member of the Quincy Park Commission, and Dr. Richard Larkin, sons, and Miss Catherine Larkin, another daughter, also survive.

Brookhart Offered Rival's Radio, Stew

Shenandoah, Ia., April 14 (AP)—Senator Brookhart. (R., Iowa) will eat Henry Field's chicken stew and speak over Field's radio station KFNF as usual this summer, even though Field will oppose him for the Senatorial nomination.

Field has invited Brookhart to make use of the station and "eat chicken stew with Mrs. Field and myself at the cottage as usual."

'Wonderland Alice,' 80, Coming to U. S.

Westerham, Kent, Eng., April 14 (INS)—Mrs. Alice Hargraves, who as a little girl was the inspiration for Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," said today she would sail for the United States next Wednesday.

Mrs. Hargraves, who is 80 years old, will attend numerous American celebrations of the centenary of the birth of the writer.

Work on Lafayette Highway Ordered

Concord, N. H., April 1 4(AP)—State Highway Commissioner F. E. Everett today announced immediate reconstruction will be undertaken of about six miles of roadway on the Lafayette Highway, which runs through New Hampshire between the Massachusetts border and the Maine state line. Local labor will be favored.

Fire Menaces East White Horse Beach

Plymouth, April 14—Houses in the summer colony at East White Horse beach had a narrow escape from destruction by fire when the summer dwelling of H. Bradford Wyand of Grayson st., Dorchester, was burned to the ground.

SQUIRES FIGHT UP TO VOTERS

St. John's, N. F., April 14 (AP)—Newfoundland's tangled political skein will be thrown to the electorate to be unravelled.

Following a government party caucus yesterday it was announced the business of the present legislature would be disposed of as quickly as possible to make way for a general election.

Prime Minister Sir Richard Squires will lead the government forces, but he will be without the services of several of his present ministers.

Sir William Coaker, minister without portfolio: W. W. Halfyard, minister of posts, and Dr. Arthur Barnes, secretary of state, will retire from public life after dissolution of the House. It now appears that only three ministers will serve with the prime minister at the inception of the government in 1928. Will enter the campaign—Dr. Alexander Campbell, F. G. Bradley and Sir Tasker Cook, all ministers without portfolio.

The legislature will reconvene April 19.

2 Held in Burning of 7-Year-Old Boy

Richmond, Va., April 14 (INS)—Two men were under arrest today charged with attempting to burn seven-year-old William Sheets. The boy was brought to a hospital here 10 days ago in a serious condition.

Police conducted a secret investigation and arrested Warren Wade, 18, and Earl Wade, 27, relatives. It is charged the boy was forced into a barrel filled with paper, which was ignited.

LIVE MEN IN DUMMY JOBS

Wax Stars Go on 'Heat Strike'

Hollywood, April 14 (AP)—Hot dummies leave movie directors cold. A wax works scene was being filmed here. The heat of the incandescents was too much for the wax figures. Their smiles turned into frowns, and their ears drooped. So live actors took their places.

LAW FOR BRIDE

New York, April 14 (AP)—The law should be the lawyers' only wife, says Chief Justice Gaston Pessin of the St. Pierre Miquelon Supreme Court. The justice, who is 31 and a bachelor, believes unmarried attorneys have the best chance.

MOONLIGHT TOWN

Rutland, O., April 14 (AP)—Rutland hopes the moon shines right beginning next Saturday. City council, finding the light bill a little onerous for the village income, has notified the light company it can "douse the glim" April 16.

DEAD GIVEAWAY

Kansas City, April 14 (AP)—Oswald Jacoby—he of the psychic bids—says the best bridge players never arrange their hands by suits. "If they did this, shrewd opponents would look to see where they drew their cards from and it would be a tip-off."

FATHER OF SEVEN GETS JAIL IN AID FRAUD

THIS IS LIFE

'BEHEMOTH' BY TWO TECH MEN IS REVELATION ON ROMANCE OF BRAINS

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

"NOW THAT HISTORY and biography and science have been humanized, obviously the next step was to humanize our industrial and engineering world. Hodgins and Magoun, who did it once in 'Sky High' have done it again and better in 'Behemoth.' This story of power, of the world's great feats of engineering, is written with gusto, humor and beauty. It is enthralling reading.

Ordinarily I do not like blurbs on book jackets. But I do like this blurb on the jacket of the new book "Behemoth" (Doubleday-Doran editor of "The Youth's Companion" until it was scuttled and sank, and by Prof. F. Alexander Magoun who is now teaching "Humanics" at the Institute. I like the blurb because I wrote it myself. And I like the book, not so much because my friends wrote it, but because it seems to me another significant step in the humanizing of the kind of knowledge that our modern world must have if it is to understand its destinies.

PROF. ROGERS

The authors are very careful to differentiate their book from all those others that argue pro and con about what the machine age has done to humanity.

"The authors have little idea of what is wrong with our 'machine civilization' and have labored to avoid giving any accidental impression to the contrary. They are in the odd emotional state that the economic pronouncements of, say, Dr. Julius Klein, fill them with longing for a world of spinning wheels, parched corn, and goat's milk—yet the mediaevalism of Mr. Ralph Adams Cram is just as likely to drive them, sobbing, into the arms of Mr. Charles M. Schwab. The horns of a dilemma, as a more gifted pen has set down, are sounding outside their door. Their book, then, defends no one and indicts no one. Its purpose is purely narrative."

But towards the end they add, significantly:

"These are the machines which, regardless of whether we like it or not, are changing the lives of everyone. It is a change of constant acceleration . . . Neither Caesar; George Washington, Alexander the Great, nor Napoleon Bonaparte was able to effect, in the world in which he lived, one thousandth part of the change which began to come over it when the steam engine of James Watt first girded up its loins . . .

"It is all very puzzling. If the millennium which James Watt and Michael Faraday thought they were bringing into the world has not arrived, it is certainly not the fault of the scientists and engineers who have followed in their footsteps. Rather it is the fault of the rest of the world, equipped as it is with politicians and sociologists who have not been able to readjust their own arts and sciences to keep pace with the tremendous onrush of modern improvements . . .

One a Mystery, One a Religion

"The men who brought power into the world are not properly described by the term 'crass materialists' so often applied to them. Of the two great media of power, steam and electricity, one is unpalpable and both are invisible. There are no materials; and there was little materialism in the minds that worked with them. What they sought to solve and to create, and what their successors of today would equally solve and create, is something very different—a mystery and a religion."

The book begins with the most complex and weakest of all engines, the human body, and goes on to deal with beast power (horses and oxen), and then with primitive water and wind power and their amusing and hopeless and useful developments. But the real epic begins with steam, the story of which is long and fascinating, highly amusing and at times thrilling. The importance of steam and its derivatives in the modern world may best be expressed in quotation:

"Suppose for a moment that you are living in the early 18th century and have a friend who is dissatisfied with the life of the day. He has a vision of how a million lacks of the 18th century may be made up. He would propose to speed up travel from 20 miles a day to 100 miles an hour. He would replace the guttering candle with a globe that packed the brilliance of a thousand candles into the area of a ten cent piece. Into the volume of the Sedan chair you travel in, he would cram the combined power of 500 horses. He would see that buildings could be built to a height 20 times greater than that which stretches now from the roof-tree to the foundation of your flimsy house, and that, notwithstanding, you could rise to their tops in less than a minute at no cost to yourself or drop as quickly without breaking a bone. He would tell you that your lightest spoken words could be picked up, magnified, and flung with a power 50,000 times greater than the combined voice of the universe across 5000 miles of barren space to be heard as perfectly as if you had whispered in your neighbor's ear. He would suggest a way through which you could walk dry-shod under rivers.

Would Have Been Jailed for Lunacy

"And then your visionary friend would tell you that it was not magic, not sorcery, that he would invoke to bring about these miracles. When he told you his simple means you would see to it promptly that he was cast in jail, gyved at the ankles and shackled at the wrists as all lunatics (this is still the 18th century) should be. For he would propose to create the 20th century out of the 18th century by overheating water in a closed container."

These quotations give you some sense of the wit and quickness of the book's style. They can give you no hint of the mass of scientific detail, treated with the same wit and quickness, which is imbedded in these fascinating stories of the long heartbreaking experimentation that went to produce the stationary steam engine, the locomotive and marine engine; that, starting with amber and the jerking legs of dead frogs, produced the dynamo and high power transmission and the wireless. They can give you no hint of the multitudes of vivid thumbnail sketches of the men who have failed and succeeded in their odd and groping experiments, nor of the great portentous figure that stands behind them all, sneering and doubting, whom the authors call 'the Conservative Party.'

My space is exhausted but not the possibilities of the book. One idea in particular, which sticks out like a sore thumb throughout it all and which bears upon this modern fad for "scientific planning," versus empirical trial and error, is interesting enough to deserve to be referred to later. Meantime it is enough to say that the authors of "Behemoth" have carried on more than ably the great and valuable tradition of Mr. H. G. Wells.

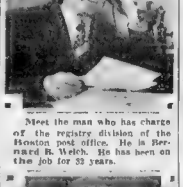
At Post Office With the Candid Camera

By CANDID CAMERA

My latest assignment brought me to the headquarters of the largest postal district in the country, the Boston post office, on Atlantic ave. The workers in this postal station will have a new "home" when the new post office building, now under construction, is completed.

First I thought I'd call on Postmaster William E. Hurley. Mr. Hurley was just finishing a conference when I arrived. He has jurisdiction over the Boston postal area.

Then I made up my mind to get a "shot" of the man who sees that your letters are sent to the right address and not lost. Here he is, J. H. Cleary of Cambridge, superintendent of delivery.



Meet the man who has charge of the registry division of the Boston post office. He is Bernard B. Welch. He has been on the job for 33 years.

Mr. B. F. B. Farley of Abington is the man who sees that all the mail addressed to men in the business section of Boston is not delayed. He's been in the postal service for 28 years.

2 FATHERS HELD IN THEFT OF 'RELIEF'

One Appeals a Jail Term on Watertown Charge of Getting Poor Aid Illegally

Charged with larceny of $266 30 in poor relief from the town of Watertown, Bernardino Severino, 54, father of seven, was sentenced in Waltham Court today to two months in jail.

Vincenzo Caruso, 45, father of six, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge that involved $176 and was held for hearing April 21.

Severino appealed and was held in $300.

Town officials charged he was employed on a Weston farm while his family received aid at 112 Edenfield ave., Watertown.

Caruso was a laborer for the town and received aid at the same time, the complaint charged. He lives at 127 Myrtle st., Watertown.

Many other cases are under investigation, the court was told.

Everett School Head Honored

A testimonial dinner was tendered last night to Superintendent of Schools Fairfield W. Whitney, with more than 400 teachers and former pupils attending.

DRIVER KILLED IN CAR PLUNGE DOWN A BANK

Kelley, Medfield Sportsman, Is a Victim in a Walpole Crash; Wife Injured

Out of control after a front tire blew out, the auto of George F. Kelley, 40, ripped through the guard rail of the Elm st. bridge, Walpole, early today, whirled down a 20-foot embankment and roared on for 150 feet before crashing between a parked auto and a house.

The machine overturned in the crash and Kelley and his wife Mrs. Ruth Kelley, 37, were pinned under the wreckage. They were extricated by Sergt. Timothy Cunningham and Patrolmen Daniel Hennessey and Harold Higgins of the Walpole police.

Kelley was dead when removed from the wreckage. His wife was seriously injured and police rushed her to the Norwood Hospital.

Kelley was well known in the section as a sportsman and was the owner of Fair Acre Farm in Medfield.

WIFE AND SON WITH HIM AS END COMES

Boston Electric Magnate Had Gone to Atlantic City Week Ago in Quest of Health

Charles L. Edgar of Brookline, president of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, died early today at the Hotel Marlborough-Blenheim, in Atlantic City, N. J.

Edgar who was 72, was stricken with pneumonia at the resort Sunday and his condition grew steadily worse. At midnight his condition was reported as very critical.

His son, Lewis L. Edgar, a vice-president of the Edison Company, left Boston for Atlantic City yesterday when it seemed that his father's condition had taken a turn for the worse. He arrived there late yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar went to Atlantic City about a week ago.

He was born in Gloucester, N. J., Dec. 23, 1859, and was educated at the Rutgers preparatory school and later at Rutgers College. He received his degree as electrical engineer in 1883, and joined the Edison Company in the same year.

He became president of the company in 1900 on the death of Jacob Rogers. He was an intimate friend of the late Thomas A. Edison.

Edgar was a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Illuminating Engineering Society, National Geographic Society, National Civic Federation, National Electric Light Association and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

He was also a member of the Engineers Clubs of Boston and New York, the University Club of New York, the Exchange and Algonquin Clubs of Boston, and the Brookline Country Club.

MOTHER SEES SON SENTENCED

While his mother looked on stoically, William Weyand, 23, pleaded guilty to two robberies in Suffolk Superior Court today and was sentenced to eight to 12 years in State Prison.

Court attaches said they had learned Weyand was a member of a well-to-do Philadelphia family. Summoned at Gloucester, His mother, who said she came from Philadelphia to see her son before he went to prison, spent 10 minutes with him in the detention room.

Weyand was brought up from Deer Island under guard. An old suspended sentence was invoked when he was arrested in connection with investigation of the escape of William E. ("Bad Willie") Gray from Charles st. jail. The prison sentence superseded the Deer Island sentence.

Weyand pleaded guilty to robbing Arthur Maynard of $400 in a garage on Shawmut ave., and to robbing Celia Hodess of $205 in a store at 47 Waltham st.

PAY DAY AGAIN IN CHELSEA

For the first time in nine weeks, 500 Chelsea municipal employes, from the mayor down, will go to City Treasurer William Hedderson's office for their pay today.

Payment of the wages of the city employes was ordered by Mayor Quigley, after he had completed arrangements for a $250,000 loan from the First National Bank in Boston.

All city workers will receive nine full weeks' pay by check.

House Canvass in Job Drive

Co-operation of all Boston women's clubs in the job finding campaign of the Boston emergency committee on unemployment was promised at a meeting in the Y. W. C. A. today.

Louis J. Hunter, chairman of the neighborhood work center committee, outlined the needs, aims and purposes of the campaign and spoke of the results thus far in the drive, which has created approximately 20,000 hours of work in the first three days.

Plans were made for organizing the women to assist in the house-to-house campaign in the various wards.

TOWNS STRIKE AT WEYMOUTH

Weymouth plans to refuse aid to the needy who have lived there less than five years, brought a ruling today that its own legal settlers who are forced elsewhere to turn to Weymouth or forfeit their aid.

Out of a maze of charges, interpretations of the law and counter interpretations came another announcement in the effect that the board of selectmen will hear public views on the situation Monday.

The town adopted March 7 provided that:

No part of $168,250, provided for charity, be available for the support, for a longer period than three months, of any person having a lawful settlement in any other city or town of the Commonwealth, which settlement has been established in any of the ways provided by law."

Those opposed to eviction methods claimed the article gave no authority to evict, but merely denied aid.

The others argued that state law provides that no one may be left to starve and implies that such persons must be forcibly moved to their own settlements.

IT'S ART WEEK IN BOSTON

RICHARD F. BACH JAMES F. FAIRCLOUGH, JR.

Richard F. Bach, director of relations of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, being greeted by James H. Faircloush, Jr., chairman of the art week luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce today. Mr. Bach was the chief speaker at the luncheon.

BURGLARS SET $100,000 FIRE

A $100,000 fire in Mattapan sq., Dorchester, six months ago, was set to cover a burglary, police charged today, when they arrested Arthur E. Cook, 21, of Fremont pl., Dorchester.

Cook was arrested by Patrolmen Albert J. Caulfield, son of the deputy fire chief, Henry Donovan and Benjamin Goodman of the arson squad.

In Dorchester district court he was held for a hearing April 28 in $2000 for arson and $1000 for breaking and entering.

The fire was in the rear of a drug store at 1624 Blue Hill ave.

Police said their investigation led them to the home of Cook where merchandise, including Christmas boxes, were found.

TARR MOVES TO FORFEIT RUM

U. S. Atty. Frederick M. Tarr today filed papers with the clerk of the federal court asking that liquors and paraphernalia seized in and about Boston and in various parts of the state be condemned by decree of forfeiture and the proceeds distributed according to law.

Included in the list of contraband are liquors and material taken by dry agents at a place in Eastern ave., Chelsea, where Andrew DeMarco of that city and James Sears of Raymond, N. H. were arrested on liquor charges and later discharged, because no warrant had been obtained.

The liquors seized in the de luxe speakeasy known as the Newbury Club at 370 Newbury st. along with the paraphernalia taken are used. The place according to the records was conducted by Bernard Rodney of Roslin.

Ely Picks Quinn as Special Justice

Governor Ely has submitted to the executive council the nomination of Thomas F. Quinn of Natick as special justice of the Natick Court.

Edison Head Dies

PLAYGIRLS IN LOVE « A Serial About the NEW Modern Girl « By MAY CHRISTIE

Judith Is Startled When Barry Arrives at the 'Purple Parrot'

What Has Gone Before

Young and pretty Judith Brian, a secretary in the Knickerbocker Bank, and Barry Deane, young executive, are secretly attracted to one another. Judith, however, feels that Barry is above her socially. Zella, Judith's friend, receives an attractive offer from Loranda Tewson, society girl, to manage a dress shop for her. A big crowd attends the opening. Judith meets Barry again. She refuses Jack Ordway's invitation to dance

Now Read On—

By MAY CHRISTIE
Author of "High Speed Girl" and Other Famous Novels

IMMEDIATELY inside the speakeasy, there was a bar with perhaps 20 or 30 people propping up the rail, an incessant popping of corks and clink of ice, and beyond it lay the kitchens and the restaurant.

The four passed through into an oblong room that was cleverly laid out to represent a miniature jungle. Trellises hung with trick fruits and artificial leaves separated the tables. The main lighting of the room came from illuminated cages where live birds chirped, and from a purplish-blue moon that cast an unearthly radiance.

On a raised platform at one end, on banks of ferns with silver mosses trickling down from the branches of trees, a South Sea orchestra played and crooned romantically. Nearby a parokeet swung on a hoop, its plumage dyed shades of purple.

Freddy made his way to a group of three small tables that were set under a tree that fairly dripped with artificial smilax. At one of these they sat, and Freddy ordered supper for the four of them, and soft drinks, and Chester produced from his pocket the inevitable [illegible]

Judith danced with Freddy first. She forced herself to a seeming careless gaiety that was attune to Freddy's mood, laughing at his fancy steps and exaggerated compliments.

DREAMING OF BARRY

"Full of dis, dem and doze, aren't you, honey? And eyes! Oh, boy! Turn off dem lamps, chile, yo' sho' make me dizzy!"

"And you're a great sheik yourself, I hear? The original fast worker from Flatbush, Freddy?"

"And you're some little ankle shaker!"

They ate, and talked, and danced and the room that had a garish woodland beauty was flooded with Hawaiian music

It made Judith dream. Hot sands. Coral reefs. Love songs. Barry.

Why couldn't he be here to continue their enchanted talk? Why must it be just Freddy?

Time slipped away. It was past eleven and Zella was about to make a move to go, saying that hard-working boys and girls ought to be heading for home sweet home and the downy pillow, when there was a stir at the door of the restaurant of the Purple Parokeet, and heads craned round as two white ermine coats and one magnificent chinchilla entered.

Ermine coat Number One had a high fox collar that framed Loranda Tewson's pretty face and golden hair, while coat Number Two—worn by a red-headed girl was shabbier. The rather sallow Betty Graves wore the chinchilla wrap that Judith had seen earlier today, and immediately behind her was Jack Ordway

"For heaven's sakes, he's actually followed you here!" Zella whispered to Judith.

HEART IN TAILSPIN

But Judith's heart had gone into a tail spin at sight of Barry Deane among the group that—hesitating for a moment and then led by Ordway—was coming directly across the floor to their corner

Judith went white. Now that her wish had come to pass, the very breath seemed to leave her body.

How handsome Barry looked in his evening clothes, thought Judith How splendidly they fitted his lithe lean figure!

Loranda caught his arm possessively as though to radio "Hands off. He's my man!" and before they reached the table, as the orchestra struck up the first bar of a throbbing waltz she gave an ecstatic "Ah-h!", flung her other arm on Barry's shoulder and whirled him off before he could greet Judith

"Well, this is a pleasant surprise!" Jack Ordway, a white gardenia in the lapel of his coat, hailed the two girls, and shepherded the parties together. "Betty, we'll take those tables here." With an air that was half amused and half in the grand manner, he effected the necessary introductions.

"May I present Mr. Lawton Clissold, my good friend?" An older, very blase-looking, but extremely handsome man bowed to Zella and Judith. He had a high, aristocratic nose, a single eyeglass dangled by a ribbon from his vest, and a beautiful black pearl adorned his snowy shirt front.

THE WICKED HAWK

"Be careful. The wicked hawk after the pretty little lovebird!" Thus spoke Freddy, to cover his own sudden lack of ease in the presence of so much "swank"—and nudging Judith.

But immediately Mr Lawton Clissold was led off to the nearby table by the red-haired woman who had been introduced as Mrs. Genevieve Something-or-other.

"And take it from me she's jealous as hell of anybody that gives the handsome hawk one look!" Freddy counselled Judith in a sepulchral whisper.

"I've sold dresses to her when I was at Braunwitz's store. That chap often came in with her. She's an unhappy person," said Zella.

Meantime Betty Graves, who had apparently looked upon the wine when it was red at her own dinner-table that night—as indeed most of them had—was insisting on ordering champagne for the entire party.

The music came to an end Barry conducted Loranda to the second of the two tables.

Judith thought wretchedly. She planned that! She wants to keep him to herself!" She saw Barry help Loranda slip the ermine coat from her shoulders that gleamed like polished ivory. Loranda wore transparent orange velvet, beautifully cut and entirely backless The dress had no shoulder-straps but was supported by a gleaming rhinestone necklace

JACK FILLED THE GLASSES

"She takes every bit of color out of me," thought Judith. The rose-pink frock that had seemed so beautiful before seemed cheap now —cheap and washed-out and ill-cut.

A few minutes later Jack Ordway came over and filled all the glasses at Judith's table with champagne "I want the next dance, please. I brought the crowd down here because I specially wanted to see you, Pretty Face! Be kind!"

"I'm already booked"

But he swept her off, just the same holding the slim figure tightly

"Goodness! You're squeezing the breath out of me, Mr. Ordway! What are you? A boa constrictor, or an octopus?"

"I'm a judge of pretty girls, and when I get hold of a peach I'll let the world know I hold right on to her!"

"Then loosen up!" She forced herself to laugh, though there were two brilliant spots of embarrassment in her cheeks, and her breath was catching. With a sixth sense she felt that Barry's eyes were on her and Jack Ordway—and that those eyes were disapproving.

"If you could know how tantalizing you look tonight—how terribly tempting—you'd be kinder!"

"What! With the lovely girls you brought——"

Zella disapproves of Loranda's serving cocktails at the tea shop. Next instalment is of tense interest.

Miss Fairfax Warns Girl

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm engaged to a man of 24 He was married two years and he and his wife had an agreement "to do whatever they wanted and walk out when they pleased." I'm very shy and diffident and when I marry I want to stay married and have my home life a success. The other night at a dance my fiance put his arm around a girl, and when I got mad he said it was "a habit with him, that he does that unconsciously."

PATRICIA.

Dear Patricia: I believe in your place I'd hesitate before I married a man of only 24 who had such very liberal views on the subject of marriage and got away with them the first time

Better a Housekeeper

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a widower past 40 and my home has been pretty uncomfortable since the wife died, eight months ago. I often stop in a bakery to buy bread and a young girl, an orphan, waits on me. She's the niece of the baker's wife. I thought she was at least 20 and was surprised to learn that she was only 16. I've never made love to her, and, if agreeable to her, do you thing she's too young to court? I have five children, ages 2 to 14 years

WIDOWER

Dear Widower: Yes, indeed, I think that girl is entirely too young, even if she were willing to marry you. Do please marry some woman of a more suitable age. It makes me almost weep to think of a child of 16 being the stepmother of five youngsters.

Supper for Sunday's Guests

By MARTHA LEE

WITH BETTER weather the automobile season opens with a vengeance and if you belong to the rapidly growing group of folks who spend Sundays at home, you're sure to have unexpected guests drop in after their Sunday ride.

And while you're saying, "So glad to see you," you'll be mentally scrambling through the contents of the icebox, wondering what on earth you'll feed the hungry hunters.

When everything else fails, you'll probably recall a couple of cans of baked beans which most every housewife in the world keeps on her pantry shelves, and with these for a foundation you can have something really substantial and good, eked out on the side with some of the dinner leftovers

A hot open bean sandwich with sliced beef is yummy and easily prepared thusly

HOT OPEN BEAN SANDWICH WITH SLICED BEEF

- 1 small jar dried beef.
- 1 tbsp. butter.
- 1 medium can baked beans (with pork and tomato sauce).
- 2 tbsps. tomato ketchup.
- 1 tsp. sugar.
- 6 slices hot buttered toast.

Break beef into small pieces and brown in frying pan with the butter. After a few minutes, add beans, ketchup and sugar and allow to heat thoroughly. Serve on slices of golden brown toast. A slice of dill pickle is a suitable accompaniment to this dish. Serves 6.

Served with coffee Spanish cream, sugar cookies and a hot drink, they're smacking good.

And if you are blessed with some cold boiled ham, cut it in thin slices, spread each slice with mashed baked beans, roll like a jelly roll fasten with a toothpick and fry with a little butter in a hot frying pan until the ham is slightly brown

For a Clear Skin, Take Care of Your Health

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

I BELIEVE that common skin disorders cause more distress than any other human ailment. There is no physical pain. The distress is caused by embarrassment and mental anguish.

Dr. Copeland

In a healthy, well nourished individual, the skin is smooth and free from sores and pimples. This healthy condition of the skin is maintained by proper action of the internal organs.

Minor skin ailments are caused by digestive disturbances, faulty elimination, lack of proper food and exercise, and over-indulgence in sweets. The individual element enters into this problem. We are not alike. Food which causes skin eruptions in one individual does not harm another. Some persons are sensitive to sea food and others are not.

If you are sensitive to certain foods you should avoid them. The diet should include plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits. Avoid all fried and greasy foods, sweets, pies, pastries and condiments. Drink at least six to eight glasses of water every day. A daily bowel elimination is essential.

The skin should be kept clean by daily bathing. It is best to use a pure, non-irritating soap and warm water. This keeps the pores clean and allows for normal excretion of sweat and waste products.

Within recent years there has arisen the belief that many disorders are caused by infection. This infection may come from the mouth, teeth, nasal sinuses, tonsils, gall bladder, appendix or any other organ in the body.

Do not be satisfied to apply ointments to the skin. For complete cure in these cases remove all points of infection. Infected tonsils should be removed and all infected teeth extracted. Even though pain is not present, have the teeth X-rayed to determine whether they are infected.

Persistent skin disorders should be treated by a physician. Advice given you by friends is well meant, yet it may do more harm than good. Each case of skin disorder requires individual attention.

The Marry-Go-Round; Ideal Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE HONEYMOON used to wane slowly and almost imperceptibly; but nowadays it comes down with a nose-dive and ends in a crash.

Daily True Story
False Impression

THE CURTAIN came down, the lights flickered briefly and the orchestra's music almost drowned the perfunctory applause.

Harry Ballard, following Mary Collins into the wings, smiled ruefully. "Not so hot," he said. "It's just like I've been saying. We've got to get some comedy in this act. People want laughs. They're sitting on their hands whenever we go on."

Mary didn't answer as she walked toward her dressing room. She knew that Harry was right. Their vaudeville act was going flat. It needed the stimulus of laughs; their singing and dancing wasn't enough.

Still, it wasn't that which was worrying Mary. There was something else. She took her time in removing her stage makeup and changing into her street clothes. Finally she left her dressing room and walked back toward the wings. It was just as she had expected. Harry was already standing there

"Ready to go?" Mary asked.

Harry didn't even look at her as he replied. "You run on ahead," he said. "I want to catch this act. I've got an idea maybe we can do something with it."

MARY WRITES LETTER

Mary looked out on the stage. A girl was singing, a girl with only an ordinary voice, but with a prettiness far from ordinary. Mary felt a surge of bitter jealousy as she looked at her. She understood why Harry wanted to watch her. A roar of laughter interrupted Mary's thoughts. The singer and her droll looking piano accompanist were backing off the stage.

"Suit yourself," said Mary. "I'm going to the hotel."

Back in her hotel room, Mary, fighting back the tears, arrived at her decision. Harry couldn't treat her like that—bring another woman into their act. Mary knew what that would mean — jealousy, bickering and constant friction. It was all over. She loved Harry and she had believed he loved her. A dozen times he had asked her to marry him to become his partner in life as well as on the stage. But she had wanted to be sure before she accepted him. Now she tried to be fiercely glad that she hadn't, that she had learned he was "just like other men."

Mary sat down at the rickety hotel desk and began to write a letter. Three times she began and three times she tore up what she had written. Finally she had it completed

It was a short note, addressed to Harry, telling him that she was quitting. It violated every tradition of the stage, to walk out like that But she didn't care. Let Harry have his new girl.

After she had placed the note in an envelope and sealed it preparatory to leaving it at the desk for Harry, Mary gave way to her tears. Then, clenching her teeth, she washed her face and powdered her reddened eyes. There was a train leaving in a short time. She would get that and be gone before Harry returned to the hotel.

She was about to begin packing when a knock sounded on her door. Then Harry's voice sounded. "Are you decent?" he asked, using the old stage question by which a man, seeking admittance to the room of a woman, first inquires whether she is suitably dressed

"Come in," was Mary's short reply.

Another man followed Harry into the room. Harry was smiling broadly and seemed not to notice the coolness of Mary's greeting or the strained look on her face

"Mary," he said, indicating the other man, "this is Gus Wilson. He plays for Miss Harris—you know, that girl whose act I was watching? He hasn't any contract and we've fixed it up. He's coming in with us and right after dinner we'll get together and work out a routine. We ought to be able to wow them."

"But," said Mary, hardly understanding, "what about Miss Harris. Isn't she coming in?"

TEARS UP NOTE

"What for?" asked Harry "She's just another singer and not half as good as you. You didn't think she was getting the laughs, did you? Gus was the one I wanted. That funny business he does at the piano is just what we need."

The piano player broke in "I was just thinking," he said "that if we could start it with me and Miss Collins——"

But Mary didn't hear him. She was walking over to the desk to pick up a letter and tear it into tiny pieces.

Then she turned and said to Harry. "Whatever you say suits me."

HOW $50,000 RANSOM FOR THE LINDBERGH BABY WAS PAID TO KIDNAPING GANG

STEP-BY-STEP

Reporter learns that at 7:45 p. m., April 2, a taxi driver delivered a note to Dr. John F. Condon, in his home in the Bronx, N. Y., directing him to go to the Bergen Flower Nursery., a short distance away.

STEP NO. 2

With Dr. Condon went Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, carrying the $50,000 ransom money. At this place, the Bergen Flower Nursery, another note from the kidnapers was found underneath a stone.

STEP NO. 3

The note under the stone directed Dr. Condon to walk a block along Whittemore ave., outside the iron fence that runs along the edge of the cemetery. The doctor followed the gang's orders.

STEP NO. 4

As Dr. Condon walked along, a woman passed and said loudly: "This is Whittemore ave." A man approached next and talked with Dr. Condon. The latter then entered the cemetery.

STEP NO. 5

A man was separated from Dr. Condon by a thicket of evergreen trees. "Here I am, doctor," he called. They talked. The doctor insisted that he be given a receipt for the $50,000 ransom money before he turned it over.

STEP NO. 6

The receipt was given, and Dr. Condon went back to Col. Lindbergh and got the package of money. Next, he was given a sealed envelope, which, the man said, contained directions for finding the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

TRIO AND BABY SOUGHT HERE

A telephone call from a man who said he could not visit police until today has started Boston police off on another angle of the Lindbergh case.

The caller last night said two men and a man, all apparently Italians, had stopped during the afternoon for food at a restaurant in Hanover st., North End. A baby with light curly hair was with the trio and resembled the Lindbergh baby.

Struck by the dissimilarity in appearance of the adults and the child, the informant took the registration number.

A description of the automobile, occupants and the registration numbers were sent by police teletype over New England. Meanwhile, police of the Hanover st. station were trying to find the restaurant, believing the party may have paid its bill with $5, $10 or $20 bill which could be checked

Bill Offered to Block Sale of Real Estate for Taxes

As a protection to home owners, a bill suspending the laws authorizing the sale of real estate for nonpayment of taxes was filed with the clerk of the House today.

The bill, following a suggestion made editorially by the Boston Evening American yesterday, was filed by Representatives Anthony A. McNulty and John J. Reardon of South Boston.

Declared to be necessary for the immediate preservation of the public conveniences, the bill was termed an emergency act to take effect on passage.

Section 1 of the bill reads "All provisions of the General Laws and Acts in amendment thereof, authorizing the sale of real estate for non-payment of taxes, are hereby suspended for a period of one year from the effective date of this act."

In filing the measure, Representatives McNulty and Reardon said:

"We feel that because of conditions existing in our city, the sale of more than 5000 homes for non-payment of taxes, as announced by Mayor Curley, should not take place. The sale would render hundreds of persons homeless.

"We congratulate the Boston Evening American in its stand on this all-important question, and hope that paper will continue to aid in the fight we are about to start on Beacon Hill, so that the true situation will be brought to light, and our bill will became law."

The American's editorial suggested that if moratoriums can be granted abroad, a way should be found of grant a similar moratorium to home owners.

CROWLEY SIFTS LAW'S DELAYS

Supt. of Police Crowley today sought secret information from all members of the department regarding difficulties met with in prosecuting persons arrested for serious offenses.

The purpose for which this information will be used was not divulged.

He asked for facts concerning difficulties met with through the failure of victims to properly identify defendants, for information regarding "aggravated cases" placed on probation in the courts, and for details of cases where efforts to convict were neutralized "by conditions beyond your control."

"Tell of nolle prosses by the district attorney when evidence of guilt was plain," was another statement in the confidential communication.

ROGERS TALKS FOR NBC

Dr. Robert Emmons Rogers, professor of English at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Boston Evening American feature writer, is the first of three outstanding lecturers to be presented in a series of daytime programs to be heard over National Broadcasting Co. networks.

Dr. Rogers will speak on Rudyard Kipling," at 4:45 p. m. E. S. T., Tuesday, April 19, over an NBC-WJZ network.

New Pastor in Newton

Rev. Mason W. Sharp, of the Needham Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, will succeed Rev. Maurice L. Bullock, as pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, Auburndale, next Sunday.

Ely's Voice to Circle World in Patriots' Day Address

The honor of being the first public official whose voice will be heard around the world, today was bestowed on Gov. Ely.

Officials of the General Electric Company's plant at Pittsfield announced that on Tuesday, April 19, Gov. Ely will broadcast from station WGY at Schenectady, N. Y., a part of his Patriot's Day proclamation. His voice will be carried to Australia, thence to Java, Holland and return to Schenectady. The time set for the unusual broadcast will be from 7:15 to 8 a. m. (E. S. T.).

The statement said that twice the voice of a speaker at Schenectady has completely encircled the world and returned with sufficient volume to be reproduced by a loud speaker.

BUILDER STRIKE UNDECIDED

Following a two-and-a-half-hour meeting of the Building Trades Council to discuss what steps should be taken to combat a cut in pay effective tomorrow Edwin E. Graves, general manager of the council, said the council's policy would be one of watchful waiting.

"We have come to no definite decision whether to call a strike or not," Graves announced, "and can make no statement at present.

"The council will meet again next Monday, and things should be settled by that time one way or another."

The trouble was caused by an announcement from the Building Employers Assn. that workers wages would be cut from $1.25 an hour to 1.12½. Cement finishers, hoisting engineers, iron workers, and sheet metal workers are affected.

The Employers Assn. is meeting this afternoon to investigate complaints against the announcement.

Interests" Declared Fighting Roosevelt

Declaring that invested interests fighting the candidacy of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt for President, men and women speakers at a Democratic rally for women at Touraine today predicted his nomination and election.

Speakers included Mrs. Nellie Vivian of Fall River, Kenneth McDonald, Whitfield Tuck and Miss Mary Matthews.

Melrose Club to Dance

The Justamere Club of Melrose will hold its first in a series of dances Monday night, April 18, at the Manor, East Foster st., Melrose.

Accused Treasurer Pleads Not Guilty

Charles W. Rawlins, 45, of Milton, former treasurer of the Blue Hill Bank & Trust Co., who was indicted by the Norfolk County grand jury on 58 counts of alleged embezzlement, appeared in Norfolk County Criminal Court today and pleaded not guilty before Judge Crosby. His case was continued until April 27.

South End Man Held in Camels Club Raid

As a result of the raid on the Camels Club, 360 Columbus ave., a fortnight ago, Frank Secola, 33, of Emerald st., South End, today was held in $500 on charges of violating the national prohibition act.

After hearing evidence U. S. Commissioner Tenney dismissed charges against Francis Murray of Garfield st., Chelsea.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels, it ferments and poisons, and the odors form, causing sick headache, coated tongue, bad breath and a bad taste in your mouth. Your head aches often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you "up and up." They contain wonderful, mild, gentle vegetable actives, amazing as it comes to making the bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

LAZY LYRICS ON RADIO CONTINUE TO BRING PROTESTS FROM LISTENERS

Poor Grammar Often Heard on Air

By N. F. T.

Communications keep coming across the counter about how and why grammar gets the well known go-by to an ever increasing degree on the air.

ALERT AIR AUDIENCE

Perhaps nothing can or will be done about it, yet the subject seems worthy of mention, if for no other reasons than the fact listeners apparently make memoranda and in more than many cases present positive proof they know whereof they speak.

• • •

Exhibit A: Certainly "You and I" as used in song lyrics is a grammatical error. It finds favor because the last character rhymes with "sigh" or "lie" or "cry" and any number of other phonetic catch-words.

• • •

OFF THE TARGET

Exhibit B: Since rhyming is so all important, then manufacturers of lyric lit should at least be consistent. Hooking up "mine" with "time" surely isn't very resourceful writing. When it comes to drafting a ditty, certain Jingle Johnnies might well take a lesson from Cy Warman, a railroad engineer, who penned words for what may equally well be considered a model for meter. Consider his piece called "Sweet Marie." Looking over a line or so, one finds the following:

• • •

"There's a secret in my heart, Sweet Marie, a tale I would impart, love to thee. Every dawn in the dell knows my secret, knows it well, and yet I dare not tell Sweet Marie."

• • •

Such lines ring with rhythm, lilt and alliteration. Do you look of lyric grasp what your Uncle N. F. T. has in mind?

CHAIN CLANKINGS

Ed Wynn coming on the NBC network has been more or less up in the air as to opening date, but his debut will more than likely be April 26th. Ed is overly anxious to hold forth in a nation-wide 9 o'clock spot . . . He always was a 9 o'clock fellow . . . Will Mr. and H. Aylesworth assume an important RKO executive post. (President, no less), along with his NBC head man worries? . . . That Ziegfeld program heard each Sunday increasingly (WNAC) is certainly everything it could be. Calling Flo a master showman is exactly right . . . Jones and Hare have nothing on some of their jokes for being old timers . . . A Connecticut moon will shine over Morton Downey this summer, the tenor having just leased palatial quarters in Greenwich . . . Amos n Andy headed an all star show to help WMAQ of Chicago celebrate its 10th birthday last night at 11:30, although WJZ of Boston didn't hook in on the chain to bring said doings down East here . . . Joe Palooka, new 6:45 p. m. (WAAB) feature sound as though it might develop into a bit more than just another "Palooka" broadcast, with high hopes held by its backers.

LOCAL LATHER

Somehow that fast moving weekly bit featuring Oscar Eigart music, Billy Payne tenor, Lenox vocally, and Saivi Cavicchio saxophone solos, should stay right on and on, but they're going to be on hand tonight (WEEI) between 7:30 and 8, which means much in many households . . . Two "mikes" from two different stations (WBZ and WEEI) is something new in night clubbing circles . . . Such is the story tonight when Joe Rines and his music opens Showboat.

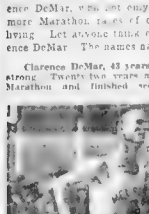
The Boston Marathon. Just Around the Bend. The King of 'Em All. ↕ Strack Meets Lutze. What'll They Shrink? The Gray Goose's Bat.

Clarence DeMar and Marathon Race Synonymous

The Boston Marathon just around the bend, the big pack faces the barrier, next Tuesday April 19! The Boston Marathon, the world's greatest road race! The Boston Marathon, a name to conjure with, a name that strikes a responsive chord, thrills the heart, awakens memories! One by one the old heroes who have raced to victory over the long trail from Hopkinton to Boston, lope by on Memory's screen. J. J. McDermott, carrying the Brazilian Cross of the old Pastime A. C. of New York to victory in the first Boston Marathon way back in 1897, just as he brought the silks of the famous old club home in the first Marathon ever held in America the year previous. Caffrey, the Canadian with the Maple Leaf of Canada on his shirt front. Little Sammy Mellor of Yonkers. Mike Spring, the Jewish boy from Gotham and Tom Longboat, the long, lean Onondagan, tireless on the Marathon trail as a wolf on the bloodscent. Flame-haired Mike Ryan appears on the screen with the Winged Fist of the old Irish-Americans blazing defiance from his breast. Bill Kennedy, the bricklayer. Frank Zuna, the piercing-eyed Italian, Johnny Miles, the rosy-cheeked Nova Scotian go plodding by. One by one those other old Boston Marathon heroes loom temporarily on Memory's screen, yet always to fade out and give way to that lean wiry little Boston printer man, Clarence DeMar, who not only has won more Boston Marathons, but more Marathon races of every description, than any other man living. Let anyone think of the Marathon and he thinks of Clarence DeMar. The names have come to be synonymous.

Clarence DeMar, 43 years old, and, like Johnny Walker, still going strong. Twenty-two years ago DeMar competed in his first Boston Marathon and finished second. The next year, 1911, he won.

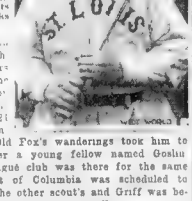


Since then he has run his string of Boston Marathon victories up to seven. Only two men besides DeMar ever won more than one Boston Marathon, and those two, I. J. Caffrey and Johnny Miles, each had to be content with two. Seven Boston Marathon victories to his credit, 22 years of Marathoning behind him, closer to 23 years of age than 43, Clarence DeMar will go to the barrier at Hopkinton next Tuesday one of the strong favorites in the great road classic. Two years ago the wiry little "old" man, who now is a professor of the printing trades in the Keene, N. H., Normal School, scored his seventh Boston Marathon victory. Last year he finished fifth—but finished strong. All winter he has been training up among the health-giving pines around Mt. Monadnock. In his trial races he has been steadily approaching the "point" he seeks to be at when he answers the call to post for next week's 37th running of the America's blue ribbon long distance running event. Clarence DeMar faces both Father Time and the greatest field of distance runners that ever broke from a Marathon barrier, next Tuesday. Will he win? If he does, you can crown him as sport's Wonder of Wonders. Read his life, which George Grimm starts in other columns today.

It would be interesting if Paul Bowser would weigh in Nick Lutze and Charlie Strack, before and after tonight's big wrestling match in the Arena, just to find who loses the most weight, a wrestler in half to one hour's strenuous grappling, or a Marathon runner in a long, steady plugging grind over a 26-mile, 385-yard course. Weight loss in athletic competitions would surprise some of you. In one New York Marathon it was brought out that the runners through perspiration and breathing alone lost from 4 to 14 pounds during the progress of the long grind. Strange to say the athlete that lost 14 pounds was among the smallest, not the biggest men in the race!

We saw the late Martin Sheridan—in his memory ever be green—drop 12 pounds in an eleven event all-around competition. An eleven event all-around competition does not burn up one whit more energy, perhaps not as much, as does a strenuous grappling contest such as Strack and Lutze will engage in, tonight. Lutze is about a counterpart of Martin Sheridan in build, each scaled about 190 pounds in the pink of condition. Strack, Lutze's opponent, tips the beam around 220. How much less will Lutze and Strack weigh when they leave the mat, tonight, than they weighed when they answer the bell for their strenuous grapple?

They wouldn't let Goose Goslin use his new fangled camouflaged bat, which you see him holding in the accompanying photo, although why they wouldn't is something of a mystery, inasmuch as there seems to be nothing in the rules to prohibit it. Anyway, Goose's striped war-cloth is an interesting contrast, you with black and white stripes running diagonally up and down it, designed to flusher and bewilder both pitcher and catcher. Maybe Umpire Geisel banned Goslin's new fangled abilities because he heard the Carolinas had planned to follow up by designing their bats with crosswings, triangles, blocks and weird markings.



Speaking of Goslin did you ever hear how Clark Griffith, now president of the Senators bagged the Gray Goose of the Potomac? You can blame it on the train schedules. Here's what happened. Back in 1921 when Griff was acting as volunteer scout for his club the Old Fox's wanderings took him to Columbia, S. C., to look over a young fellow named Goslin. A scout for another rival league club was there for the same purpose. Griffith's train out of Columbia was scheduled to leave about two hours after the other scout's and Griff was bemoaning the fact, for he didn't like Columbia at all.

A high fly went sailing out Goslin's way in the first inning. Leon wasn't playing the sun field, but, somehow or other, he lost it, and the ball struck him squarely on the dome. "Good-bye!" exclaimed the other scout. "I've seen all I want to see and I've got to catch my train." "Wish I was with you," moaned Griffith, "but I might as well sit it out here as anywhere else until train time." While "sitting it out" Griffith saw the fumbling outfielder make four smashing hits, and when the train carried Griff away from Carolina it also carried purchase papers making Goslin the property of the Washington club. Goslin's 10 years' starring with the Senators is sufficient proof that the train schedule proved a mighty fortunate thing for Clark Griffith and the Washington club.

What Wins Marathons? "Feet," Says Clarence DeMar

You bet they do, and if a Marathoner's feet fail it is all over! That is why CLARENCE DEMAR, the world's greatest Marathoner, on the final lap of his training for next Tuesday's big Boston Marathon, is so careful about his feet and how he is shod. Left to right you see a picture of DeMar's blistered and wounded feet after pounding 26 miles 385 yards over the hard macadam roads from Hopkinton to Boston; the "million dollar legs" that have carried DeMar to more Marathon victories than any man alive, and the king of the Road Runners looking over a batch of shoes to pick the pair he will use in next week's Blue Ribbon road run. Don't miss George Grimm's interest series, on the Marathon king, starting in the Boston Evening American today.

March of 44 Birthdays Makes DeMar Laugh

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Chapter 1

The gun barks at Hopkinton next Tuesday noon.

The pick and the pack of the world's distance runners will lean out against the first bill in that 26 miles and 385 yards which lie between Hopkinton and a bit of worsted stretched across Exeter st., in the Back Bay.

And well placed somewhere on the frame of the pack, his stride gauged to the immediate needs of the terrain and the test that lies ahead—well placed somewhere there you'll be able to spot a little fellow moving out with his feet and his heart tuned to the mighty effort of winning for the eighth time, the B. A. A. Marathon, the world's annual long distance running classic.

It was only the other noon that a bunch of the sports boys were whooping it up over tea and cakes and the talk turned, as it is bound to do at this season of the year, to the annual grind over hill and dale on Patriots' Day.

Mr. Boston Cheering for Clarence the Great

When you talk of Marathons you naturally talk of De Mar and the veteran Mr. Boston, alias Jack Conway, remarked through a mouthful of biscuit that it had been quite some time—22 years to be explicit—since Clarence De Mar had made his first bid for fame over the Ashland-Natick-Newton course.

"Twenty-two years," said Jack, "and if you don't believe it consult your record books and you'll find he ran second in 1919 to Fred L. Cameron, the Nova Scotia phantom.

"The following year there was nobody ahead of him and in '22, '23, '24, '27, '28 and '30 he led the field. And you can put it down that if he isn't first into the clubhouse next Tuesday it won't be because he isn't in there trying. I'm rooting for him. He's a grand old man, De Mar!"

And so the lunch period broke up with a short cheer for the master of stride and pace but somehow I couldn't visualize De Mar as an old man and upon returning to the office I got out the little black book and consulted it. It said:

"De Mar, Clarence. Seven times winner B. A. A. Marathon. Greatest long distance runner of all time. Born, Ohio, June 7, 1888."

March of Time Brings DeMar to 44th Marker

So Clarence De Mar when he hits that jog at Hopkinton next Tuesday noon, will be inside the vest-pocket and knocking at the front door of his 44th year.

The Greek Pheidippides (he'd probably be in Paul Revere group today) ran his 26 miles from the plains of Marathon to the city of Athens with the good news of the Greek victory of the Persian Army. But he dropped dead at the finish line.

De Mar, nearly twice the age of the young Greek warrior, not only runs the equal distance ahead of more than 100 competitors, but he has constantly refused to drop dead at the finish line. He's just as likely as not to have a drink of water and run home to his supper.

He is a marvel, super-man or whatever superlative title you may wish to bestow upon him. To himself though, he's just a runner running for fun.

Years ago, after Clarence had competed in a number of Marathons, a doctor told him to hang up the running shoes or go into training for a wake. He would have, he was told, arteries as hard as a kidnaper's heart and a heart as balky as a Missouri mule if he continued to run. Clarence barked one to the advice and hung his shoes on a peg in the wall. But he couldn't stop running. He bought himself a new pair.

I think it was on April 19, 1927, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while the firebells were ringing to celebrate another great De Mar victory, that the good doctor who had advised Clarence in vain passed on to his own great reward, his demise being recorded as due to hardening of the arteries and heart disease.

(Tomorrow: De Mar's birth and boyhood.)

The Daily Dozen

—Myles T. McSweeney—

"Rabbit" Maranville claims that he'll lose countless friends because of his new "no talking" rule in the National League. But it's a great idea at that, and would be a huge success in other places than baseball.

In Congress for example.

For most wives.

For some of the more pediculous sound pictures.

For radio announcers with few exceptions.

Calvin Coolidge has enforced it for years. And he made the White House.

Such a ruling in Hollywood would put thousands out of employment. The Yes-men.

The Masked Marvel was unveiled at the Boston Garden and turned out to be three other people. Steinborn, Steinback and Hackenschmidt.

Beaten opponents now claim that it wasn't fair to bend them against triplets.

Harridge's move in banning the camouflaged bat was greatly acclaimed in Brooklyn, where they say the umpires are blind enough now.

An arbiter's life wouldn't be worth two bob with him yelling "ball" after being deceived by a player taking a cut at the horsehide with a striped bat.

The White Sox are using zipper bags to keep warm. The Yankees plan to equip their players with snowshoes and car-mufflers, if the frigid weather continues.

Helen Sails April 27, Hubby the Day After

San Francisco, April 16 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody plans to sail from New York April 27 to participate in the Wightman matches at Wimbledon in June.

The day after the American champion sails from New York her husband, Frederick S. Moody, Jr., expects to ship aboard a Dutch vessel for the Orient by way of the Panama Canal.

He will take a vacation from the stock brokerage business to return to the sea, which he followed during the World War on a United States Shipping Board vessel.

Light Guards Win

Co. E Lawrence Light Guards beat the Lawrence of Montreal at the Mosford Armory, 36 to 30. The Lakesides are composed of Tufts College players who live in Medford.

B. C. PREPARES FOR RAMS NINE

After two days of indoor practice at the Commonwealth Armory the Boston College baseball squad will return to University Heights this afternoon. The Eagles have only two more full sessions before the Patriots' Day battle with Fordham.

Only two positions are as yet unsettled and Coach McCrehan will decide on these before Saturday. Dannie Callery will start in centerfield, but the other two garden positions are open.

The Maroon and Gold lineup Tuesday will be Kiltridge, first base; Cheneulevich, second base; Spognardi, shortstop; Crowley, third base; Callery, centerfield, Meier or MacIntyre, catcher; Gallagher or Roy, pitcher.

The Eagles lost considerable ground by returning to the Armory for two days, but Coach McCrehan believes that the players will be at top form by the first of the week.

Team A will face team B this afternoon.

R. I. STATE NEXT HUSKY FOE

Northeastern nine, beaten in its home opener, 5-2, by the Brown Bears, travels to Kingston, Saturday, to play Rhode Island State.

As Herb Gallagher twirled the entire nine innings against the Bruins, holding them to six hits while his mates were collecting eight off Bert Humphries, Coach Al McCoy will probably start Joe McMullen against the Rams.

If McMullen, an East Boston boy, can't get as well at Kingston as Gallagher did in the opener then the Huskies stand a fine chance of winning.

Washburn Beats and Unmasks Steinborne

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Washburn unmasked the "Masked Marvel" before 11,000 fans at the Boston Garden. He did the trick in 5m. 52s.

An inside crotch hold and slam sent the "Masked Marvel" crashing to the canvas. Washburn ripped the mask from his opponent, much to the glee of the crowd.

The "Masked Marvel" was Milo Steinborne, also known as Milo Steinbach. Back in the days of the late George V. Tuohey, the "Masked Marvel" wrestled as Young Frank Hackenschmidt.

Washburn will now get a shot with Jim Londos at the Garden on April 27.

Cowboat Smith, old-time ring star, was then introduced. He received a splendid ovation from the crowd, which remembered him chiefly for his victory over Sam Langford at the old Arena.

Mike McNamee of Charlestown was the least surprised of those persons in the Garden as he named the identity of the "Masked Marvel" to the ringside customers a month ago. Mike recognized Milo from some old wounds on the body.

The doctor would-at allow the "Masked Marvel" to return to the ring. He stated he had a slight concussion on the back of his head as the result of the hard toss he received when sent to the canvas.

Then a miracle happened. Washburn went to his dressing room with the crowd cheering him. They got a kick out of seeing the "Masked Marvel" unmasked.

Joe DeVito of Providence and George Kotsonaros of Los Angeles each scored a fall in their one hour match which made the affair a draw.

DeVito of Providence won the first fall from Kotsonaros of Los Angeles in 31m. 8s. with a head and hip lock.

The second fall went to Kotsonaros in 17m. 28s. A crotch and leg hold did the trick despite the announcement about a cradle hold.

Neither was able to count with a deciding fall inside of the time limit of an hour.

Referee Lord Potts managed to get tangled up with the wrestlers late in the match, and so his evening was not too monotonous.

Howard Cantonwine of Humbolt, Iowa, and Sandor Szabo, Hungarian champion, furnished plenty of action in their 30m. bout. Each wrestler was guilty of using the strangle hold on several occasions, while the boys also amused themselves by using the knee at close quarters and by doing some playful punching. The decision was a draw.

Roland Kirkmeyer of Texas won from Tiny Ruff of Georgia Tech in 4m 58s. with a flying scissors.

Herman (Cannonball) Hickman of Tennessee disposed of George "Zeus" Wilczewski of Hyde Park in 8m. 12s. with a flying tackle.

Hans Steinke of Germany busted into the win column again when he upset Farmer George McLeod in 17m. 48s. with a leg hammerlock.

Washburn's Victory Aid to Conway's '32 Average

Jack Conway's batting average continued to pick up when Jack Washburn won from the "Masked Marvel" at the Boston Garden.

NEWCOMER TO RANKS TURNS IN 93 CARD

By BYRL GRIMES

Mrs. Harry Dodge, formerly of Westchester Biltmore of the Metropolitan District and Jacksonville, Fla., led a field of 88 contestants with a card of 93 in the first qualifying round for the W. G. A. Eastern District team today at the Country Club.

Despite the inclement weather Mrs. Dodge played sturdy golf, having only three bad holes, the first, 13th and 16th. With a seven on the first hole, Mrs. Dodge was out in 47 and was home in 46, which included sevens on the 13th and 18th holes.

Mrs. Dodge's card:

Out..... 5 4 5 4 5 5 5 5 6—47
In..... 5 4 6 3 5 3 5 5 7—46—93

Mrs. H. R. Watson, now representing The Country Club instead of Hoosic-Whisick, was the runner-up to Mrs. Dodge, with a 96, which was one stroke better than Miss Ruth Batchelder's score, while Miss Edith Stevens and Miss Eleanor Allen turned in cards of 98.

Miss Marie Bourneuf, Charles River, doubtless would have led the field but for the fact that she took a 13 on the comparatively easy par 4, 4th hole. As it was, Miss Bourneuf was out in 54 and came back in 46 for an even 100.

Miss English Best in Northern District

Eighty members of the northern district played in the first qualifying round of the M. G. A. over the Belmont Spring course this morning with Miss Grace English, Colonial scoring 102.

The runner-ups were Mrs. C. E. Stone, Belmont Spring, and Mrs. Amos Stevens, North Andover, one stroke behind.

Mrs. C. W. Hodges, with 105, and Mrs. F. F. Kimball, with 108, both of Tedesco, qualified.

88 Turn Out for Test at Wollaston

A total of 88 players turned out at Wollaston for the medal play tourney to determine places on the three man team which will represent the southern district in the W. G. A. team matches this season.

With three-fourths of the field in, Miss Mary Parkinson was leading with a 47—45—92. Mrs W. G. Low, newcomer, was runner-up to Miss Parkinson with a 96, and two former second division players, Miss Josephine Griffith and Mrs. Charles Madz, with 97, followed.

Northern district loses three of its best players this spring, Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., and Mrs. H. R. Watson having joined Eastern and Mrs. L. L. Wrenn having retired from competition.

The feature of today's play was a 19 taken at the fourth hole by Mrs Ruth M. Dalton. Six or her shots went from the tee into a pond, he partially made up for that slump by getting a deuce at the ninth, but she putted poorly coming home and ended up with a card of 118.

NICK LUTZE IN ROLE OF 'GIANT KILLER'

PLESTINA TO MEET THREE OPPONENTS

Nick Lutze of ...uthern California, most re... ful wrestler in the world, will try to act the part of a giant killer when he clashes with Charles Strack, bad boy from Oklahoma, in a finish bout, best two falls out of three at a Paul Bowser show at the Arena tonight.

The M. F. Perkins Post, American Legion, of South Boston, will receive a share of the receipts.

Lutze came crashing back into the East last week and went 0 furious minutes to a draw with Jim Browning of Missouri.

Lutze says he will weigh 190 pounds when he enters the ring. He believes this is sufficient poundage to enable him to tie Strack or any grappler. He is confident his speed and double arm lock, followed by the reverse back fall, will enable him to send the 222-pound Strack down to defeat.

Lutze Best Strack in Winter Fray

It will be the second meeting between Lutze and Strack. When this pair collided at the Arena last Winter the decision went to Lutze after 2h 6m of grappling.

George (Count) Zaynoff will appear in the semifinal, which has a 50-minute time limit, against Charley Leahman of Ohio State. Zaynoff has been wrestling a mild-time form this season, and is shooting for a title bout with Henri De Glane.

Marin Plestina, the old trust buster himself, is going to take on three opponents. It was originally planned to pit Plestina against Al Morelli in a 15-minute match. Despite the fact that Morelli recently won from Dan Koloff and held Gus Sonnenberg and Charles Strack to draws, Plestina didn't think the former Boston College star would be able to give him a workout. So he asked that he be sent against a couple of other opponents along with Morelli.

So Bowser will send Morelli, Bob Wilkie and Nick Elich against Plestina. The latter must lose all three opponents inside of 15 minutes or he won't collect at the box office after the bout.

Leo Malcolino, former Colgate star, will return to the local mat wars when he opposes Pat O'Hara of Florida in one of the prelims.

Wong Back Cheung, Chinese wrestler, will oppose Eddie Elzea of Denmark. There will be six other preliminaries.

Marathoners' Asso. to Meet After Run

The annual meeting of the International Marathon Runners Association will be at 5 Tuesday afternoon, shortly after the completion of the 36th annual Hopkinton to Boston run.

All long distance runners whether or not members of the association have been invited to attend by Harold W. Goslin, vice president, representing the New England district.

Burleigh Grimes Ill

Burleigh Grimes is the victim of a mild flu attack but is expected to start on the firing line for the Cubs within a week.

McPhail Named Captain

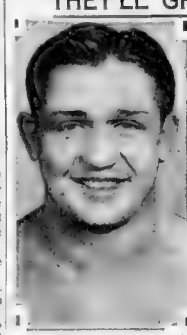
Hanover, N. H., April 14 (INS)—Dean McPhail, Baltimore, has been elected captain of Dartmouth's golf team.

Hunter Hopes to Play in July

New Rochelle, N. Y., April 14 (AP)—Francis T. Hunter, professional tennis star and publisher who was seriously injured in an automobile accident, recently hopes to be able to play tennis again by July.

Hunter said today that he was convalescing rapidly and expects to be able to leave the hospital Sunday to see his old partner, William T. Tilden, open the outdoor season in the east in a professional exhibition at Briarcliff Lodge.

THEY'LL GRUNT AND GROAN IN ARENA TONIGHT



On right and left you see the smiling features of CHARLIE STRACK and NICK LUTZE, who will appear in the main bout in the Arena, tonight. In the center with pretty MRS. AL MORELLI directing, AL MORELLI, former B. C. football star, is juggling the furniture in their Revere apartment. She thinks that is ideal training for AL for tonight's duel with Marin Plestina.

NEW FACES IN B. U. LINEUP

A confident Boston University baseball team will make its fourth attempt to open its season Saturday, when it plays Brown at Providence.

These continual postponements have resulted in changes in the Boston University lineup, and Saturday's game will find two new faces which were not among the regulars last week.

Johnny Ulman, a sophomore, will start in left field. Ulman batted for .450 with the frosh last year, and was being tried out as a second baseman this spring. Johnny, however, showed that he was not an infielder, and he is back in the outfield where he has been showing to a much better advantage.

GERMAINE NEW MAT CHAMP

Ted Germaine of South Boston won a mat middleweight title when he defeated Al Vantres, Kansas, two out of three falls in the main bout of the Massachusetts Wrestling Association show at Mechanics building.

Germaine won the first fall with a backfall. The Kansan took the second after a series of body lifts and slams. The South Boston grappler pinned his man for the decisive fall with a leg splash.

In the other main bout, Mephisto tossed Fred Bruno of New York for the first fall with a backfall. Bruno was unable to come out for the second fall.

In a special bindfolded grappling, groping act, entitled the Three Blind Mice, Winn Robbins of Pawtucket emerged a finalist over Red Anderson of Australia and Jack Ryerson of Haverhill.

There were three 15-minute draws between Sahib Seibeg and Joe Miller, Jim Walsh and Tony Pepolino, and Will Bill Dolen and Jack Burns.

Joe Demar went to a 15-minute draw with Dick Brew. Steve Passas tossed Nick Coste with a body lift and slam.

Colic Blamed for Phar Lap's Death

San Francisco, April 14 (INS)—Phar Lap, Australian wonder horse, died of colic or acute indigestion. This conclusion was reached today after a final analysis of the intestinal organs of the horse by pathologists of the University of California.

The acute indigestion probably was caused from fermentation of food in Phar Lap's stomach and resulted in the distention of muscles about the heart, the report said.

B. C. Frosh Nine Set for Tufts Clash

DIAMOND DUST

By JOE CASHMAN

Inclement weather halted three scheduled tilts on the second day of the season. The Braves and Dodgers in Brooklyn, the Phils and Giants in New York and the Yanks and Athletics in Philadelphia all in too cold to perform.

The Tigers and Indians, avowed in Detroit on Tuesday, opened up with the latter, winning 6 to 5, in 11 innings. The Tigers landed on Wes Ferrell, Cleveland's ace, for 14 hits and got off to a three-run lead but tossed away their advantage by making five errors.

The Chicago White Sox remained in a top tie with the Washington Senators in the American League by beating the St. Louis Browns for the second time by a score of 7 to 3 although they were outhit 15 to 8.

One run again separated the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds only this time the Windy City outfit came back to triumph, 3 to 2, in a great pitching duel between Pat Malone and Ownie Carroll.

It was either a safe hit or a strikeout for "Blug" Pickering, Red Sox third baseker, every time he went to bat against the Senators in the local opener. He fanned the first time up, doubled the next, singled the third and whiffed on his final trip to the platter.

Ownie Carroll

The Sox pulled off a great double play in the sixth inning yesterday. With Bluege on second and Kerr on first and one down, Spencer rolled to short. Rhyne, getting the ball too late to force Kerr at second, shot it to first in time to retire the batter, and when Bluege tried to score on the play Van Camp nipped him by a perfect peg to Berry at the plate.

McGowan, Owen Address Umpires

Members of the baseball umpires school, organized by Park Commissioner William P. Long and Bob Quinn, were addressed by "Brick" Owen and Bill McGowan, American League umpires, at the second meeting of the group at Teschers' College.

Owens and McGowan answered base-running questions put to them by the students. Bob Quinn spoke to the aspiring umpires and William Mullin was in charge of the meeting.

Marathoners Meet at B. A. A. Tuesday

Harold W. Goslin, vice-president of the New England division, states that the annual meeting of the International Association of Marathon Runners will be held Tuesday evening next at 5 o'clock at the B. A. A. clubhouse. All long-distance runners, whether members or not, are invited to attend.

SARAH PALFREY ON CUP TEAM

New York, April 14 (INS)—With the exception that one of the 1931 players will be absent, the team that will represent the United States in the 10th annual international women's tennis match with England at Wimbledon June 10 and 11 will be identical with last year's aggregation.

The 1932 team, as announced by the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will be captained by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of San Francisco, the national champion, with Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal.; Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, Cal., and Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston as her teammates.

METEVIER IS HONORED

Noted folks of the sports world were among 500 persons who attended the dinner of St. Peters Catholic Club of Cambridge, held in St. Peter's Parochial school auditorium, Cambridge.

The affair took the form of a testimonial to Dewey Metevier, former major league baseball player, who served as coach to St. Peter's athletic teams last year.

Everett Five in Boys' Final

Everett Falcons, Cambridge Pirate Cubs, Cambridge Rangers and Boston Pygmies basketball teams moved into the final round of play by scoring victories in the ninth annual amateur tournament of the Boys' Clubs of Boston at Eben D. Jordan Memorial gymnasium at Charlestown.

The Falcons disposed of Dillon Club, Jrs., 25-16; Pirate Cubs defeated Somerville Midgets, 19-15, Rangers won from Shamrocks, 27-22, and Pygmies downed Waltham Pygmies, 30-11. The finals will be played Saturday.

McGraw in Favor of Advancing Season

New York, April 14 (INS)—The regular opening of the National league season should be postponed by at least two full weeks, in the opinion of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants.

"The cold weather has taken its toll every spring" said McGraw. "Pitchers get stiffened shoulder muscles, infielders wrench their arms and outfielders strain their legs chasing fly balls."

McAndrew Calls B. C. Golf Squad

For the first time in history Boston College golf candidates were called out at the Heights. The Eagles have never had a golf coach previous to this year and golf was a rather unofficial closed affair. But Charles McAndrew was appointed varsity coach a few days ago and now the Maroon and Gold is out to add a championship outfit on the links to its ranks.

Equipoise Carrying 128 Pounds Saturday

Baltimore, Md., April 13 (AP)—Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's great four-year-old which made a successful return to the races yesterday, has been assigned the top weight of 128 pounds for the Harford Handicap, $10,000 added feature of Saturday's opening program at Havre De Grace. The race will be run over six furlongs.

Jones and Terry Bout Postponed

Trenton, N. J., April 14 (AP)—The middleweight boxing match between Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., recognized by the National Boxing Association as champion, and Young Terry Trenton slugger, today was postponed from April 19 to April 26. Jones has a cold.

Jumbos Conquer

Brockton, April 14—Tufts Jumbos defeated the T. M. H. A. five, 30 to 26, here. T. M. H. A. led at the half, 19 to 8.

BOB QUINN FAVORS MAY STARTING

By JOE CASHMAN

True to his promise not to invite the fans to Fenway Park again until the weather is warm enough to sit through a game in comfort, President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox called off today's scheduled battle between his hired men and the Washington Senators because of the cold.

The Fenway "prexy" agrees with President John Heydler of the National League that the majors open their season too early and prom... to second any move the senior circuit head may make to advance the start two weeks or more.

And while he is attempting to convince fellow magnates that the campaign should not begin much before May 1, he will keep right on postponing games whenever the customers would risk pneumonia by going out to the Fens.

"I've been opposed to starting the races much before May 1 for years," Bob declared today. "Every spring, it's the same story. Nearly half the scheduled April games have to be postponed and the rest are played in very bad weather and are poorly attended.

"So if President Heydler can persuade the National League to start the next season two weeks later, he can count on me doing all in my power to get the American League to agree to the scheme."

Quinn Not in Favor of October Play

"I am not, however, in favor of Heydler's plan of extending the season into October. I would forget the April games entirely and have a schedule of 140 instead of 154 games with the closing date around September 25, as now.

"I realize that it will be difficult to persuade some magnates to drop 14 games off the schedule, but I'm going to try it. And I'm certain that if my plan is tested one season, it will be a long while before 154 games are again scheduled."

The Sox loost a tough game in Washington last April 14, 1931, but the wasn't in the same class with the local opener as a weatherbreaker.

Leading 6 to 3 with one gone and nobody on for Washington in the ninth inning, the Colliemen saw the decision snatched from their grasp when Rhyne made an error on a ground ball which should have been turned into a double play but developed into a run and Heinie Manush stepped up to hit a home run with two mates on the sacks.

The natives overcame a two-run lead by staging a three-run rally in the fourth, broke a tie by scoring thrice and ending Fred Marberry's second stay in the sixth and looked like real champions right up to the fatal finish, which turned the joy of 5000 shivering fans to gloom.

Error and Homer Give Solons Game

The trouble started when Kerr stepped for the first safety, in the sixth off Jack Russell, who pitched all the way for the Fenway Park. Then Spencer rapped a sharp grounder at Rhyne. It looked like a double play and the end of the game, but the ball got through the usually reliable Hal and there were Washington runners on first and third.

"Sheriff" Harris, batting for "Lefty" Brown, who had relieved Marberry, filed to Oliver, letting Kerr score.

With two out there didn't seem much to worry about, but Myer walked and Manush who had beat the Sox 1 to 0 with a double in Washington on Monday, landed on a perfect pitch to send it over Webb's head into the right-field stands for a home run. Thus the Senators remained undefeated and the Fenway flock victoryless.

Braves' Outfielder Has Injured Hand

New York, April 14 (INS)—Fred Leach, outfielder bought by the Boston Braves from the New York Giants, was suffering today from a spike wound in his left hand, received in an exhibition game in Boston Sunday. As precautionary measure, and antitetanus serum has been injected into the wound to offset the infection that developed.

Shift Date of Yale, Wesleyan Game

New Haven, Conn., April 14 (AP)—The date of the Yale-Wesleyan baseball game here has been changed from May 3 to May 4, it was announced today. The change was made at the request of Yale.

EMILE (SPIDER) Pladis of France, European bantam weight champion, looks ... of a first class fighting man.

I met Pladner at Eddie Mac... Argonne A. A. office. The Frenchman is here getting ... for his ... [illegible] ... at Mechanics Building on next Monday night.

I feel I can defeat any of the American bantamweights," Pladner told me through an interpreter. "I like to fight. When I fought Francis Genaro, in Paris, I forced the issue from the opening gong and knocked Genaro out in a round.

"They tell me Ostrow is a good boy. He must have had ability to win the national amateur boxing championships. I don't care how great a fighter Ostrow is. I prefer beating headliners to winning from ordinary opposition."

EDDIE MACK has pulled a new wrinkle in the promotion game. At future Argonne A. A. shows the holder of the lucky ticket will be presented with two tickets and transportation to the shanks-schmeling heavyweight champion ship bout, which takes place in New York on June 16.

FREDDIE LATTENZIO of Pat... Pladner's sparring partner, a take on Earl Duquette of Providence in the semifinal of eight rounds. Honey Mellody of Chelsea town will oppose Joe Pacino of Roxbury over the six-round route.

JIM FURTIS, Garden superintendent, had a new layout for the wrestling show last night. The press row was dropped back eight feet from the ring so that the boys with the portables could do their work without fear of wrestlers bouncing off their intellectual domes.

DICK DUNN also pulled an innovation. The wrestlers were put on the "spot" as they entered and left the ring. This was done by putting the Garden in darkness other than for exit lights and a spotlight which played on the whole grapplers. If too many mistakes are being tossed at a grappler, I hope the spotlight will not be operated.

LET'S hope the weather man hands out better baseball weather than he did for the Red Sox opening. Those birds who took the chill blasts at our local baseball kickoff should be cited for bravery.

INCIDENTALLY the merry gamblers took it on the chin in a big way when it was missed by all kinds of upsets. Don't weep too much for 'em.

JOHNNY INDRISANO is another town demanding a return bout with Lou Brouillard. He says that an injured ankle slowed him down in the closing rounds of his recent tussle with Brouillard and made it possible for the former welterweight boss to win. Bill Ames is ready to drop a return skirmish between Brouillard and Indrisano in at the Garden the latter part of the month.

Cubs and Reds Are Talking Trade

Chicago, April 14 (AP)—President William Veeck of the Chicago Cubs, returned today and admitted he had conferred with President Sidney Weil of the Cincinnati Reds. Crabtree, Douthit, Hafey, Herman and Roettger were discussed.

Manager Rogers Hornsby ... had his eyes set on Outfielder Crabtree for some time, and he may be the man.

AMERICA CAN'T BE KEPT DOWN VERY LONG

By B. C. FORBES

INSTEAD OF DWELLING today upon any of the [illegible] phases of current conditions, suppose we glance at a number of different thoughts in the hope that perhaps one or two of them may generate a modicum of consolation or courage.

Axes for taxes!
No rich, no riches.
Contacts are useful! [illegible]
Each day is a challenge [illegible]
Setbacks strengthen determination to go forward.
Opportunity doesn't await only those who wait.
Don't try to run away from life.
Playing the game's the thing [illegible]
The man who can take it on [illegible] takes the prize.
Hammering tempers [illegible]

A. J. FISHER ON MOTORS BOARD

Detroit, April 14 (INS)—Alfred J. Fisher has been appointed to operating committee of General Motors it was announced today. The appointment links more closely the Fisher Brothers financial and industrial oligarchy to General Motors.

Four other brothers, Fred J., Lawrence P., William J. and Charles T. Fisher, are vice-presidents and members of the General Motors executive committee.

Stock market services and some newspapers stated recently that Fisher Brothers had sold much of their huge General Motors holdings.

"These reports are without foundation," Charles F. Fisher said. "As a matter of fact the association of our family with General Motors has never been more closer than right now, and so it will continue."

STATE ST. Hears:

That warnings against shorting stocks at current levels are emanating from most responsible quarters. Admittedly prices could work somewhat lower under the pressure of liquidation. But once the forced selling is lifted, a violent snapback could develop when the shorts discover they are the only ones working for lower levels.

The Situation

The situation is best covered by considering the recent decline by itself. It has now run for 30 days which has been the average length of declines in this bear market. Again average prices have lost close to 40 per cent from their most recent top. These factors are not infallible but they have proved to be most reliable guides in the last two years. Smart traders have profited by following them.

The other side of the picture is concerned with the relation of psychology to present prices. Pessimism is general and nearly everyone is leaning to the selling side. A heavy short interest is known to be outstanding and it never could succeed in extricating itself without bidding prices up. Obviously it appears unwise to join a group whose bearishness is so intense that it seems certain to turn itself out in a short time.

Boardroom Briefs

Advices received by this column from New York indicate that there are many stocks in which the short interest has increased to a point where it may be looked on as critical. Steel and Case are reported to be particular instances along with American Can. These are the equities traders feel, for the turn should concentrate [illegible] Coca-Cola is another. Western Union is also oversold.

The Federal Reserve has embarked on a program which should materially expand credit. . . Results will not be visible overnight. . . And there is no taint of inflation in the entire program . . . A better antonym for deflation in describing the Reserve action is reflation. . . Ultimately quotations should be benefited by the increased purchasing of Government bonds.

Odds and Ends

The first apparent result of Reserve open market operations should be a much firmer and higher bond market . . . However, it is likely that high-grade bonds only will show any immediate tendency to go higher. . . Selling of the food shares is classed along with that which recently broke out among utilities . . . Both seem to be earmarked as necessitous liquidation of investment holdings.

American Foreign Power is said to have received an extension of the bank loans due in October and an announcement is expected soon. . . The oils are building up quite a short interest. . . This is said to be particularly true of Jersey and Houston . . . Most of this is based on the belief the recent rise in crude has been unwarranted by actual conditions . . . It may be lowered shortly. H. E. B.

RAILS' FUTURE IS SUBJECT OF MANY GUESSES

By FRANK H. MELOON

Future of the railroads is the subject of many guesses by the economists, financiers, business and political leaders. The stock market itself has not lately been entertaining cheerful views as quotations show, but prices have been influenced by Washington factors such as, for example, the denial that the Reconstruction Finance Corp. would buy carrier bonds somewhat along the lines on which the old War Finance Corp. was operated.

• • •

Standard Statistics Co. survey deems it improbable that the federal government is to take over the railroads. U. S. Senator Couzens recently went on record as saying:

"If loans are continued in the same manner as they have been in the past, and those pending are approved, many of these properties will eventually revert to the government, or the government will lose its investment. The government will at least find itself in possession of the least desirable and least profitable railroads."

• • •

B. A. Franklin

Are U. S. railroads an exception? Time will satisfy [illegible]

• • •

Benjamin A. Franklin, until this year president of Associated Industries of Massachusetts, is a leader in the paper manufacturing field, and probably holds the world's record among industrialists for writing on economics. He has never been afraid to call a spade a spade," as John Knox remarked long before the famous 1932 battle of the bridge experts. Mr. Franklin started turning out a minimum of about 300 words weekly long before ex-President Coolidge started "columning," and isn't expected to stop for a long time to come.

• • •

Mr. Franklin, who is unrelated, so far as known to the Colonial New England Franklins, would have been re-elected president of Associated Industries if it had not been for a constitutional provision limiting individuals to two successive terms in the big chair.

• • •

A homely saying of Lincoln's gives advice followed by the New York Stock Exchange in nominating Richard Whitney to serve a third term as president of the big Wall Street institution. The saying is:

"Don't change horses while crossing a stream."

That was spoken long before the days of the automobile; people don't cross streams on horseback nowadays, except at the fashionable hunt clubs. May 9 is the date set for the re-election of Mr. Whitney, first president of the stock exchange to hail from the Bay State's fashionable North Shore.

• • •

Journal of Commerce London special says serious consideration is being given to the suggestion advanced by Chairman Johnston of the Guardian Investment Trust Company that an investment trust capitalized at £50,000,000 be organized. Sole purpose would be to attract American and French funds to the London market. Thus you will see plainly there's no idea of imposing a tariff overseas against American dollars.

General Bronze to Change Par Value

Stockholders of General Bronze have voted to change the common stock par value to $5 par from no par and reduce the capital to $1,438,900 from $2,877,800 by transferring to surplus the amount by which the capital is reduced. The authorized number of directors was reduced from 14 to 11, retiring directors being re-elected. Heretofore the company has carried its stock in the balance sheet at $10 a share.

Cavanagh, Dobbs' Merger Approved

New York, April 14—Stockholders of Cavanagh, Dobbs, Inc., approved acquisition of business and certain properties of Knox Hat Inc., and formation of a new company whose shares will be exchanged for Cavanagh Dobbs shares. Some of the shares of the new company also will be exchanged for assets of Knox Hat. Stockholders of latter company already have approved the merger.

Seat on Exchange $81,000, Up $1000

New York, April 14—Arrangements have been made for sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat at $81,000, up $1000 from previous sale.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

EXCEPTING wheat, the price structure in most principal commodities still lacks evidence of genuine stability. The rise in grains has been helpful, of course, but its speculative nature hardly affords assurance of a stable base.

Situation of several other products has turned weaker on the other hand, due perhaps to disappointing spring demands. Sugar, rubber, copper and silver continued depressed while in heavy chemicals the trend has again turned downward. Leading producers of carbon black have made a further reduction of ¼ cent a pound.

Reports are being circulated that new important aggressive leadership is planned for the grain market.

Atterbury Views on Pennsy Dividend

Wall St. showed keen interest in the reported denial of President Atterbury that the Pennsylvania Railroad will have to omit payment of dividends to obtain a loan from the Reconstruction Corporation. However, he declined to predict what action directors may take at their next meeting.

The statement attributed to the road's executive helped to clear up the apparent misconception of the original application for the loan and the Pennsylvania's dividend intentions. Repeated assertions that no part of the proposed borrowing will be used for dividend purposes arouses speculation as to how the dividend requirements will be met if payments to stockholders are to be maintained.

Cash Position Dividend Factor

[illegible] cash positions are looming as a bigger factor than ever before from the standpoint of current dividend declarations. This is forcibly brought to the fore by the declaration of 12½ cents by Allis-Chalmers, which is the amount as paid three months ago. Some surprise was caused by the decision to pay a dividend inasmuch as the last quarter of 1931 did not show the payment covered and the fact that business did not improve in the initial 1932 quarter. One factor leading to the declaration is the company's strong cash position while another may be found in the smaller payments of [illegible] earnings.

Cash Position in 1931 of $5,492,100

Last year Lambert reported a [illegible] after dividends and foreign exchange adjustments of 13 cents a share and a cash position of $5,492,100. Net for 1930 equalled $[illegible] a share on the common but despite the decline in profits which according to some reports, has continued during the current year no change has been made in the dividend rate. In the latter connection recent unofficial statements were to the effect that the company earned its proportionate share of the annual payment on the common in the first two months this year.

Lambert Yield Reaches 20¼ P. C.

Lambert declined to a price representing a 20¼ per cent income based on the present $8 dividend. Pressure against the stock was connected with estimates of lower earnings for other similar enterprises this year and with the sudden death of a former executive of the company. However, official denial was subsequently made that the latter individual was a registered owner of the stock.

Telephone Reflects Short Covering

Relative firmness in American Telephone was attributed mainly to short covering. The stock was revealed in the official records as having a short account of more than 200,000 shares on April 4. Incidentally this is one of the few issues to show an increase in its short interest since Nov. 30 last year. On the latter date the bear account amounted to 169,000 shares.

American Radiator's Quick Asset Value

American Radiator and Sanitary common, according to the company's president, has joined the list of stocks selling in the market for its net current assets exclusive of all other assets.

Scale Accumulation Seen in Du Pont

There have been statements in some quarters for two days that excellent scale accumulation had been in progress in du Pont during the latest decline. The stock had been sold in sympathy with the weakness in General Motors, but many insisted that it had gone down more sharply than was justified by comparisons. Reports came from the floor several times that buying orders were coming into du Pont on a scale of ⅛ to ¼ down.

This absorbed many of the offerings which came into the issue and strengthened the technical position to such an extent that several floor traders were credited with having adopted the long side of the stock for the time being.

International Harvester's Truck Sales Viewed

Announcement that truck sales of International Harvester in the first quarter were in excess of the total for the same period a year ago was a surprise to many in the financial district. The showing was made possible by the intensive advertising and sales campaign and the special inducements offered to prospective buyers. Similar efforts are being made to develop other branches of the company's business in supplying agriculturalists and the outcome of these attempts will be of vast interest.

STOCKS LOWER IN BOSTON DEALINGS

Stocks were lower in today's dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange with changes ranging from fractions to 2 or more points. Rails rallied after dipping to new low levels in forenoon trading. Atchison was slightly higher after selling at a new low for the year.

New Haven advanced a point after touching a new 1932 minimum. Pennsylvania added a major fraction. New lows for the year were shown for American Telephone, Eastern Gas & Fuel, Nash Motors, Sullivan Machine, United Fruit and Waltham Watch prior preferred.

Edison Electric sagged 2 points after selling up a point in early dealings. Allis & Fisher dropped a point. Boston Elevated was down over a point to a new low for the year. Gillette and Swift International each showed fractional recessions. United Shoe was slightly higher.

Rumors that three largest textile plants in Lewiston, Me., were to be closed down was characterized as "utter nonsense" by Walter S. Wyman, president of Central Maine Power Co., and New England Public Utilities Co.

State St. Trust Buys Bond & Share

Stockholders of Pittsburgh Bond & Share Corp. have approved offer of State Street Investment Corp. to acquire assets on the basis of liquidating value as of April 15. Assets of Pittsburgh Bond & Share approximate $150,000. One share of State Street Investment Corp. will be exchanged for slightly more than two shares of Pittsburgh unit.

SPECTATOR Says:

The market continues to follow the same downward pattern it has displayed for several weeks. Selling comes out every time stocks lift their heads. Some of the leaders are showing less pressure, but the break in various specialties is unsettling. It looks as though the market will just have to sell itself out unless some exceptionally good news develops.

Bond & Share Buying

Recent steadiness in Electric Bond & Share would seem to confirm reports of good buying. Even trading commitments for the long-expected rally are few and far between, with the U. S. Steel and General Motors earnings reports and dividend action due in the next few weeks.

In addition to which the Telephone meeting looms and the likelihood that its $9 rate will be pared.

Here and There

There was some short selling in recent liquidation in Coca-Cola. The tip was pretty widespread. . . On the other hand, the so-called bears are doing little, on the belief there ought to be a temporary upturn before the week-end . . . The big short interest disclosed in Case Threshing has been its supporting factor . . . Better action of United Corp., if continued, would be significant, due to its sponsorship by the biggest fellows downtown.

Some of the selling in Standard of New Jersey has been influenced by reports the $1 extra would be omitted at the next meeting of the board . . . Scale-down investment trust buying has been coming into Air Reduction.

Worcester County After Financing

Worcester County will receive bids until April 18 for $200,000 Tuberculosis Hospital District notes due October 20, 1932, or one year from date.

Melrose will receive bids until April 20 for $300,000 loan dated April 21 and maturing $100,000 October 21 and $200,000 November 21.

Salem will receive bids until April 18 for $150,000 loan maturing November 3.

Hampden County will receive bids until April 27 for $100,000 loan maturing November 8.

Cabot Reduces Its Carbon Black Price

Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc., second largest producer, reduced the price of carbon black from 3 cents a pound to 2⅞ cents, the lowest price on record. Other producers have followed. The 3-cent price was established in February, 1931, after a series of reductions from the high level of 7 to 7¼ cents a pound in 1929.

Even at 3 cents, the carbon black producers could not show any profit after normal charges for depreciation. The 2⅞ cents price is effective to the close of this year.

Water Service Co. Revenues Decline

Annual report of the Scranton-Spring Brook Water Service Company, a subsidiary of the Federal Water Service Corporation, states that during 1931 operating revenues for the year amounted to $5,186,903, as compared with $5,262,089 in 1930.

Although earnings were maintained at a fairly constant level, it became apparent late in the year that the funding of the company's 1932 maturities would be a serious problem.

Chemicals Profit Returns Are Best

New York, April 14—Profits of chemical companies, in the aggregate, for 1931 declined only about 26 per cent, as compared with a 61 per cent decrease in total industrial earnings. The relatively satisfactory returns in this trade are attributed to the comparatively firm price structure for chemical products generally and the institution of substantial operating economies, in a current survey by the Standard Statistics Company, of New York.

Grains Are Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, April 14—Wheat prices rose today, influenced by failure of expected rains and by reports that the condition of domestic winter wheat crops Southwest was deteriorating daily. Further stimulus to buyers resulted from announcement that Italy would raise her wheat import quota 10 to 25 per cent, beginning April 28.

Opening unchanged to ⅛ higher, wheat afterward scored an all-around advance. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ off and subsequently tended upward.

At the annual meeting of Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. directors were re-elected with the exception of Thomas L. Chadbourne, who resigned during the year.

Bar Silver Is Steady

New York, April 14 (AP)—Bar silver today was steady and ⅛ lower at 27⅞.

BEAR COVERING BRINGS RALLY IN WALL ST.

New York, April 14—The stock market in Wal St. rebounded smartly after breaking to new lows in the early trading today. Not only were early losses of 1 to 4 points regained, but they were replaced by net advances of similar extent.

Peoples Gas was a high flier, shooting up more than 10 points. American Telephone completely regained an early drop of 4 points.

SOME GOOD GAINS

Issues getting 1 to 4 points above yesterday's final prices included U. S. Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Southern Pacific, North American, Public Service of New Jersey, New York Central and Union Pacific. The closing tone was strong. Transfers approximated 1,600,000 shares as bears covered in haste.

A sharp slump at the opening, suggestive of forced liquidation such as selling out of bank loan collateral, carried prices into new low ground for the cycle, but pressure abated, toward mid-day Standard of N. J., a soft spot yesterday, was persistently firm, rising a point. Lambert, similarly, got up 2 points. General Motors and General Electric were stable from the start.

The situation facing the Insull utility holding companies attracted much attention in Wall Street.

The sharp upturn in Peoples Gas and Commonwealth Edison coincided with a statement issued by Samuel Insull in Chicago that, whatever may be the troubles of Middle West Utilities, Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities Corp., the three holding companies, the financial stability of the three large operating companies was not affected.

ENCOURAGING STATEMENT

Bullish quarters in Wall Street felt that the financial community was slow in recognizing the potentialities of the Federal Reserve System's new and more aggressive credit expansion program. The statement of Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board before the House banking and currency committee that he was hopeful that we are now at a point where we will be able to hold the line was also regarded as encouraging.

Some important banking quarters felt that the success of the credit expansion program will depend upon the prevention of further serious shocks to confidence, but acknowledged that it may be highly effective, if "we are able to hold the line."

There was little further change in the money market, but there was considerable expectation that the New York Federal Reserve Bank might reduce its rediscount rate of 3 per cent either this week or next.

The Bank of England made no further change in its 3½ per cent rate, but its weekly statement showed improvement in its reserve ratio.

GRAY EXPECTS TRAFFIC GAIN

New York April 14 (AP)—Carl Gray, president of Union Pacific Railroad, said today he thought that road, in common with other western carriers, would have an upturn in tonnage traffic after August, although he was not sure this would be translated into substantial increases in revenues.

"The most hopeful sign in our territory now," he added, "is the good moisture condition of the soil. The wheat movement so far is only moderate. However, there is more wheat on the farms than at this time last year and this wheat must be moved some time."

Union Pacific's net railway operating income in March was better than in February, Mr. Gray said.

Anaconda's Loss in Year Is $3,151,726

Anaconda Copper Mining Co., including its subsidiaries, showed a consolidated net loss of $3,151,726 for 1931, the annual report just issued discloses. This compares with the 1930 net profit of $18,362,000, which was equal to $2.07 a share on the 8,911,561 shares of common stock outstanding, and with the record net of $69,116,000, or $8.29 a share for the year of 1929.

Gross income for the year was $96,387,705, compared with $179,332,797 in 1930. Net operating income for 1931 amounted to $7,208,838, compared with $31,126,270 in 1930. After all cash outlays by the company, but before charges for depreciation, there was a net income of $2,740,175.

$494,800 in U. S. Gold Sent to Holland

New York, April 14—Shipment of $494,000 to Holland constituted the only gold export here in the past 24 hours, according to the Federal Reserve Bank report. There was an import of $2,000,000 from Canada.

Earmarking for foreign account increased $35,000.

New Jersey Plans $21,000,000 Issue

State of New Jersey is expected to announce shortly the date for sale of $21,000,000 highway and institutional bonds, the Sinking Fund Commission decided yesterday.

Since the sale must be advertised for two weeks, tenders on the issue probably will be opened early in May.

A. & Sales Total $88,912,192 for the Past Five Weeks

Sales of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company for the five-week period ending April 2 were $88,912,192. This compares with $104,742,250 for the same period in 1931, and is a decrease of $15,830,058, or 15.11 per cent.

March sales, expressed in tons, were estimated as 520,198 this year, compared with 552,825 in March, 1931. This is a decrease in quantity of merchandise sold of 32,627 tons, or 5.90 per cent.

Average weekly sales in March were $17,782,438, compared with $20,948,450 in 1931, a decrease of $3,166,012. Average weekly tonnage sales were 104,040, compared with 110,565 in March, 1931, a decrease of 6525 tons.

Brazil to Trade Coffee for 500,000 Tons of Ruhr Coal

Washington, April 14—The Coffee Council of Brazil is working on a plan to exchange coffee for a half a million tons of Ruhr coal at prices to be determined by public bidding according to a cablegram released by the Commerce Department today from Commercial Attache Carlton Jackson, Rio de Janeiro. This amount of coal is equal to the average annual consumption of Brazil's state-owned railways and steamship lines.

In the absence of details concerning the grades of coffee and grades of coal being considered, it is impossible to estimate the quantity of coffee being offered for the 500,000 tons of coal.

The Coffee Council also announced its intention to increase the coffee destruction quota to 40,000 bags daily.

Coffee shipments from Brazil have been light the past week and the market is firm.

ADVICE TO INVESTORS IS FREE

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds, you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston. All replies are made by mail direct.

EARNINGS STILL GOOD

Miss R. S., Brookline—I have $4000 in a savings bank and have been advised to buy North American Edison preferred. What is your opinion of it? I work for a living, but my position may be terminated at any moment.

Ans.—In that event $2000 in the savings bank might be retained. This suggestion does not reflect on North American Edison preferred which has paid dividends of 6 per cent annually since issuance in 1924, from which time, including 1930, annual earnings have averaged more than $54 a share. Net for 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1931, was $41.61 a share.

DEFER ACTION

J. M., Waltham—I am much in need of good advice. I am 45, at present unemployed, partly because of ill health. I have close to $7000 in savings banks and should like to invest about $6000 in good securities. I am living on my savings now, could use more income, but cannot afford to lose a penny.

Ans.—Under the circumstances, we think a cash position is the most desirable one for you. Until you are in a position to earn something you will probably have to continue using your savings for daily needs. Defer the purchase of securities until your health has been completely restored and you are able to find steady employment.

COOK-COOS

Mayor of Buenos Aires has removed all easy chairs from the City Hall, "as a rebuke to indolent city employes."

Of course no mayor would ever go so far as to remove the indolent city employes.

* * *

If the easy chairs were ever removed from a city hall in North America it would be by the furniture man who takes them in on a trade for sofas.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

THE VOICE OF BROADWAY

By LOUIS SOBOL

Much Ado About Night Clubs and Such!

This mad town of ours, whether you believe it or not, is routine in its favorite diversions. I mean by that simply this: that though our lads and gals of Broadway will toss themselves into a synthetic frenzy over some sensational new-comer to the theater, whether it be a player, a play or an author; will wrap themselves into frantic knots of enthusiasm over a new ditty or a new singer; will go shouting fervent hallelujahs to the purplish skies of Manhattan over some new, usually short-lived thrill; you'll find in the long run that nothing takes the place of a certain few of Broadway's standardized offerings. The real Broadwayite looks forward annually to these affairs, i. e., the premiere of a Ziegfeld, Carroll or White show; the outstanding heavyweight championship bout; the first and last nights of the six-day bicycle races; the automobile show; and, paradoxically enough, since it takes place way up in Harlem, the new Cotton Club Revue. Why Broadway should throw itself into a fret over a night club opening, I can't tell you, but it does—and every half year when a new show opens in the famous Harlem rendezvous, you can bet your last share of steel that you'll find everyone who counts or thinks he counts clamoring for a floorside table at the Cotton Club. This was true Sunday night when about 300 people were turned away, including a columnist who arrived too late. (No, not I.)

Perhaps the success of the Cotton Club shows—or let us say their popularity—may be attributed to the fact that they are staged like a Broadway musical production. That is to say, they have a producer, Dan Healey; a librettist, Ted Koehler; a composer, Harold Arlen; a dance director, a lass named Elida Webb—and, of course, above all, there is that amazing genius, Cab Calloway—just as in former years there has been Duke Ellington. Now, it is not my purpose to go into detail on the merits of the entertainment furnished. It is a spicy, bewilderingly lightning-paced show and some of the songs are extremely ribald—a stoutish, low-voiced gal, Lethia Hill, sings them—and some of the songs are sweetly sentimental—these are offered by Aida Ward—and some of them are those scat-songs of the Minnie the Moocher type — Cab Calloway moans these out. The sensation—and I use the word without reservation of the new show, however, is a duo of sepian youngsters known as the Nicholas Brothers, whose amazing, almost unbelievable dances, will be the talk of the town for months to come.

Out of this Harlem night club have floated a succession of song hits which have swept to popularity throughout the country—even to England and Paris. "Linda" originated at the Cotton Club; "I Love a Parade," "Kicking the Gong Around," "The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea," to mention a few, all written by Koehler and Arlen.

An idea of a typical opening night crowd at the Cotton Club. Sunday night brought out Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Lillian Roth, Roger Wolfe Kahn and his wife, Hannah Williams, Art Jarrett, Mary Brian, the Jesse Crawfords, Lou Holtz, Nat Burns and Grace Allen; Jack Benny, Fred Waring, Aunt Jemima, Lew Leslie—well, that'll serve the purpose. It may seem ridiculous—particularly to the folks in the provinces, to raise such a fuss about the opening of a night club where sepian entertainers are the attraction, but Broadway does—year in and year out.

On second thought, there are a few other events in the night club field that attract attention. Thus, for instance, the annual Hollywood Restaurant revue. Here, too, we have a night club extravaganza staged by a well-known Broadwayite, Nils T. Granlund, better known as N. T. G. Unlike the Cotton Club, the Hollywood concentrates on the beauty of its girls and their daring undress. It also features novelties, such as acrobatic teams, sensational adagio dancers, roller-skaters and usually an exciting act in which one gent is attacked by three other gents because of a gal, and whips them all. Occasionaly a knife is thrown, which pierces the girl's heart. At other times it's a bullet. Sometimes the characters are Japs. Lately they've been Mexicans. Out of the Hollywood, Ziegfeld, Carroll and occasionally White, pick their girls. A Hollywood opening becomes an event of importance, therefore, chiefly because most of us are curious to inspect Granny's new finds in the field of beauty.

The premiere of a Paramount Grill show is another Broadway event. Here dancing and musical ability are of more importance than beauty, although the present crop of Paramount coryphees compare favorably with any of the beauties of the town. The production is the thing here: LeRoy Prinz being the lad who handles the show. A star of the theatrical field is usually the big attraction. Thus, the Paramount grill in the past had had Gus Van, Jack Osterman, Hal LeRoy, Chaz Chase, Dan Healy, George Givot, and at present, Beth Challis.

Another famous Harlem club has openings of importance. Connie's Inn. Here we have a typical, fast-moving sepian show with the usual features that distinguish Harlem's better night clubs. An attraction for several seasons has been a lass named Louise Cook, who offers a provocative cooch dance that leaves even blase Broadway gasping. Usually the setting is an African jungle, with tom-tom drums, a lost explorer, a malicious medicine man and the customary preliminaries take place, necessary, I presume, to inspire the scantily-clad gal to flop to the floor and rise slowly and sinuously and weave into her exciting dance. A little sepian firebrand, Baby Cox, has been a fixture at Connie's, too—and has her following.

As a rule, Will Oakland's Terrace does not attract the Broadway crowd, catering rather to the quieter folks of the suburbs who come into the city once or twice a week, seeking excitement. But an Oakland opening is also a Broadway event. Here the proprietor himself and his high radio-popularized tenor is the chief attraction, although of late season he has been refashioning his shows and undressing his girls down to Broadway standards in order to be able to sit by and let others do the work. Oakland's Terrace is trying to be naughty but doesn't quite succeed, for which most of us are truly grateful. There is an intimacy about this place that is highly attractive and somewhat restful to the nerves and while no outstanding songs hits ever came out of the Terrace nor any personalities emerged to star in bigger fields, the club manages to be among the few retaining a consistent popularity.

It wasn't my intention when I started this column to devote it to New York's night clubs. I merely wanted to dwell upon the peculiarity of Broadway psychology which places such importance upon events as wide apart as a Ziegfeld opening, a heavyweight championship fight, a six-day bicycle race and a Harlem night club opening.

$300,000 GEMS RECOVERED

New York, April 14 (AP)—The Glemby gems, worth $300,000, have been recovered.

Stolen in January by men who forced their way into the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glemby, the gems were taken from two women arrested as they sought to dispose of them for $50,000 to a policeman they believed to be a "fence." Three men also were arrested.

Even when the women believed they were about to dispose of the jewels to the "fence," they tried to rob him, too, for the jewels were in a bag carried by one woman, and another bag, identical in appearance, but containing crockery, was in the hands of the other.

Motorist Is Killed as Train Hits Car

More Relief Scandals

Robbing the Really Deserving

And now comes Medford—latest of the Massachusetts cities in which soldiers' aid is found to have degenerated into a racket and common scandal.

Soldiers' aid funds are being paid from the public treasury, it is charged, to some people who have fat bank accounts, to some who own substantial homes, to some who drive expensive automobiles and live on the fat of the land, to some who have established criminal records and who have thereby put themselves beyond the pale of good citizenship.

Soldiers' aid represents only the generous desire of the people of Massachusetts to supply proper and adequate relief to the needy dependents of the men who served their country in war and who have been deprived by the hurts and wounds of war of the ability to take care of their own.

Every dollar cheated from soldiers' aid is a dollar cheated away from the needy and deserving. Every dollar cheated from soldiers' aid is an extra dollar needlessly and dishonestly added to the heavy tax burdens already borne by the much-overtaxed people.

The vast majority of our war veterans are fine, decent men. Surely they want no scandals and errant dishonesties to be built upon the service they have done their country. They do not want their bravery to be capitalized by cheap chiselers. Perhaps they will now decide to co-operate with the State and city officials everywhere from the Cape to the Berkshires to put an end to these disgraceful scandals.

Fine Stand on Dry Law

Comment by Christian Register

The Christian Register, official publication of the Unitarian Church, published in Boston, states a splendid attitude on prohibition.

The Register believes in the present law. It believes that the economic condition of the people has been improved. It is not convinced that the bootlegger and racketeer are worse than the saloon-keeper. It believes that the national poll of the Literary Digest is honest enough but contains enough loopholes to make it unauthentic.

Yet, on top of all its predilections, the Christian Register declares as follows:

"We are not among those who would stand off a testing of the mind of the people on this question by a legitimate and democratic method.

"If a majority, however small, wants drink legalized in some form, we are in favor of knowing that they do, and of making our laws conform.

"It is better to have the modified baleful effects of sanctioned drink than the unspeakable curse of undemocratic laws. We are ready to vote—and to count the vote."

That is a brave and fine declaration in favor of democracy. It is a fine conception that the people are entitled to have a government of their own choosing and laws which meet their own decision and their own conscience.

When the prohibition law comes to be modified, as common sense requires that it must be changed, it is the moderate, sensible people like these on both sides of the question who should be consulted. We should not leave the settlement of this important subject to the fanatics on either side.

New England Ingenuity

New England ingenuity is the greatest asset of New England industry.

In Maine, in the past five years, they have developed one thousand new uses for the wood from their forests. Maine may be the mother of prohibition but her shrewd manufacturers are not averse to making the wooden stoppers for whiskey bottles.

Mr. Alfred W. Donovan of Rockland, Mass., you may know, is one of our most successful shoe manufacturers. He has had the machines in his factory painted many different colors, attuning them to the lighting facilities in each department in order to relieve eye-strain and fatigue from the operatives.

Mr. Donovan means well. And has done well. New England developed the wooden nutmeg. Now that we have gone in for mechanical art, it may be New England ingenuity will produce the hen that will lay the colored Easter egg. And save the expense of dyestuffs.

How Canada Does It

Dr. William H. Murphy of Brookline tells us he was impressed by two interesting phases of Canadian national life which he studied recently.

First, the sales tax as it operates there is a painless tax. Like our gasoline tax, it is paid in pennies or little amounts and nobody feels the pinch of it. The sales tax does not whack them once a year like our income or the real estate tax in a large sum that flattens our pocketbook and leaves us broke.

Secondly, he found a quite common expectation among the Canadian people that they will be absolved from all taxes if we keep prohibition long enough. They realize they have received many hundreds of millions of dollars that would have been paid into our treasury, reducing our own government expenses, if we had been intelligent enough to handle the liquor problem as they have done.

Prohibition has been a "noble experiment" for them, if not for us.

The Abolished Switch

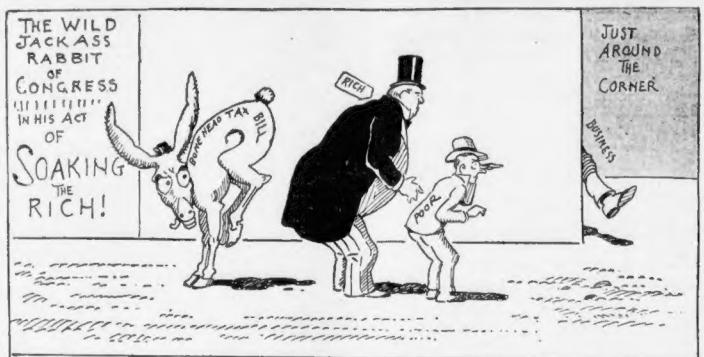
The newest survey of our teaching system reveals that the switch is quite obsolete. The teacher who wishes to enhance the brightness of his class either has to make his lessons more interesting or stir up rivalry among his pupils. The chief obstacle to learning, it seems, is cussedness.

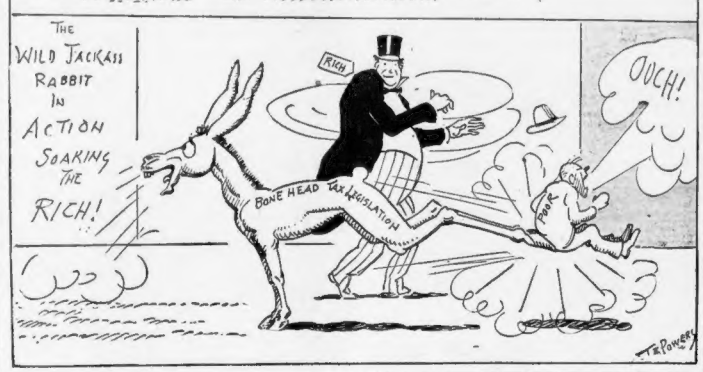
Teachers a generation ago used to cure this by flogging. There is the story of a schoolmaster famed for his exploits with the switch, and who shouted:

"I pardon ignorance—often; indolence—sometimes; but insolence—never!" (Whack!)

Modern psychology insists there never was a direct relation between whacks on the hide and high marks in algebra. Sweet reasonableness cannot be established by the laying-on of the paddle. The day of the classroom Legree is over, but nobody can see that good manners have increased very much.

The "Kick of the Wild" -:- By T. E. Powers





Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Double-Crossed Myself

"OFTEN YOU talk about people failing one another," a woman writes me, "and you say we should not be bitter at such times. But what do you, personally, do if someone fails you?"

Well, lady, being human, I usually get mad—mad—as hops! Then sorry for myself — so sorry! But gradually I cool off and try and use a little sense.

Failed me, have they? Well, suppose they have.

Why should I be surprised and shocked because a friend fails me? HOW OFTEN HAVE I FAILED MYSELF?

Elsie Robinson

Now surely, if anyone should be loyal to me, I myself should be loyal. The other fellow may make a profit by failing me, but I can't possibly profit by failing myself.

In spite of all this need of and desires to be true to myself, this is what happens:

NEVER A DAY PASSES BUT I DOUBLE-CROSS MYSELF—SELL OUT MY OWN PROGRAM!

I do it in dozens of ways.

Through laziness—
Through cowardice—
Through stupidity—
Through vanity—
Through carelessness—

Through some secret perversity in me which makes me choose a crooked way, when I might take the straight.

Through all these flaws in my own nature, I betray myself!

I don't mean to betray myself. I don't think I am betraying myself. Often I do not realize, until long after, that I have betrayed myself—but I have!

And so, when a friend fails me, I no longer rave bitterly about ingratitude—vow to "never trust another living soul."

I turned shamed, reluctant eyes to my own secret record, and I say: "How can you blame that other one for doing this to you, when you have done this to yourself?

"He had a thousand interests to serve. You had only one—yourself—yet you could not be true to that one interest.

"You blame him because he could not control his selfishness, his greed or his silliness when your happiness was involved. Yet you, who are the first guardian of your own happiness, couldn't control your own cussedness. Then why be so bitter at him?

"Look at the dreadful things you have done to your own life—the opportunities you have passed up; the work you have left unfinished; the beauty you have spoiled; the vows you have broken. All this you have done to yourself. Yet you still can forgive yourself and have fresh faith in yourself. CAN YOU NOT THEN FORGIVE HIM AND HAVE FRESH FAITH IN HIM. WHO HAS DONE SO MUCH LESS INJURY TO YOU?"

What do I say when people fail me.

That's what I say—sometimes.

And the rest of the time—well, I act just as ornery as you do, stranger. For preaching is one thing and practicing is quite another.

New York Day by Day

Heartless Broadway

NEW YORK, April 14—In those frenzied hieroglyphics distracted people often pencil on tablecloths psychologists are reported to find answers to many hidden perplexities. So I wonder about one left on a cafe table last night reading: "The Great White Way! ! Bah. Hooey!"

A waiter, questioned, revealed his last patron was a pale customer who ate but little, and sat staring with chin cupped in his hands. Thus the scrawl may have been an inarticulate version of Arthur James' elegiac: "Broadway is a bowl of champagne, with roses on top and thorns underneath."

The Broadway heartlessness was hideously stressed during the economic pandemonium. A policeman was forced to scatter a group of curb comedians who were fashioning puns at the expense of the forlorn breadline shuffling toward the evening dole of sandwiches and coffee.

Many of the victims once tasted the warmth of the street's pseudo-cordiality. Their unhappy plight symbolized the philosopher's line: "Going up take Broadway — down Sixth avenue." The famous thoroughfare is interested only in the success of the eternal now.

Nowhere does the failure so feel the withering scorn of his defeat.

• • •

In the same cafe of the hieroglyphics a big shot among bootleggers sat with a bright blonde and several others. He is one of the reputed quick-on-the-gat boys who shaves with a blow torch. Suddenly the blonde, pointing, cried: "Look, he's blushing." And the mug was.

A great American magazine editor turned down William McFee's famous novel "Casuals of the Sea" with this curt rubrication: "Without form but not void; an able, unpleasant, shapeless book, of interest perhaps to a few. I would not publish it." All of which may comfort a few moaners over rejection slips.

A stage comedian sneers at a rival for "running around town wearing a pomeranian in his buttonhole."

In the white translucence of the asphalted esplanade back of the Central Park museum, society continues a moonlight roller skating craze. Among skaters are innumerable debutantes and divers social high-ups. It has the happy quality of being cheap and for the moment exclusive, aside from not being bad for the arnica business. One haughty lady was making her way about with short and quick tickety-tack strokes, gazing condescendingly at the world through a lorgnette. Being a low mind dolt, I found myself feverishly rooting for her to go pas-at into a sudden split.

• • •

My spiteful reaction to the lorgnette dates to my first week in the city when I accompanied H. T. Webster to a seat down front at the Globe, wearing a high white attached collar zebra-striped in passionate purple. The conceit utterly fascinated a dowager who singled me out with her lorgnette for constant staring. Webster excused himself at intermission ostensibly to smoke, but never returned, the cur. Nor did I muff the inquisitive murmur of a nearby suit - holder: "What's the collar gag—advertising?"

Just Folks

Gar Wood and Chess

Gar Wood, the water king of speed,
Upon a pleasure trip
Observed two men of different breed
Play chess upon the ship.
He watched them sitting thinking there
Before a piece they'd move,
And nervously he said: "I swear
That game I can improve.
"Though nothing of that sport I know,
From all that I can see
The moves they make are much too slow
To hold a charm for me.
They sit and sit and squirm and twist
And think and groan and fret;
Three good long hours of life they've missed
And nothing's happened yet!"
He paced the deck four times and came
To view them at their fray
And found the chessboard still the same
As when he'd gone away.
"Good Heavens!" he cried, "this thing won't do.
It's much too slow indeed!
'Twould be much better fun if you
Would show a little speed."
He pulled a stop watch from his coat
And said: "Get going now!
For every move you make, please note,
Five seconds I'll allow.
Start up your wooden conquering hordes!
The penalties I'll call."
They raced the bishops round the board
But it wasn't chess at all.

Lesson From Germany

By Claude G. Bowers

THE GERMAN PEOPLE again have stood by Hindenburg, the iron man, against the Communists and the Hitlerites; which means they have stood by the republic and democratic institutions. The most significant phase of the second poll is that the Communists, in great numbers, went over to the Hitlerites—because of their common cause against the republic and democracy. The much-vaunted combined strength of both the extreme parties turns out to be two and a quarter million less than the vote for Hindenburg.

This is all the more amazing because economic conditions have literally wiped out the upper middle class and is threatening to eliminate the lower middle class. When men have lost all, they are apt to clamor for any change, and to want it without understanding its ultimate effect upon themselves.

But the German nation has not been unmindful of the masses of the people even under the Hohenzollerns: it has interested itself as a state in the condition of the workers: and has adopted means to serve their interests, which explains their conservatism under the most appalling economic pressure.

Wagner Has the Bismarck Vision

There is a lesson in all this for the American people. Richard von Kuhlmann, distinguished German statesman and diplomat, has written a brilliant and illuminating book, "Thoughts on Germany." It is conservatively phrased and is rich in the red meat of thought. It is fascinating.

He tells us of the social insurance of his country. Conceived and sponsored by a German Communist or Socialist? No—by Bismarck, who spent much of his life fighting socialism. Bismarck was a statesman; and a great statesman, because a realist, who appreciated the human equation, however much he despised the average individual. Says the author:

"Prince Bismarck was himself the creator of a social insurance system which has been reproduced in its main outlines by all civilized States with the exception of America—a proof that it is fundamentally just and answers to the need of the time."

And again he says:

"America is the only country that has thought fit to dispense with any kind of social insurance."

And he adds:

"The present serious wave of unemployment makes it doubtful whether this in the long run will be possible."

And then he drives this suggestion home:

"If one had a choice between the circumstances created by the present unemployment in the United States and those that prevail in Germany, a country of highly developed, perhaps too highly developed social insurances, no one who knows the conditions would deny that the German system is more practical and more efficient in the avoidance of acute peril to the State than the American neglect of any preventative relief."

Senator Wagner has pending in Congress a proposition for unemployment insurance which is being fought by those who insist that, even in these days, the State owes no duty to the unemployed. Wagner has the Bismarck vision in this regard.

• • •

The Fault of Organized Society

It is interesting—this indifference of the national Government to the human equation in the present crisis—in view of the announcement of relief conditions in New York city—one spot on the American map. We are warned that there is a danger that the city's relief work will collapse the first of June, unless an additional $20,000,000 is found to fight starvation. We hear much of what the President has done, what the national Government has done to prevent starvation, but they have done practically nothing.

• • •

No Time for Playing the Ostrich Act

These are not times for playing the ostrich act with the realities. As a nation, we have more than 4,000,000 breadwinners out of work; and more than 40,000,000 who are in distress; and but for the charity activities of private organizations, individuals, states and municipalities, we would literally have millions who would starve.

But before they would starve they would fight. Abandon the work now being done to prevent actual starvation, and one of two things, or both, would happen. One would be a resort to violence and crime. Even Daniel Willard, a railroad president, told a bankers' convention that personally he would steal before he would starve. And there would be another effect—the millions in misery would turn against the republic and the established order and affiliate with subversive forces. This is not "sensationalism." It is not a theory. It is a fact based on human nature and the history of mankind.

• • •

Nothing Has Been Done

Most individuals are giving as much as they can.

Most local governmental units have given as much as they dare.

Only the National Government in Washington has made a virtue of doing nothing.

We are bluntly told the Federal Government will not give a penny for the feeding of the hungry. It has refused to consider a proper program of public works to furnish jobs. We are told all this is the problem of the "individual" organized society, our social fabric is endangered and we are told that the national government, the agency of organized society, has no concern in the matter.

There are two imperative needs for the immediate present—the feeding of hungry families and their right to work, and their women and children; and the finding of work for wages for the unemployed.

The first need has been denied as far as the national government is concerned. But should such work as is being done today by the municipality of New York collapse, Congress may have to vote on the same proposition again.

The plan for a prosperity loan to create jobs still is pending, but the prospect of the passage is not promising. Our business men and statesmen are going to increase the load of the unemployed by sinking goods for which there is no demand, without restoring the purchasing power of the millions whose loss of purchasing power with the loss of their jobs has so reduced the work in factories that there is no need for additional workers.

So nothing has been done to meet the immediate needs.

• • •

That Is Also a Tragedy

With such indifference to immediate needs, it is perhaps too much to interest the National Government in measures of prevention for the future; measures to give to workers a sense of security; measures of readjustment in the industrial field to meet the challenge of the machine age.

In truth, in the midst of the greatest shock organized society has had since the fall of the Roman Empire no one in America, among those in position to act, is showing the slightest disposition to face realities and put our political, social and industrial house in order to meet the future by reforms that can be made without doing violence to the traditional American concept of the state. That is a tragedy.

Pepping Up the Show

They are making a big shindy in Ireland over the management of the Sweepstakes lottery drawing. A show was staged in the hall, with a regiment of snappy blondes in Napoleonic costume, kicking up a la Ziegfeld.

The critics didn't know why a revue should be dragged in like that and are loud in their disapproval. They are a lot of old fogies. What's the use of hiring a hall if not to bring in the crowds? And what can bring in a crowd so fast as a revue—the dessert which has nothing to do with the main dish?

Think how dull the exhibition of mining machinery, or annual display of road-mending apparatus or the farm tractor show would be without a lot of platinum chorines bouncing about on the stage.

Bathing beauties were once confined to two-reel comedies, now they are an adjunct to Big Business. Presumably, the higher they kick and the louder they shout, the better times will be. Sex appeal cannot be isolated from economics.
